A LANDSLIDE FOR DEMOCRATS

New York by Million Votes; Two La Follettes Holding Leads

California Beats Sinclair; Congress Continues 'New Deal'

COPELAND WINS WITH LEHMAN IN RECORD TOTALS

One Congress Seat Changes Hands.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 6.—[Special.]—A tremendous tide of Democratic votes swept Herbert H. Lehman back into the governor's chair in New York for a second successive term today. His indicated plurality over his Republican opponent, Robert Moses, was about a million.

New York City, complete gave Lehman, 1,207,620; Moses, 407,158; city plurality for Lehman, 800,462. Outside city, 4,092 election districts out of 5,104, Lehman, 860,009; Mosses, 798,289; up-state plurality for Lehman, 61,720. Combined totals, Lehman, 2,067,629; Moses, 1,205,447; plurality for Lehman, 862,182.

Senator Royal S. Copeland also won by an enormous margin over E. Harold Cluett, the Republican candidate.

The vote was New York City, complete, Copeland, 1,122,782; Cluett, 384,252; city plurality for Copeland, 738,530. Upstate, 3,522 election districts out of 5,104, Copeland, 688,815; Cluett, 698,019; upstate plurality for Cluett, 15,303. Combined totals, Copeland, 1,811,597; Cluett, 1,082,271; plurality for Copeland in entire state, 729,326.

State Victory Complete.

The Democratic victory in the state was complete. As a result of the sweep, the Democrats increased their majority in the state senate from one to eight, and gained control of the assembly by electing either 76 or 77 of the 150 assemblymen. For the first time in many years, the Democrats will have control of both houses of the legislature.

In New York City the La Guardia administration was dealt a stunning blow when the Tammany candidate for controler, Frank J. Taylor, beat the fusion-Republican candidate, Joseph D. McGoldrick, by about 30,000.

The overwhelming defeat of Moses was apparent as soon as the first returns began coming in. Farley's claim of a 600,000 plurality for Lehman soon appeared a modest one. Three hours after the polls closed at 6 p. m. Moses conceded defeat. He was beaten even in his own city district.

The Tammany Tiger's roar of triumph was deafening as the completeness of the Democratic victory became apparent. Lehman's plurality was unprecedented. It surpassed the plurality of 725,000 given Franklin D. Roosevelt for governor in 1930 and Lehman's own previous record plurality of 847,000 two years ago.

Mrs. O'Day Wins.

Mrs. Caroline O'Day, for whom Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt conducted a personal campaign, won a seat in the house of representatives by an indicated plurality of 703,000 over her Republican rival, Miss Natalie Couch. The participation of Mrs. Roosevelt in the campaign and the bitterness of charges hurled at the President's wife that she was exercising her "personal pull" to get votes for her friend, Mrs. O'Day, made the contest one of the outstanding female races in the national election.

Mrs. O'Day and Mrs. Roosevelt met at Democratic headquarters. They kissed, and with Postmaster General Farley, posed for photographers.

Gain Congress Seat.

The first switch in the New York congressional lineup tonight came with the election of James P. B. Duffy, Democrat, in the 38th district, Monroe county. Duffy defeated the Republican incumbent, James L. Whitley. All other sitting congressmen seemed to be reëlected.

The voters by an overwhelming majority approved proposition 1, authorizing the flotation by the state of a $40,000,000 bond issue for unemployment relief.

Flushed and shouting henchmen gathered around the Farley headquarters, where the postmaster general was in constant communication with President Roosevelt at Hyde Park. Never was the cheerful Jim more joyous as he announced: "This is the most marvelous indorsement of President Roosevelt's administration ever given to any administration by this state in a by-election.

High Lights of Election Battle

The Democrats—

(In the East.)

Won Massachusetts by 3 to 2 vote.
Defeated Senator Felix Hebert in Rhode Island.
Beat Senator Fess (Rep.) in Ohio by a 3 to 2 vote.
Defeated Senator Hatfield (Rep.) in West Virginia by 50,000.
Elected Gov. A. Harry Moore to senate from New Jersey.
Won governorship and senatorship in Connecticut.

(In the Middle West.)

Beat Fred Britten, Oscar DePriest and P. H. Moynihan, G. O. P. congressmen in Chicago.
Licked Senator A. R. Robinson in Indiana.
Won Nebraska race for U. S. senator.
Re-elected Gov. Berry in South Dakota.

(In the Far West.)

Won race for both long and short term for U. S. senate in Montana.

These were the outstanding high spots. Interesting details of these and other races will be found on other pages.

NEW YORK PAYS $1,125 SO RABBI CAN CAST VOTE

New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—It cost the city about $1,125 today for Rabbi Nathan Wolf to vote.

He was the only voter in the 40th precinct of the Tenth assembly district. Four election officials and two policemen waited until the rabbi, carrying a book of poems, arrived at the polls at 512 7th avenue.

"I am an enrolled Democrat," he said, "and I am going to vote for the present governor. I think he is a very good man. I am, nevertheless, going to split my ticket."

Even though their work was done, the election officials had to wait until 6 p. m. to close the polls.

Casts Ballot at Polls, Is Mother an Hour Later

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 6.—(AP)—One hour before she became the mother of a baby girl, Mrs. George Corriveau went to the polls and cast her ballot for the Democratic slate here today.

State Goes for Merriam by a Great Margin

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—California today decisively rejected Upton Sinclair, Democratic nominee for governor, and his radical EPIC program.

With 7,091 of the state's 10,721 precincts reported the vote for governor was: Frank F. Merriam, Republican and acting governor, 629,618; Sinclair, 504,205, and Raymond Haight, independent, 143,689.

Loses Even Los Angeles.

When 7,972 precincts had been counted, including the territory in and about Los Angeles, where Sinclair was supposed to be strongest, Merriam had a lead of more than 40,000, and this was increased as further returns were counted. The Sacramento and San Joacquin valleys gave Merriam largest majorities.

Sinclair's radical running mate, Sheridan Downey, was running a close race for the post of lieutenant governor. Although an avowed radical, Downey went through the campaign without being attacked vigorously, as his chief was. With 4,969 precincts in, George J. Hatfield, conservative Republican, was leading Downey only by 355,563 to 328,687.

Expect Bigger Lead.

Political experts were of the opinion that the later counting would increase the leads of both Merriam and Hatfield. The rural counties that had come in were strongly for the conservative candidates.

Acting Gov. Merriam had based his campaign on a plea for "sanity in politics." The campaign was one of the bitterest in California's history. Not only did Sinclair's grandiose promise to end poverty by political legerdemain attract great crowds of moneyless pilgrims to the state, hoping to live off the fat of his land, but charges of atheism were leveled at the Democratic nominee. His own voluminous writings were quoted to prove the points his opponents wished to make.

Sinclair Ahead Upstate.

One of the surprises of the balloting was the strength shown by Merriam in Los Angeles. Another was the fact that in the earliest returns from San Francisco Sinclair led.

The Democratic national administration, which had centered its efforts on retaining a strong congressional delegation from California to Washington, seemed to be successful. Indications were at least eleven and possibly fourteen of the state's seats would be Democratic.

A number of representatives pledged to EPIC were elected to the state legislature, it was indicated. One of those in the lead for a state senate seat was Culbert L. Olson, Sinclair's campaign manager.

Late tonight Merriam issued a statement declaring that the state had "overwhelmingly rejected radicalism and Socialism."

"Adherence to Sound Methods."

"My election, which was assured by nonpartisan support in which Republicans and Democrats enthusiastically joined," he said, "represents positive adherence to sound and tested methods in government and economics. We have demonstrated the essential common sense of the people of California.

"For more than a year Mr. Sinclair has used his skill as a writer and his ability as a political propagandist to create class antagonism and political unrest in the state.

"The defeat of Sinclairism in California does not reflect in any sense a victory for reactionarism. The people of California are progressive and my election was made possible by the support of progressives of all shades of opinion. We shall go steadily forward in the interests of economic rehabilitation."

Advantage Is General.

Merriam's advantage appeared to be general. In Los Angeles county, which contains approximately 45 per cent of the state's voting strength, Merriam was getting about six votes to Sinclair's five.

In 25 of the 58 counties Merriam had a lead of 2 to 1 or better and had a comfortable margin in the San Francisco and Alameda [Oakland] counties. The "EPIC" race was close in eleven counties but only two of them, Sacramento and San Diego, were sizable so far as voting power was concerned.

PARTY RETAINS ALL MAJOR JOBS IN COOK COUNTY

1,400,000 at Polls; Off Year Record.

BY PARKE BROWN.

By a vote of better than 2 to 1, the Democratic ticket in Cook county captured every major local office at stake in yesterday's election.

Even the unofficial figures were far from complete early this morning, but the totals were unnecessary to prove the full extent of the victory.

The Democrats not only retained the big patronage offices, but they kept possession apparently of most of the places on the county board and the drainage board.

Unprecedented Turnout Occurs.

It was a day of record breaking from start to finish. On the face of the incomplete returns there was a total vote in the county of 1,400,000, a high mark exceeded only by the 1,696,802 cast in the presidential election two years ago. A comparison was afforded by the last preceding off year, 1930, when the total vote was only 1,108,168. The incomplete figures waranted estimates that more than 80 per cent of the registered vote was cast.

The day passed quietly and without disturbances of a serious nature. By at least 6 to 1, the Democrats working at the polls outnumbered the Republicans, who have no patronage in any field of governmental office, but the polling places were quiet, steady streams of voters entering them in an orderly manner all day long.

So great was the Democratic success that the first comment of a post-election nature was that there can be little if any hope for any Republican in the mayoral election next spring, particularly if Mayor Kelly is the Democratic nominee.

Vindicates Democrats' Claims.

Accurate comparison with past record majorities such as the James Hamilton Lewis margin of 470,000 in Cook county in 1930 or the county majority for Gov. Horner in 1932, which was 450,329, was not possible, but the returns received indicated that these marks had not been beaten.

Nevertheless projections of the figures that came in showed that the margin of victory exceeded even the forecasts of the Democratic management, which were that they would sweep through by 200,000.

The estimates were that County Judge Jarecki, upon whom the opposition centered its attacks in the last few days of the campaign, won reëlection by about 370,000 over Municipal Judge Samuel Heller. In 1930 Judge Jarecki's majority was 239,892.

The indications were that, despite the fight upon him in the name of election reform, Judge Jarecki won by an even greater margin than did some of the Democrats not subjected to such strenuous races.

Sweitzer Crushes Kearns.

County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer, who is known as a champion vote getter, won the county treasurership by an estimated majority of about 350,000, but he was opposed by one of the most dangerous men on the Republican slate, City Treasurer James A. Kearns.

Similarly, Ald. John Toman won for sheriff over James P. Ringley, a young service man new to the political arena, but his indicated majority was only 290,000. County Recorder Clayton Smith had to meet the tax limitation catch-vote appeal of George F. Nixon for the presidency of the county board and his indicated lead was about 316,000.

Ald. John S. Clark won more easily for the office of county assessor, apparently defeating Ald. James C. Moreland by about 370,000.

Other Races End Similarly.

Police returns on these five offices were received by telephone and those on other offices were delivered by messenger, a much slower process. Therefore estimates of the fights for the probate judgeship, the board of tax appeals, the clerkships of the Probate and Criminal courts and for the sanitary district and county boards were considered not well enough founded for accuracy.

Although the Probate and Criminal court places, the two tax board jobs and the Sanitary district trusteeships all went to Democrats, the outcome

Democrats Win All Seats on City Courts

The Democratic landslide in Cook county yesterday swept into office every Democratic candidate for the Municipal court. Six sitting Republican judges, including Judges John F. Haas, Theodore F. Ehler, and Howard Hayes, veterans of the court, were defeated.

Five sitting judges were reëlected and seven new judges were elected. Those reëlected are Judges Matthew D. Hartigan, Frank M. Padden, Francis Borrelli, Gibson E. Gorman, and Harold P. O'Connell.

List of New Judges.

The new judges elected are Stephen Adamowski, 3045 Milwaukee avenue; Eugene L. McGarry, 657 Roscoe street; Le Roy Hackett, 6043 Kenmore avenue; Joseph J. Drucker, 2000 South Loomis street; Joseph B. Hermes, 5426 South Bishop street; George B. Weiss, 2349 South Clifton Park avenue, and J. M. Braude, 3934 Pine Grove avenue.

Returns from 800 precincts out of 3,127 in the city gave the following vote for the Municipal court candidates:

DEMOCRATIC.		REPUBLICAN.
Hartigan	198,270	Huss	92,890
Padden	195,561	Helander	85,648
Borrelli	194,635	Hayes	85,012
Gorman	189,280	Erickson	78,872
O'Connell	195,205	Ehler	81,501

On the possibility that the Illinois Supreme court may overrule the recent decision of County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, which declared Judge Charles F. IGOE-BRENNAN DOWN BROOKS IN ILLINOIS SWEEP

Britten Eliminated; So Is De Priest.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Democrats made a sweep in Illinois on state offices and gained three seats in congress, on the face of incomplete returns from yesterday's election.

For congressman at large [two to be elected] Michael L. Igoe and Martin A. Brennan, Democrats, were running in Chicago two to one ahead of C. Wayland Brooks and Milton E. Jones, Republicans.

When two-thirds of Chicago's precincts had reported Igoe, who led the Democratic ticket, was given a lead of 243,000 over Brooks, the top Republican. If this ratio should be maintained in the remaining districts Igoe's projected plurality in Cook county would reach about 400,000, giving it landslide proportions.

Brennan Lead Put at 400,000.

In 2,240 Cook county precincts out of 3,369 the vote stood: Igoe, 530,896; Brennan, 511,852; Brooks, 287,366; Jones, 252,742. If this ratio were kept up in all Cook county, Brennan's projected lead over Brooks in Cook would be in the region of 375,000.

Downstate, Igoe and Brocks were running neck and neck in the incomplete figures. In 2,034 out of 3,712 downstate precincts the vote was: Igoe, 240,231; Brennan, 235,593; Brooks, 236,540; Jones, 223,107.

Of Illinois' 27 house seats in congress, the Democrats apparently took 22, the Republicans, 5. The present delegation is 19 Democrats and 8 Republicans.

Neck and Neck Downstate.

For state officers Democrats and Republicans were running close outside Cook county. For state treasurer 1,391 downstate precincts gave John Stelle, Democrat, 239,387; William J. Stratton, Republican, 236,632.

For superintendent of public instruction 1,360 downstate precincts gave: Francis G. Blair, the Republican incumbent, 219,619; John A. Wieland, Democrat, 223,089. On University of Illinois trustees, the three Democratic candidates were ahead in 561 downstate precincts.

All the Republican candidates for state office were being engulfed, however, in the Cook county Democratic landslide.

In Chicago it was almost a massacre on seats in congress. Three Republican congressmen, Fred A. Britten, Oscar DePriest, and P. H. Moynihan, were trailing far behind in the incomplete figures.

Santa Claus Goes on Parade.

Up and down the Lake Michigan shore, in old Republican residential strongholds, Santa Claus and the jingle bells issue seemed to have made a parade all the way from Irving Park boulevard to the Indiana boundary.

On the upper north side and the north shore suburbs, including Lake county, however, Ralph E. Church, Republican, was leading David B. Maloney, Democrat, for congress.

Congressman Britten, one of the Republican deans of the national house, was beaten by James McAndrews in the 9th [near north side] district, after 22 years in congress.

The 9th is a district of extremes, embracing the gold coast and little hell, the cathedral and dance halls, highbrows and racketeers, upper crust and underworld, and it had the most savage fight in its history. In 129 precincts out of 134 the vote stood: McAndrews, 24,792; Britten, 19,805. Not since 1910 has it sent a Democrat to congress.

Congressman De Priest, sole Negro member of the house, saw the stars fall on Alabama in the First district—he was born near Muscle Shoals, Ala. It was the first time De Priest was opposed by a member of his own race. Arthur W. Mitchell, the Democratic victor, studied at Tuskegee, Harvard, and Columbia.

But, more useful than his college education, he had the support of Michael Kenna, Democratic boss of

Late Election Bulletins

On returns at 3 a. m. the Democrats had an overwhelming lead in seven of the ten Chicago congressional districts. In two districts the Democrats had substantial leads while the Republicans were ahead in only one of the ten districts. In the Tenth district 399 precincts out of 458, Maloney [D.], 68,785; Church [R.], 69,960. In the 9th district, 153 precincts out of 184 give McAndrews [D.], 29,995, Britten [R.], 23,890. In the 543 precincts out of 574, McKeough [D.], 91,967; Moynihan [R.], 70,619.

For congressman-at-large 3,284 precincts out of 3,639 in Cook county give: Igoe, Democrat, 754,520; Brennan, Democrat, 723,165; Brooks, Republican, 457,922; Jones, Republican, 405,709.

For county judge, 3,234 precincts out of 3,639 in Cook county give: Jarecki, [Dem.], 763,442; Heller, [Rep.], 420,870.

For President County Board, 3,184 precincts out of 3,639 in Cook county give: Smith, [Dem.], 709,448; Nixon, [Rep.], 430,850.

On the proposal to increase the aldermanic term to four years 1,900 precincts out of 3,127 in Chicago give: Yes, 316,427; No, 278,419.

On the $30,000,000 relief bond issue proposal, 2,232 precincts out of 3,639 in Cook county give: Yes, 621,847; no, 85,759. On the constitutional convention proposal these precincts give: Yes, 233,148; no, 147,011.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 7.—3 a. m.—(AP)—The vote for senator in 7,094 out of 7,957 districts was: David A. Reed [R.], 1,264,596; Joseph F. Guffey [D.], 1,354,832. The vote for governor in 7,094 districts was: William A. Schnader [R.], 1,300,911; George H. Earle [D.], 1,336,152.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 7 [2 a. m.]—(AP)—In the race for governor 821 of the state's 2,029 precincts gave R. L. Cochran [Dem.] 101,356; Dwight Griswold [Rep.], 96,493. In the senate race 834 precincts gave E. R. Burke [Dem.] 110,117, Robert G. Simmons [Rep.] 87,656.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 7.—2 a. m.—(AP)—In the Iowa race for governor 1,282 precincts of the state's 2,452, Clyde Herring [D.], got 240,221, and Dan Turner [R.], 201,713, Short [Farmer-Labor], 9,013.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 7.—2:30 a. m.—(AP)—In 247 precincts, the senatorial vote was King [D.], 21,654; Colton [R.], 17,551.

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 7.—2:30 a. m.—(AP)—For governor, 1,141 precincts gave Landon [R.], 177,118; Ketchum D.], 145,957.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 7.—2:30 a. m.—(AP)—With 2,019 of the 3,365 precincts counted, Marland [D.], had 200,133 for governor against 118,412 for Pine [R.].

GAIN IN SENATE GIVES MAJORITY OF TWO-THIRDS

House Losses Few; Many Upsets.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

A landslide for the New Deal swept the Democrats into overwhelming control of the seventy-fourth congress in the national balloting yesterday.

Gain 10 Senate Seats.

Breaking all records for the party in power in a midterm election the Democrats emerged from the election with a net gain of 10 seats in the senate, according to the returns tabulated this mornings. There appeared slight possibility of this gain being decreased by the complete returns. In the senate of the new congress there will be 70 Democrats, 6 more than two-thirds of the body, 24 Republicans, 1 Farmer Laborite, and 1 Progressive.

Keep House Strength.

In the house the Democrats will be virtually as strong as they are today with their present majority of 200. The Republicans regained some seats and the Democrats captured others from the Republicans, but the indications were that the net Democratic loss would be shown by the complete returns to be less than 10 members.

President Roosevelt exultantly read the returns in his library at Hyde Park, N. Y., and interpreted the result as an impressive indorsement of the New Deal and a handsome vote of confidence by the people in his administration.

Where Gains Were Made.

Connecticut.	New Mexico.
Indiana.	Ohio.
Maryland.	Pennsylvania.

The most sensational upset of the election was Pennsylvania which has not sent a Democratic senator to Washington for fifty years or more. In this state Senator David A. Reed, perhaps the most forceful Republican antagonist of the New Deal in the present congress, suffered a severe defeat at the hands of Joseph A. Guffey, Democratic boss of Pennsylvania.

The Democrats swept the state, even breaking the solid phalanx of Republican congressmen in Republican Philadelphia and capturing three seats.

To carry the Pennsylvania Gibraltar of Republicanism which had withstood the Roosevelt landslide in 1932 was the special objective of the party in power. To do so, the Democrats calculated, would be to win a dramatic popular vindication of the New Deal in the house of its leading assailant and to deliver a solar plexus blow to the G. O. P. from which it might not recover by 1936.

The defeat of Senator Reed disqualifies him as an aspirant to the Republican nomination for President two years hence.

Vandenberg Enters Limelight.

On the other hand a candidate for the Republican nomination for President was made by the results of the balloting in one of the few states constituting bright spots for the G. O. P. in the affair of yesterday. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, a liberal Republican who has indorsed some parts and condemned other parts of the New Deal was reëlected in Michigan, defeating Frank A. Picard, 100 per cent Democratic New Dealer. This victory adds to the prestige of Senator Vandenberg who has been recognized for some time as a presidential possibility.

The principal other source of cheer for the Republicans and others conservatively minded was California which overwhelmingly rejected Socialist Upton Sinclair, Democratic candidate for governor on his radical EPIC platform to "end poverty in California" by communizing agriculture and industry and abolishing wealth. He was defeated by Gov. Frank Merriam, Republican. Bereft of the support of the Democrats who ran out on him almost to a man, Sinclair ran best in Los Angeles, which, however, he failed to carry and he was snowed under in northern California.

Landslide in Illinois.

The Democratic sweep reached landslide proportions in Illinois, where the Democrats wrested five house seats from the Republicans. Among the defeated Republicans was Congressman Fred A. Britten, Republican veteran of 22 years in the house.

The La Follette brothers won out in Wisconsin as candidates of their new Progressive party. Senator La Follette, who had received the White House accolade as a loyal New Dealer, was reëlected, with John B. Chapple, the Republican candidate, running second. John M. Callahan, Democratic nominee, who as a disciple of Al Smith had incurred the displeasure of the administration, finished a bad third. Phil La Follette defeated Gov. Schmedeman, Democratic candidate for reëlection.

In Indiana Arthur R. Robinson, perhaps the bitterest Republican critic of the New Deal, went to defeat at the hands of Sherman Minton, 100 per cent Democratic New Dealer.

Ohio Beats Fess.

Senator Simeon D. Fess, another aggressive Republican foe of the New Deal, was beaten for reëlection by Vic Donahey, Democrat, who was three times governor of the state. His victory, however, was nothing for the administration to gloat over, for Donahey had declined to give the New Deal a blanket indorsement and had indicated he shares the views of Senator Glass of Virginia.

Other Republican assailants of the New Deal who were beaten in senatorial contests were Senator Roscoe Conkling Patterson of Missouri and Senator Henry D. Hatfield of West Virginia. Dr. Hatfield was defeated by a young radical, Rush D. Holt, who will not attain the constitutional age of 30 years for a seat in the senate until next June. Senator Patterson was defeated by Harry S. Truman, a Democrat loyal to the administration and to Boss Pendergast of Missouri.

New York, home of the President and the Democratic Generalissimo Jim Farley, went hellbent for the New Deal. Gov. Herbert Lehman was reëlected by a million votes over his Republican opponent, Robert Moses. Senator Royal S. Copeland, a Democrat who was far from acceptable to the White House by reason of his independence, won reëlection by an equally overwhelming plurality.

Kansas Goes Republican.

Kansas, which did not elect a senator this year, went Republican in the state election. Gov. Alf Landon was given a second term, defeating Omar Ketcham, Democrat. The proposal to repeal the prohibtion amendment to the state constitution was overwhelmingly defeated.

In New England the New Deal scored heavily. Senator Frederic Walcott of Connecticut and Felix Hebert of Rhode Island, Republicans, were both defeated. Massachusetts returned Senator David I. Walsh, Democrat, and chose for governor the colorful, rabble rousing Jim Curley, a Democrat who was three times mayor of Boston and who was accused of running on President Roosevelt's coat tails. Even in Vermont, where Republicanism is a religion, Senator Warren R. Austin, Republican, had a rather tight squeeze for reëlection.

Kean Behind in Jersey.

Another Republican foe of the New Deal, Senator Hamilton F. Kean, apparently was sent to the benches in New Jersey, where the first returns showed him running behind his Democratic rival, Gov. A. Harry Moore.

That the Democrats would carry congress by a large, if not an overwhelming, majority in both houses has been almost universally conceded for weeks. The matter became only a question of the size of the Democratic majorities. The Republicans felt they would have reason to congratulate themselves if they could hold their own in the senate and cut down the Democratic majority in the house to the extent of more than 50 of the 100 seats the Democrats wrested from the Republicans in the Roosevelt landslide two years ago.

President Hits Keynote.

The Roosevelt administration went to the country for a vote of confidence with an appeal with which it was difficult for the Republicans to cope. The President himself struck the keynote of the Democratic campaign when in his radio address last June he suggested that every one ask himself the question whether he did not find himself better off than the year before.

Of course, to those who are content to look no farther than the matter of individual well being of the moment this was a potent and a shrewdly conceived suggestion. For millions of people found themselves better off by reason either of receiving larger relief doles than ever before or of receiving bounties for crop curtailment or of getting jobs made by NRA minimum hour regulations and by PWA construction projects or of doing more business as a result of the billions of dollars of government money placed in circulation.

Uphill Work for Republicans.

The Republicans found it uphill work to convince the voters that they were benefiting only temporarily from an artificially induced prosperity brought about by the most colossal expenditures for "bread and circuses" in all history, that such squandering of public money could not long be continued without bankrupting the nation, that any real recovery was being retarded by the distrust created by the administration's currency tinkering and collectivist experiments.

In vain did the Republicans warn of impending inflation, of which all employed persons and all with any savings would be the victims, and inveigh against the creation of a new social order at variance with our traditional democratic institutions and our constitution which they found inherent in the New Deal.

With more than 20 million persons subsisting wholly or partly on the federal treasury and daily adjured by Democratic politicians not to bite the hand that feeds them the Republicans soon realized they were making little appreciable headway against the party in power. They then turned upon the Democrats with accusations that the stupendous recovery expenditures were being treated by the Roosevelt administration as a party campaign fund compared with which Mark Hanna's war chest, to which the Democrats attributed the defeat of Bryan in 1896, paled into insignificance.

"No One Shoots Santa Claus."

Paradoxically enough it was a Democrat who furnished the Republicans with the metaphor on which they rang the changes in assailing the Democrats for capitalizing politically the relief and other recovery expenditures. Replying to an inquiry as to his opinion of the chances of the administration in the election Al Smith had remarked that nobody is going to "shoot Santa Claus before Christmas."

The Republicans seized upon the wise crack as an apt characterization of the attitude of public mind toward the recovery expenditures the Democrats were cultivating. Santa Claus was pictured as the head of the Democratic ticket. The Republicans also flung at the Democrats President Hoover's taunt of "playing politics with human misery."

As the campaign wore on the Democrats gave more and more substance to this charge. In the canvass for the Maine election on Sept. 10 Gov. Brann boasted of the liberal disbursement of federal funds in the state his influence at Washington had been able to procure and more or less openly suggested that Republicans would be unable to obtain anywhere nearly so much from a Democratic administration. With the aid of a letter from the President he was also able to hold out the bait of an additional 50 million dollars for the Quoddy project to harness the Bay of Fundy tides, though this scheme had been pronounced impractical by the PWA engineers.

Quick to Take Clew.

Democratic success in the Maine election convinced the Democratic leaders of the efficacy of such tactics. Soon Democratic candidates everywhere were reminding voters of the generous allotments of government money to their communities by the Roosevelt administration. The Democratic national committee maintained a force of statisticians busied with the tabulation of the recovery disbursements and the calculation of the precise per capita benefit therefrom in each state, congressional district, county, and city.

These statistics were furnished to Democratic state and county committees and Democratic candidates for speeches, advertising and other campaign literature. Hundreds of letters bearing the famous green ink signature of Postmaster General and Democratic National Chairman Jim Farley were sent out stressing the generosity of the Roosevelt administration in the distribution of public funds.

In numerous speeches Mr. Farley emphasized in every state in which he appeared the enormous amounts of federal funds allocated thereto for relief, for bounties, and for public works. The campaign ended in a crescendo note on this theme struck by the Democrats while the Republicans raged that Farley was Tammanyizing the whole country on the well known Tammany principle of "feed 'em and vote 'em."

The President, who is commonly regarded the shrewdest politician who has occupied the White House in many a day, pursued a course that was calculated to attract the support of radicals without unduly alarming the conservatively minded. He advanced what appears to be a major political objective to build on the foundations of the Democratic party a Roosevelt party composed of the liberals and radicals of both the old parties, toward which he has been steadily moving since 1932 when he brought to his support a large proportion of the Bull Moosers who followed his famous fifth cousin in 1912.

Reward for Hiram Johnson.

Thus the President rewarded the support of Senator Hiram Johnson of California in 1932 with the Democratic nomination for reëlection in 1934, and went out of his way to show his preference for Senator Robert M. La Follette in Wisconsin to the regular Democratic nominee, Mr. Callahan, who happened to be an unregenerate disciple of Al Smith. He also carried on a flirtation with the extreme radicals constituting the following of Upton Sinclair in California.

Amid all the flirtations with the radicals the President had an eye to disarming the distrust of the conservatives. He caused three members of his cabinet to make speeches denying that there is no place for the profit motive in the New Deal. He made peace with the bankers in a speech in which he looked forward to an early return to private financing enterprise. He rebuffed the inflationists on several occasions. He started to revamp the NRA in accord with more conservative notions. The impression was created generally that he was veering to the right, though many suspected that it was only window dressing for campaign purposes.

TENNESSEE GOING DEMOCRATIC AS FUSIONISTS TRAIL

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 6.—(AP)—A Democratic sweep of statewide offices was indicated tonight in returns tabulated from more than half of the voting precincts in Tennessee. However, it appeared certain that Tennessee, the only southern state to have Republican representatives in congress, would keep its two from the First and Second districts.

Senator Nathan L. Bachman, Democrat, had an easy victory in his race with Dr. John R. Neal, Knoxville independent, for election to the two years remaining of the senate term to which Cordell Hull was elected in 1930.

The vote from 1,214 out of 2,290 precincts gave Bachman 70,888 and Neal 18,573.

Senator K. D. McKellar held a commanding lead over his Republican opponent, former Gov. Ben W. Hooper, who had clasped hands with Lewis S. Pope, independent Democratic candidate for governor, in a fusion movement.

Gov. Hill McAlister, Democrat, seeking reëlection to a second two year term, leaped far ahead of his five time opponent, Pope, and led the entire ticket.

COLORADO VOTE RECALLS LEGEND OF MAN EATER

Denver, Colo., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The ghosts of Alfred Packer and the voters he ate were conjured up in the Colorado election today.

Edward Foster, state immigration commissioner and chief of the Democratic publicity bureau, recalled that many years ago Packer killed and ate four-fifths of Hinsdale county's Democratic voting strength.

"A handicap like that isn't easily overcome," Foster said.

The Packer story is a classic of western lore. Packer alone survived a snowbound party of hunters. He was convicted of murdering and eating his comrades. As the story goes, Packer was called before the late Judge Moses Hallett for sentence.

"Packer, you man-eating thus-and-so, stand up," legend has the judge roaring. "There were only five Democrats in this county and you et four of them."

Packer, originally sentenced to death, received a new trial and a life sentence. He died several years ago after serving many years and winning a parole.

UTAH MINE CAMP VOTES FOR FIRST TIME IN 6 YEARS

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Residents of Alta, a mining camp nestled in the rocky and snowbound Little Cottonwood canyon, 20 miles southeast of here, voted today for the first time in six years.

Men carrying ballots and other election equipment have attempted to reach Alta each election year since 1928, only to be turned back by huge drifts. This year W. R. Coleman and L. F. Gillette, truckers, waded through snow two to three feet deep to car the ballots to the little town.

DEMOCRATS WIN ALL MAJOR JOBS IN COOK COUNTY

of the county board contests was still in doubt. The Democrats apparently elected all ten city members of the board, but Republicans were leading in the returns early this morning for four of five country town seats.

Smith's term as recorder still has two years to run and when he takes his place as president of the county board with a big Democratic majority behind him it will be that board which will fill the vacancy in the recorder's office. This is an example of the "self perpetuation" charged against the Democratic organization during the campaign.

Taxes in One Party's Hands.

The Democrats now take full possession of the tax machinery of the county. Emmett Whalen and Fred W. Brummel, already a member, will constitute the board of appeals. Thus the board will consist of two Democrats instead of one Democrat and one Republican, Nixon.

The assessing machinery now under the direction of J. L. Jacobs, the first individual in the history of the county to have absolute control of this function, will pass into the hands of Ald. Clark, now chairman of the city council committee on finance.

The county clerkship vacated by Sweitzer goes to Michael J. Flynn, city treasurer two decades ago, who after living in the suburbs for several years returned to activity in Chicago politics a few years ago.

Lawyers practicing in the Probate court will continue to find old friends there, as Judge John F. O'Connell, elected last year to fill the vacancy caused by Gov. Henry Horner's resignation from that court, and Clerk Mitchell C. Robin were reëlected. The Republican nominees were Harry C. Kinne for judge and Jacob D. Allen for clerk.

Two Trade Positions.

Another transfer of one of its officeholders from one position to another was made by the Democratic organization in the election of Thomas J. Bowler as clerk of the Criminal court. Bowler is now a sanitary district trustee and president of the district board. He preferred to run for the court clerkship. That was agreeable to a former alderman, George Seif, who had the clerkship. Seif wanted the trusteeship. So the shift was begun in the primary and was completed yesterday.

Trustee James M. Whalen led the field of Democratic candidates for the drainage board. The election could have had no effect on control of the board as the six holdover members are all Democrats. The one Republican member of the board, Howard W. Elmore, did not seek renomination last spring.

The race for the office of county superintendent of schools was a spirited one, both Noble J. Puffer, the Democrat, and George W. Schwebel, the Republican, having wide acquaintance among the teachers and parents of the suburbs within the county which fall under the jurisdiction of this office. Puffer, the winner, became assistant superintendent under the late Edward J. Tobin in 1926 and held the office until last spring when he was ousted by Otto F. Aken who had been elected to fill the Tobin vacancy.

DEMOCRATS CARRY SCENE OF SHOOTING ON ELECTION PARADE

Hazleton, Pa., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Kline township, scene of an election eve slaying of four persons in a Democratic parade, turned in a majority of 715 for the Democratic ticket to 4? for the Republican ticket today.

Kelayres, the town where the shooting occurred last night, gave the Democrats 662 and the Republicans 24. Members of the families of those slain and injured, in most cases, did not vote, and members of the family of Joseph Bruno, Republican leader, were in jail.

Last year the Democrats had a 540 to 467 lead on the face of unofficial returns, but a court decision altered the total and gave the Republicans a 45 majority.

Democratic Incumbents Take Lead in Arizona

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Democratic incumbents, all supporters of the New Deal, took an early lead in Arizona tonight as first meager figures were received. Seventeen complete and 38 incomplete precincts out of 436 gave Senator Henry F. Ashurst 9,453 votes to 3,561 for his Republican opponent, J. E. Thompson. Representative Isabella Greenway was leading Hoval A. Smith. Returns showed 9,822 votes for Gov. B. B. Moeur against 7,452 for Thomas Maddock, Republican.

St. Louis Ward Leader Indicted on Vote Charge

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 6.—(AP)—James H. Miller, justice of the peace and influential Democrat of the St. Louis fourth ward, was indicted today for alleged interference with challengers at the polls.

FARLEY HAPPY AS RETURNS GIVE PARTY VICTORY

New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Postmaster General Farley, Democratic national committeeman, said in a statement tonight that "the most famous figures in the Republican party have been toppled into oblivion" and that the New Deal "has been magnificently sustained" in the off-year election.

"Returns have come in sufficiently to show the Democratic party has won a wonderful victory," said Farley's statement, issued in midevening at national headquarters in the Hotel Biltmore.

"The figures are not yet complete enough for us to go into details as to the states we have carried, but we do know that the New Deal has been magnificently sustained.

"Famous Republican figures have been toppled into oblivion. In fact, we must wonder who they have left that the country ever heard of.

"As all this was expected, and prophesied from our side, any statement that I could make would amount to a repetition. It will be far more interesting to see how the Republicans feel."

Mississippi Approves Bilbo for Seat in Senate

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Mississippi voters today gave formal approval to former Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo as United States senator succeeding Senator H. D. Stephens. He had no opposition. In an election whose results were determined in the primaries, the state also named seven Democratic representatives in congress and chose judicial officials. The representatives named today are John Rankin, Wall Doxey, Will M. Wittington, A. L. Ford, Aubert Dunn, William Colmer, and Dan R. McGehee.

Mussolini Begins Parley with Hungarian Premier

ROME, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini and Premier Julius Goemboes of Hungary discussed for a half hour today the political situation in central Balkan Europe. An Italian government spokesman said they discussed all problems of a political and economic nature affecting the territory. Il Duce and Goemboes planned to meet again today or tomorrow.

CHIEF FREEMAN, EVANSTON, MAY BE COUNTY CHIEF

With the election of Ald. John Toman, Democrat, to the office of sheriff, it was declared last night that Chief William O. Freeman of the Evanston police department will be appointed chief of the county highway police. Ald. Toman, it was said, will make a formal announcement of his appointment in a few days.

Chief Freeman has headed the suburban police department since 1927. Before that he was a lieutenant in the Chicago police department, having served twenty years in the department. He was given much credit for the ultimate solving of the Loeb-Leopold case. While head of the Evanston police he solved the murder of Miss Jennie Constance, who was killed by a Negro, David Shanks.

It is said that Chief Freeman will take a leave of absence from his present position to act as chief of the county police. He is also on a leave of absence from the city police department.

Byrd and 9 Congressmen Re-elected in Virginia

Richmond, Va., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Senator Harry F. Byrd and nine Democratic congressmen were reëlected today in Virginia's Democratic landslide. Senator Byrd, although opposing certain features of the New Deal program, as did Virginia's senior senator, Carter Glass, was nevertheless the New Deal candidate in the race.

SENATOR FESS PLANS CAREER OF WRITING UPON RETIREMENT

Yellow Springs, O., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Awaiting election returns with his family, Senator Simeon D. Fess, Republican senatorial nominee, tonight revealed he is making plans for the future.

Fess said if the voters turned him down he would emulate his friend, former President Herbert Hoover, and engage in a writing career embracing political and social subjects. He also said an eastern publisher had approached him to write his autobiography.

"Come thunderstorm, war, or election," he announced as the Fess household arose from a big turkey dinner celebrating election night, "I always go to bed at 9:30 sharp."

Permit Sing Sing Inmates to Hear Election Returns

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Prisoners at Sing Sing penitentiary were allowed by Warden Lewis E. Lawes to stay up later than usual tonight to hear the election returns. The prison radio system was kept in operation beyond the regular hours. Prison officials explained the inmates were especially interested in the New York gubernatorial race because of the governor's power of commutation and pardon.

GUFFEY DEFEATS SENATOR REED IN QUAKER STATE

See Democratic Victory for Governorship.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 7.—[Wednesday.]—[Special.]—Senator David A. Reed, champion of conservatism and critic of the New Deal, lost his seat in the senate to Joseph F. Guffey, "original" Roosevelt leader of Pennsylvania, in yesterday's election which threw the Keystone state of Republicanism into the Democratic column. The trend indicates Guffey's margin will be about 75,000.

Voters swarmed to the polling places in almost unprecedented numbers and cast ballots for the man who had put forward President Roosevelt as the only issue in the bitterest campaign in the commonwealth's recent history.

In electing their first United States senator in 60 years, Pennsylvania Democrats achieved what Republican leaders had termed the impossible, namely, surmounting the obstacle of a Republican registration majority of almost 1,250,000 voters.

State-wide Victory Seen.

The vote in 6,270 of the 7,957 districts gave Guffey 1,185,414 and Reed 1,142,895.

Steadily mounting election returns today indicated that the Democratic triumph would be broad enough to embrace the entire state-wide ticket and increase the present Democratic membership of 12 in the Pennsylvania congressional delegation of 34.

Although Attorney General William A. Schnader, Republican gubernatorial nominee, ran well ahead of Senator Reed's totals, the trend in late returns indicated Mr. Schnader's defeat by George H. Earle, Democratic candidate and former minister to Austria, by about 30,000.

Also carried into office by the Democratic wave were Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor; Thomas A. Logue, nominee for secretary of internal affairs, and Chester H. Rhodes, candidate for judge of the Superior court.

G. O. P. Delegation Hit.

A tidal wave of enthusiasm for Roosevelt administration policies made such inroads in Philadelphia that for the first time in the memory of the present generation three of the seven congressional seats in the city went to Democrats.

The successful Democratic candidates were J. Burrwood Dale, Fourth district; Frank J. G. Dorsey, Fifth, and Michael J. Stack, Sixth.

Philadelphia furnished the outstanding disappointment of the day for Republican leaders, who had counted on this traditional Old Guard stronghold to deliver a majority of at least 50,000 and more likely 75,000 or 100,000 for the Reed-Schnader ticket.

Reed Ahead in Philadelphia.

Instead, the best the feverish division workers of the Republican party could do was to produce a lead of 4,086 votes for Senator Reed and one of 20,842 for Attorney General Schnader.

The complete Philadelphia totals in the senatorship contest were:

Reed, 335,690.
Guffey, 331,604.

On the governorship the city gave:

Schnader, 344,048.
Earle, 323,206.

Returns were slow in coming in from the rest of the state, but enough votes were tabulated to insure the election of Guffey and Earle.

First Test Since Vare's Death.

The campaign furnished the first test for the local Republican machine since the death of William S. Vare, who, with his brothers, had built it since the turn of the century into one of the most formidable political organizations in the country.

But the Republican weaknesses were by no means confined to Philadelphia county. Strong New Deal sentiment manifested itself in a score of counties which had been counted safely in the Republican column.

One of the surprising upsets was Bucks county, home of Senator Joseph R. Grundy, head of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' association and referred to frequently as the "high priest of protectionism." Bristol, Mr. Grundy's home town, went Democratic by about 500 votes.

Allegheny county, despite the defection of Mayor McNair of Pittsburgh and other leaders to the Republicans, rolled up an expected Democratic majority.

WINNERS IN IMPORTANT ELECTION BATTLES OVER NATION

Herbert Lehman, re-elected governor of New York, went into the contest with the blessing of the administration.

HERRING LEADS DAN TURNER IN IOWA VOTING

Democrats Sweep Into State Jobs.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Despite stubborn resistance by Dan W. Turner, Republican candidate for governor, the New Deal tide tonight appeared to be sweeping over Iowa as Gov. Clyde L. Herring [Dem.] steadily built up what appeared to be a safe lead.

With 589 of the state's 2,452 precincts heard from the total stood: Herring, 149,062; Turner, 123,143.

The Democratic sweep extended down through the state offices and even into that Republican stronghold, the Sixth district. C. C. Dowell, its veteran Republican representative, was trailing his Democratic opponent, Hubert Utterback, 19,052 to 17,189, after 80 or 97 precincts had reported.

May Add Congress Seats.

The Democrats appeared likely to pick up one and possibly two congressional seats on the basis of early returns. New Dealers now hold six of the nine places, and all of the Democratic congressmen tonight were in front in the fight to retain their places.

Edward C. Eicher, Democrat, led E. R. Hicklin, Republican, 2,191 to 1,820 in the First district after 14 precincts had reported. Bernhard M. Jacobsen, Democrat, was 2,577 to 1,178 ahead of his opponent, Martin Andelfinger, in the Second district after 14 precincts had been heard from. In the Third A. C. Willliford, Democrat, was 3,930 to 3,722 in front of John Gwynee in 32 precincts. Congressman Fred Biermann, Democrat, had 1,002 votes to C. A. Benson's 864 after five precincts reported in the Fourth district. Congressman Otha D. Wearin, Democrat, led Charles E. Swanson, 4,284 to 2,816, in 32 precincts of the Seventh district. Guy M. Gilette, the Sixth Democrat incumbent, was 2,876 to 1,748 ahead in his Ninth district fight with Thomas H. McBride.

Only Two G. O. P. Men Lead.

With Dowell trailing Utterback in the Sixth, only two Republicans, both incumbents, were ahead in the early returns. They are Lloyd Thurston, who led Ernest Fabritz, 1,115 to 1,061, in the Fifth district, and Fred Gilchrist, who led Joseph Meyers 2,272 to 1,927.

Gov. Herring appeared to be leading a complete Democratic state ticket, 11,841 to 10,373, over his Republican opponent for reëlection. Secretary of State Mrs. Alex Miller, Auditor Charles W. Storms, Treasurer Leo J. Wegman, Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor, and Secretary of Agriculture Ray Miller all boasted leads of nearly two thousand votes.

Al Smith Hears Returns; Recalls Wife's Birthday

New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith helped his wife celebrate her birthday tonight as he listened to election returns. A special birthday cake was prepared for Mrs. Smith. It was the first time her birthday had fallen on election day since 1928. Then her husband was the Democratic candidate for President.

On that night after it appeared that Herbert Hoover had won, Smith put his arm around his wife and said:

Britain Rejects Bill to Permit State Lotteries

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The house of commons, debating the betting and lotteries bill, tonight rejected an amendment in favor of permitting state lotteries. The vote was 219 to 47. The bill proposes, among other things, to legalize the betting system in use on greyhound race tracks and aims to prevent sale in England of tickets on the Irish Free State hospital sweepstakes.

Hamilton Fish, Re-elected, Sees Santa Claus Winner

Garrison, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican, one of the most outspoken critics of the "New Deal," was reëlected to congress today from the home district of President Roosevelt, the 27th New York, said tonight:

"The people are still on the side of Santa Claus."

SENATOR CUTTING TRAILS SLIGHTLY IN NEW MEXICO

Santa Fé, N. M., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Senator Bronson Cutting, target of powerful Democratic opposition because of his choice of the Republican ticket as his path to reëlection, trailed his Democratic rival in the first 100 of the state's 785 precincts to report tonight.

While Congressman Dennis Chavez clung to a lead, the margin, in these first returns, was too small for safety.

While in approximately one-seventh of the state's precincts Chavez had accumulated a lead of 1,700 over Cutting, the Democratic candidate for the short senate term, Senator Carl Hatch, led his Republican opponent, Ex-Gov. R. D. Dillon, by nearly 6,000 votes in the same sections.

J. J. Dempsey, Democratic candidate for congress, also had a 4,000 lead over Maurice Miera, Republican, and, for the governorship, Clyde Tingley, Democrat, had an equal edge over Jaffa Miller, Republican.

Harry Hopkins' Brother Trailing in Washington

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The prediction of Federal Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins that his brother Dr. L. A. Hopkins, Republican candidate for Pierce county coroner, would be defeated, appeared to be in the way of fulfillment tonight. Dr. Hopkins was trailing his Democratic opponent, Dr. T. H. Long nearly, 2,000 votes in 80 out of 219 precincts. The vote was Long, 9,737 and Hopkins, 7,915.

COAST GUARDS ARE TOLD THEY 'ALREADY VOTED'

Surfmen Antone Drabik and Richard Carlson of the Jackson park coast guard station went yesterday to 6842 Oglesby avenue intending to cast their ballots. The polling place is that of the 12th precinct of the 7th ward.

"You can't vote again," the coast guards were told. "Our books show that every one in the coast guard station had already cast his ballot."

Surfmen Drabik and Carlson were shown the poll books, which indeed showed they had voted. Here are some of the others marked off the books as having voted yesterday:

Henry E. Koski, who died last August.

H. E. Deneau, who has been confined to the Marine hospital since Nov. 1.

Frank F. Petoski, who like Drabik and Carlson, said he had not been near the polling place before he discovered he "had voted."

OLD BAY STATE ELECTS CURLEY, RETURNS WALSH

No Changes Likely for Congress.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Former Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, original Roosevelt for President man in New England, was swept into the governorship of Massachusetts over Lieut. Gov. Gaspar G. Bacon, his Republican opponent, in today's election. He had a plurality which returns late tonight indicated would run far in excess of the 120,000 plurality by which Gov. Joseph B. Ely won the highest office for the Democratic party two years ago.

Although Frank A. Goodwin, registered Republican running as an independent candidate, never had a chance to win, his vote cut heavily into Bacon's total in Republican territory.

The Curley avalanche began with the returns from the typical mill city of New Bedford which he carried by a 2 to 1 margin, and although Bacon held his own in rural districts for a time, first returns from Boston and other large urban centers indicated that he would be swamped in the final analysis.

Walsh Also Swept In.

United States Senator David I. Walsh was riding on the crest of an even higher wave of Democratic votes than Curley and indications were seen that the veteran senior Democratic senator would be returned to office with a total of close to a million votes, completely swamping his Republican opponent, Robert M. Washburn.

The latest returns were:

For senator: 803 precincts out of 1,716, Walsh [D.], 388,758; Washburn [R.], 201,501.

So great was the Democratic sweep—a clear indication that Massachusetts, also, was swinging into line for complete endorsement of New Deal policies—that the rest of the Republican state ticket was threatened with defeat save for Frederick W. Cook, secretary of state, and Attorney General Joseph W. Warner, whose early returns leads were sufficient to indicate their reëlection to those offices by slim margins. Elsewhere, however, the Democratic surge was apparently successful.

Close Congressional Races.

There were several close contests in the Massachusetts congressional delegation, but at midnight tonight the contested posts were in doubt, with the present lineup of ten Republicans and five Democrats not expected to be overturned.

Congressmen George Holden Tinkham and A. Piatt Andrew, Republicans without opposition, were automatically back in office, while John P. Higgins [Dem.] also goes to Washington for lack of an opponent in today's election.

Congressman Allen T. Treadway [Rep.] was reëlected by an estimated majority of 15,000 votes.

MRS. LANGER TRAILS MOODIE IN RETURNS FROM NORTH DAKOTA

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 7.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Mrs. William Langer, seeking the post of governor from which her husband was ousted because of his criminal conviction, was threatened with defeat on the face of early returns in North Dakota's election, tabulation showed early today.

Her Democratic opponent, Thomas Moodie, was running two to one ahead of the first woman to ever seek the governorship in North Dakota, but the rural sections, on which Langerites pinned their hopes, were only partially represented.

Returns from 385 out of 2,242 precincts gave Moodie, 40,448; Mrs. Langer, 20,660.

U. S. Senator Lynn J. Frazier, Republican, held a small margin over Henry Holt, Democrat, but the trend was entirely in the incumbent's favor. Frazier had polled a huge vote in the June primary election. In 159 precints Frazier had 9,324 and Holt, 9,187.

Few returns were available on other races, but Congressman William Lemke appeared to be pulling away to a comfortable lead in the congressional race.

the First ward. And how the "Hink" rolled up the votes! In 91 precincts out of 147 the vote stood: Mitchell, 20,623; De Priest, 12,877.

In the Hyde Park-South Chicago district [the 2d], Congressman Moynihan was taken for a sleighride by Santa. The vote in 461 precints out of 574 stood: Raymond S. McKeough, Democrat, 85,186; Moynihan, 63,663.

Church Takes the Lead.

Up in the north shore suburbs, classic Evanston and Lake county, the evening also saw a hard race in the 10th district. In early returns up to 1:30 a. m., Church, the Republican nominee, was trailing Democrat Maloney. When 399 precincts out of 458 in Cook county were in, Church took a lead of 975, the tally standing: Maloney, 68,785; Church, 69,760. In Lake county 63 out of 75 precincts gave: Church, 17,082; Maloney, 13,886, increasing Church's lead to 4,171.

3. 368 of 522 precincts give: Kelly [D.], 85,651; Fulton [R.], 46,747.
4. 155 of 180 precincts give: Beam [D.], 46,431; Zelezinski [R.], 12,616.
5. 94 of 103 precincts give: Sabath [D.], 26,465; Stanek [R.], 9,734.
6. 421 of 570 precincts give: O'Brien [D.], 115,560; Lund [R.], 46,232.
7. 678 of 807 precincts give: Schuetz [D.], 156,935; Peacock [R.], 82,847.
8. 95 of 99 precincts give: Kocialkowski [D.], 35,866; Piszatowski [R.], 9,694.

Democrats Holding 11 Seats.

Downstate, the Democrats on the face of the incomplete figures, appeared to be holding the 11 districts they carried out of fifteen in their 1932 landslide.

In the cornbelt, the Bloomington district [17th] had a battle. Early figures showed L. C. Arends, Republican, leading Congressman Frank Gillespie, Democrat. Later Gillespie took the lead.

The Democrats made a savage onslaught on two rock-ribbed Republican districts in northern Illinois, outside Cook county. In the Joliet-Elgin [11th] district, in 209 out of 292 precincts, James A. Howell, Democrat, had 49,050 votes, and Chauncey W. Reed, Republican, had 49,437.

Congressman Buckbee Ahead.

In the Rockford-La Salle [12th] district, another G. O. P. fortress of yore, C. H. Smith, Democrat, was giving Congressman John T. Buckbee, Republican, a race. As the returns came in, however, Buckbee increased his lead until with 142 out of 275 precincts reported the vote stood: Buckbee, 25,559; Smith, 20,747.

Scattered returns from other districts outside Cook county were:

14. 66 precincts out of 217 give: Thompson [D.], 12,864; Allen [R.], 10,804.
15. 2 precincts in Fulton county give Adair [D.], 209; Chiperfield [R.], 131.
21. 177 of 269 precincts give: Mason [D.], 29,845; Ramey [R.], 29,453.

In the East St. Louis district [the Twenty-second], which the Republicans were claiming, the Democrats stepped into the lead when returns from St. Clair county began coming in. Congressman Edwin Schaefer, Democrat, was reported leading his Republican opponent, Judge Jesse R. Brown, in some Alton precincts.

"Rubber Stamp" the Issue.

With the general issue of whether congress shall be a "rubber stamp" for the brain trust, the contests over district congressmen loomed in importance as perhaps never before in an Illinois off-year election.

In the corn belt, the coal fields, and the industrial centers the early returns indicate a great tide of ballots poured into the boxes. In some counties the indicated poll was almost as large as two years ago in the presidential year. The rural vote was exceptionally heavy in large areas. Bright skies brought them out.

In Champaign county, center of the corn belt, the early outpouring indicated a record total of more than 20,000 votes for this off-year election.

CANON CHASE'S LITTLE DIARY FAILS TO HELP

New York, Nov. 6.—[Special.]—The whiskers of Canon William Sheafe Chase quivered in righteous indignation today. The famed dry leader, blue law advocate, movie censor, and candidate for United States senator on the Law Preservation party's ticket was not permitted to vote.

Canon Chase bustled into the polling place in his Brooklyn district this afternoon. He announced himself to clerks and after a search through the records was informed his name was not on the eligible list, probably because of failure to register last Oct. 8.

"Why, that is impossible," bristled the canon. "I can prove it by my diary."

He searched his bag, produced a red morocco volume, and began to peruse it. Suddenly his chin sagged and his face flushed.

"Ahem!" he coughed, and closed the book. "I—ah—seem to have been in Washington on that date."

12 VOTE PRECINCT SENDS IN FIRST ELECTION REPORT

The first election returns in Cook county were received from the Fourteenth precinct in the township of Worth, where twelve voters went to the polls. The returns were received shortly after 5 p. m. by County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer.

The voters in this small precinct cast an equal number of ballots for Republican and Democratic candidates in most instances. There are only four or five families in the precinct and all who had registered voted. They had finished their voting by 2 p. m.

The returns showed that ten voted in favor of the thirty million dollar relief bond proposition, while two voted against it. The vote on the constitutional convention proposition showed five for and one against.

Probable Winners in Contests for National House of Representatives

Available returns up to the hour of going to press indicated the election of the following members of the house of representatives in the 74th congress, (*) designating incumbents. More than one name appearing in a district indicates the result in doubt. Likewise, as in Illinois, the two Democratic and the two Republican candidates for congressman at large are all named because returns have not yet shown the results:

DONAHEY BEATS SENATOR FESS IN CONTEST IN OHIO

Democrat Also Leads for Governor.

Columbus, O., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Former Gov. A. Vic Donahey, Columbus, Democrat, today defeated Senator Simeon D. Fess, Yellow Springs, Republican incumbent and former head of his party's national committee.

The vote was: 2,482 precincts out of 8,559 gave Donahey 322,687, Fess 217,254.

Fess Concedes Defeat.

Fess, the 73 year old Republican, who entered the race primarily "to expose the socialism of the Roosevelt administration," early today conceded the election of Donahey to the senate.

In a telegram to Donahey, Senator Fess said:

"Congratulations on confidence expressed in you by the voters of Ohio. In the meantime, prior to taking your seat, the facilities of my office are open to you."

The race for governor was closer than the senatorial contest.

Martin L. Davey, Kent, Democrat, aided by the popularity of Donahey, was holding a lead of approximately 20,000 over Clarence J. Brown, Blanchester, Republican, in 2,599 precincts out of the state's 8,559.

The vote stood: Davey, 303,483; Brown, 279,496.

The Democratic congressmen seeking reelection, Charles V. Truax and Stephen M. Young, lost part of their lead and, with about 3 per cent of the precincts reported, held a comparatively slender margin over former State Senator George H. Bender and State Senator L. L. Marshall.

State Candidates Close.

State Senator Harold G. Mosier, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, paced Davey in first returns. George S. Myers, Democrat, seeking another term as secretary of state, also led, but Harry S. Day, Republican, seeking another term as state treasurer, was in a nip-and-tuck battle with Joseph Ferguson, Democrat, who opposed him unsuccessfully two years ago. John W. Bricker, incumbent, attorney general, a Republican, held a more commanding lead over his Democratic challenger, Herbert S. Duffy, who likewise opposed him two years ago.

CUBAN CONSUL'S AID KNOCKED OUT IN ACTRESS' HOME

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Louis Grau, secretary to the Los Angeles Cuban consulate and a suitor of Ethel Shannon, movie beauty, received a midnight punch on the nose in Miss Shannon's apartment, from Max Marks, Hollywood druggist, according to reports in the local sheriff's sub-station records.

As told by Deputies Schotmiller and McQuarg, Miss Shannon, whose red haired beauty attracted Grau here from a former post in the New York Cuban consulate, invited Marks into her home at 10 p. m., after attending a show with him. Grau, authorities report, is accused of crawling into her apartment over the transom.

Grau was "out cold for 15 minutes" and had to be revived at the Hollywood police emergency hospital after Marks' straight right to the nose. No charges were preferred, but Miss Shannon, a former Wampus "baby star," said, "They are both out as far as I am concerned. They can't come to my home and rough house. I am going to move and won't give either of them my new address."

Richard M. Cannon Denies Guilt in Swindling Case

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Richard M. Cannon, son of Bishop James Cannon Jr., M. E. church, south, today denied a charge of swindling an El Paso, Tex., hotel, on which he was being held in county jail in lieu of $1,000 bond. "I've been living here quietly for the last year. Probably some of my father's enemies are at the bottom of the charge," he said. The charge involves a check for $75, assertedly issued in El Paso, which was returned for "insufficient funds."

2 LA FOLLETTES ARE WINNERS IN WISCONSIN

New Progressive Party Polls Big Vote.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 7.—[Wednesday.]—[Special.]—The new Progressive party designed by the La Follettes to unite the liberal vote in a single political group won a complete victory in its first contest yesterday.

Returns at 5 o'clock this morning showed that Robert M. La Follette had been reelected to the United States senate by a vote that approximated the total vote cast for his two principal opponents, John B. Chapple, Republican, and John M. Callahan, the Democratic nominee.

His younger brother, Philip, with more than half the precincts counted, had a lead of 25,000 over Gov. A. G. Schmedeman, the Democratic nominee. Howard T. Greene, Republican nominee was a bad third.

Philip La Follette's vote virtually was the same as that given his older brother. His race was closer. Opposition to him centered on Gov. Schmedeman as offering the better chance to defeat the Progressive nominee.

In the senatorial race, Chapple and Callahan were running about even each with about 25 per cent of the vote cast. Chapple was ahead by only a few thousand votes.

How Vote Stands.

For senator 1,979 precincts give: La Follette, 259,001; Chapple, 128,402; Callahan, 121,425.

The La Follettes apparently were carrying the state ticket to victory with them. Tabulators were concentrating on counting the vote of the heads of the tickets but there was little splitting in the Progressive column and the candidates for the lesser offices apparently were receiving the same vote as the party heads.

Progressives were leading for seven of the state's ten congressional seats. Michael Riley, Democratic incumbent, was ahead in the Sixth district.

Two Democrats Win.

With 179 precincts reporting in Milwaukee county, the vote for the county's two congressmen was:

Fourth district—Raymond J. Cannon, Democrat, incumbent, 13,259; Laurence C. Gram, Progressive, 6,360; John C. Schafer, Republican, 5,821; Marvin V. Baxter, Socialist, 6,945.

Fifth district—Thomas O'Malley, Democrat, incumbent, 9,910; Carl J. Ludwig, Progressive, 6,157; Arthur T. Spence, Republican, 3,778; Otto Hauser, Socialist, 7,808.

Senator La Follette will leave Wisconsin today or tomorrow for a luncheon engagement with President Roosevelt, he announced during the last week of the campaign. Progressive supporters here imply that the conversation is to deal with the future of the new party. Liberal leaders from both old parties came into the state to urge support for the La Follettes as a nucleus for an extended national movement.

New Party Born.

The Progressive party came into life as a separate political entity at a state-wide meeting in Fond du Lac, which county also claims it is the birthplace of the Republican party. It was heralded as a union of all the liberals in the state. All of the old Progressive leaders in the Republican party attended and there was a good representation of the Farmer-Labor group.

The La Follette brothers kept full control of the meeting, which adopted a resolution to form a new party and adjourned without any discussion of a platform.

Robert La Follette's candidacy for the senate was announced at once. Philip's was withheld until just before the closing date for nominating petitions in the primary. No platform nor party principle was announced until the statutory platform committee was held in Madison after the primary.

THE WORLD WE SAVED FOR DEMOCRACY

WYOMING VOTE FOR DEMOCRATS ON MOST OFFICES

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Democratic leads were established early today in every race for state and national office in Wyoming.

For the regular term in the United States senate, Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Democratic appointee, topped Congressman Vincent Carter, Republican, 2,953 to 2,277, with 78 precincts of 660 tabulated. In the short term race the tally was O'Mahoney, 2,010; Carter, 1,426, in 45 precincts.

Paul R. Greever, Democrat, led Republican Charles E. Winter for Wyoming's lone congressional seat, now held by a Republican. The tally was 2,569 to 2,138.

The incumbent Democratic governor, Leslie A. Miller, led Republican A. M. Clark, 2,766 to 2,216.

TOWNSEND HOLDS SLIGHT LEAD IN DELAWARE VOTE

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 6.—(AP)—United States Senator John G. Townsend Jr., held a slender lead for reelection in incomplete returns.

With virtually all of Wilmington, Republican stronghold reported, 155 of Delaware's 226 districts gave Townsend, Republican, 26,978 and Wilbur L. Adams, Democrat, 23,171.

Scattered returns from the southern counties, where Democrats have been stronger, were included.

Sen. Austin of Vermont Wins by Narrow Margin

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 6.—(AP)—United States Senator Warren R. Austin, Republican, bitter foe of the administration, was reelected to the United States senate by the narrow margin of 1,237 votes in today's election, on a basis of returns that were complete except for one small community of about 130 votes.

CAVEIN KILLS 2 BOYS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Two boys were killed when trapped in a cavein along the Mississippi river here late today. Their names were given as Donald Norman, 11, and Donald Swanberg, 10.

Votes for 80 Years, but He's Too Feeble This Time

Batavia, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(AP)—For the first time in 80 years Roswell C. Curtiss, 101 years old, did not vote today. He was too feeble to make the trip to the polls.

PARTIAL COUNT SHOWS RELIEF BOND VICTORY

Con Con Proposal Appears to Have Failed.

The $30,000,000 state relief bond issue appeared early this morning to have been carried in the referendum on it yesterday, while the proposal to call a convention to revamp the Illinois constitution evidently had suffered defeat, on the basis of incomplete returns from Cook county and downstate. Ratification of the bond issue will protect all property owners from the collection of an additional $33,600,000 tax levy next year to repay money already borrowed on anticipation warrants and spent for relief.

Both these propositions must obtain more than merely a majority of the votes cast on the propositions themselves. The bond issue is required to have a majority equal to more than half of the number of votes cast throughout the state for members of the general assembly. To win, the constitutional convention or "con con" proposition needs a majority of the total of votes cast in the election. These requirements make it difficult to determine the outcome of the referenda before virtually complete returns are in.

Defeated By Indifference.

Thus the "con con" proposal, although running ahead nearly three to two in the state-wide returns, was being swept into defeat by the flood of ballots which failed to indicate any choice in the matter. For example, 1,419 Cook county precincts gave the proposal 145,579 "yes" votes, against 83,051 opposed, but there were at least 200,000 "blank votes" from these same precincts which will be counted as "no."

Returns from 469 downstate precincts showed the "con con" proposal slightly ahead, 35,439 to 34,115, and in these same voting territories there were another 65,000 voters whose failure to mark the proposition counted as marks against it.

The bond issue was not suffering the same proportion of "silent opposition" and on the latest returns was safely ahead by a margin of 7 to 1.

Expressed Vote Is Strongly Yes.

The totals from 1,846 precincts from all over the state showed 498,745 for to 68,646 against. In Cook county 1,419 precincts were overwhelmingly in favor of the proposition, 391,796 to 41,629. In 427 downstate precincts the "yes" vote was running ahead 106,949 to 27,017.

A strenuous campaign brought victory to the bond issue, with both party platforms and virtually every important civic and business organization endorsing it.

The bond issue will be retired during a period of 20 years by relatively small diversions from the gasoline tax. The alternative $38,000,000 special levy would have meant an additional tax of 63 cents per $100 of assessed value upon all property owners in Illionis.

Proponents of the "con con" blamed defeat of the proposition on the fact that it appeared in a separate column on the left margin of the candidates' ballot, where they said it was commonly overlooked by voters.

Voters Have Keen Memory.

The close downstate vote on the proposition, however, apparently showed that the people were afraid that radicals might take advantage of the times to embody their theories in the state's constitution. Voters may have remembered also that the constitutional convention which started in 1920 and lasted for nearly three years produced a changed constitution which failed dismally at the polls.

Anna Ells at 100 Years Votes G. O. P. Ticket

Dixon, Ill., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Anna E. Ells of 405 Madison avenue cast a vote for the Republican ticket. Mrs. Ells was a hundred years old Sept. 26. She probably is the oldest voter in Illinois. She never has voted anything but the Republican ticket, she said. Mrs. Ells was escorted to the polls by Henry C. Warner, chairman of the Lee county Republican central committee.

EVEN DEMOCRATS ARE AMAZED BY SIZE OF VICTORY

Governor Takes 'Mandate' to Go Ahead.

Election returns were received at first with satisfaction, then with considerable wonder by Chicago, Cook county and state Democratic leaders who congregated in the roof bungalow on the Morrison hotel last evening. Even after the scope of the party's victory became known the boisterous enthusiasm in evidence two years ago did not appear.

Gov. Horner jovially announced to Patrick A. Nash, national committeeman for Illinois and chairman of the Democratic central committee, that he personally took credit for the state landslide. Then before radio and news reel microphones he said:

"The most gratifying result of the election is the proof that the people do their own thinking instead of permitting others to do their thinking for them.

"Mandate to Go Ahead."

"The voters were not influenced by the unpatriotic efforts to mislead and misguide them. They refused to put their trust in beguiling promises, but relied upon the more certain assurances of past performance. They recognized their great responsibility and promptly assumed and heroically discharged it.

"The records of the national, state and local Democratic officials were before the voters—analyzed by their supporters and criticized most unfairly and venomously by their opponents. The result was an overwhelming victory in favor of the policies pursued by them. These officials now have a definite mandate to proceed full steam ahead with their plan for recovery and reconstruction."

Mayor Sees New Morality.

Mayor Kelly, whose mood was more facetious than that of any of his colleagues, became serious when he faced the microphones. He said:

"I hope, for the good of Chicago, that today's verdict marks the end of villifying campaigns; that it is a warning to all that in the future political campaigns in Chicago must consist of intelligent, honest and constructive debate of issues and men, and that when men are discussed, slander will not be tolerated.

"I hope that this verdict marks the beginning of a new political morality and that the citizens, for the good name of our community will inaugurate an era of encouragement to their public officials which will supplant slander and destruction. With these issues so clearly decided I appeal to all of our citizens to join the national march toward full recovery and the local procession to keep Chicago ahead."

The rooms, hazy with cigar smoke, were packed with virtually every Democratic office holder in Cook county. Judges of the Appellate, Circuit, Superior and Criminal courts were busily congratulating those who were candidates in the election. The party workers remained at their headquarters until early this morning to receive the final returns.

Robbers Force Two to Lie on Floor and Steal $300

George Baron, 1012 South Grove avenue, Oak Park, manager of the Lincoln Loan company, 718 West 63d street, and George Morehart, 6438 Parnell avenue, a clerk there, were forced to lie on the floor and threatened with death by two armed robbers who last night took $300 from the safe.

THIEVES LOOT FREIGHT CAR.

Sparta, Ill., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Thieves broke into a freight car in the Missouri Illinois railroad yards here early today and trucked away approximately $300 worth of merchandise.

MINTON VICTOR OVER ROBINSON FOR U. S. SENATE

G. O. P. Man Defeated After Nine Years.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Sherman Minton, a young lawyer from New Albany who adopted the campaign slogan, "Back Roosevelt," led Arthur R. Robinson, Republican seeking reëlection.

Robinson, nine years in the senate, has been a constant assailant of the New Deal program. The vote in 1,279 of Indiana's 3,638 precincts gave Minton 297,589 votes to 261,858 for Robinson, a majority of 35,731 for the Democrat. Robinson, however, declined to issue a statement until tomorrow.

Minton amassed a lead of more than twenty thousand on the first returns from some of the state's larger cities, including Indianapolis, Gary, and Evansville.

May Gain House Seats.

The Republicans threatened inroads into the Democratic delegation in the national house of representatives. The Democrats have held all twelve Indiana seats, but the incomplete returns gave pluralities to Fred S. Purnell, Republican, opposing Mrs. Virginia Jenckes, Democratic representative from the Sixth district, and to Frederick Landis, Republican, seeking Representative George R. Durgan's seat from the Second district. Landis is the brother of the baseball commissioner, Kenesaw M. Landis.

South Bend Celebrates.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Celebrating their return to power in this city and county after a lapse of eight years, Republicans staged a wild demonstration as they took over the county courthouse here tonight. More than 2,000 exuberant marchers, led by bandsmen and a Veterans of Foreign Wars drum corps, stormed the courthouse, Democratic stronghold, and, howling with joy, heard impromptu orators voice the sentiments of their party. Election workers busy in the courthouse finally had to lock the doors of the building.

Candidate Takes Arm Out of Sling 1st Time to Vote

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Harry W. Nice, Republican gubernatorial candidate, was able to remove his arm from a sling today for the first time since he broke it early in the campaign. Nice found that he was unable to raise the arm but could grasp a pencil long enough to mark his ballot.

RITCHIE AHEAD WITH BUT TENTH OF COUNT MADE

Radcliffe Well Ahead of Senator France.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 7.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—With only 103 of Maryland's 1,359 precincts reported early this morning, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, Democratic candidate for reëlection, led his Republican opponent, Harry W. Nice, by 3,034 votes.

Of the precincts reporting 89 were from Baltimore. They gave Ritchie a lead of 3,268 while the 14 county precincts in gave Nice a 46 vote plurality.

The vote for the 103 was Ritchie, 15,846; Nice, 12,812.

A total of 83 precincts gave George L. Radcliffe—Democratic, New Deal enthusiast and friend of President Roosevelt—12,473 votes to 7,677 for former Senator Joseph I. France. Radcliffe is seeking the seat now held by Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough, Republican.

The count last night and early this morning was the slowest in the history of Maryland, just as the ballot was the largest ever to confront a free state voter. Eight hours after the Baltimore polls closed—two hours before those of the state—only 10 per cent of the count had been completed.

The returns from the counties—were Republicans contend Nice will overcome Ritchie's lead—were even slower.

Other Nearby Strongholds of G. O. P. Invaded.

Lake county yesterday elected two Democrats to county offices. It was the first time any Democrat has won a Lake county office since the civil war. Kane county also elected two Democrats, the first in fifty years.

The Lake county victors were Bart Tyrrell, in the race for sherif, and Russ Alford for county clerk. With all the 75 precincts counted, Tyrrell had 18,896 votes and his Republican opponent, Lawrence A. Doolittle, 18,824, a margin of 72 for Tyrrell. Alford won over Lew A. Hendee, who has had the county clerkship since 1910, by 311 votes, the totals being 18,716 for Alford and 18,405 for Hendee.

Hoodlumism Is Issue.

Tyrrell, a Waukegan policeman, campaigned on the ground that the Republican administration had permitted hoodlums to get into Lake county. He promised to bar the use of slot machines and to run out racketeers. Alford promised during his campaign to stop the "marriage mill" aspects of the clerk's office. No license will be issued to intoxicated couples and none to any one after 9 p. m., he said.

It was indicated that Doolittle and Hendee would file contests. Other Republican nominees in Lake county won by comfortable margins.

In three other counties close to Chicago the Democrats made important gains and it seemed likely on the basis of early returns that each would elect one or more Democrats.

The Kane County Surprise.

Kane county broke its no-Democrat rule of half a century by electing Albert J. Kampmeyer sherif over L. L. Urch, Republican, and the present county treasurer. The vote was 22,729 to 18,743. The second Democratic winner in Kane county was Leon M. Schuler, who is chosen county treasurer. He defeated Harry Crawford, present sherif, 23,285 to 19,672. Only one precinct was missing in these returns. The other Republican candidates on the county ticket won.

In Du Page county one Democrat, William A. Robinson, apparently was the winner when 67 of the county' 80 precincts had ben counted. He had a lead of 16,361 to 14,633, over Mrs. M. Ellsworth, Republican, for Circuit court clerk.

Three other Du Page Republicans were in danger. John F. Hesterman, for county treasurer, was 46 votes behind Arthur L. Hellyer, the vote standing 17,331 to 17,377. For probate judge the Republican nominee, Edgar F. Thoma, was leading Thomas Maisel, 15,647 to 14,902. Bernard M. Long, Republican, was leading F. M. McFarland for Probate court, 15,626 to 15,624. Arthur A. Bennett, Republican, had a big lead for sherif over Frank E. Pratt. Other G. O. P. nominees had good leads.

G. O. P. Wins in McHenry.

McHenry county, in contrast to the general Democratic aspect of the election, returned substantial majorities of at least 3,000 for all Republican nominees.

In Will county 18 out of 90 precincts showed the Democratic ticket leading by about 500 votes. Will county now has Republican administration.

Kankakee county elected a Democratic county judge, county treasurer, and superintendent of schools, but chose Republicans for sherif and county clerk. The winners were John Beckers, county judge; W. B. Brown, county treasurer; Clarence J. Kennedy, superintendent of schools; John Stack, sherif, and Walter Richert, county clerk.

REP. MARLAND LEADS PINE IN OKLAHOMA GUBERNATORIAL RACE

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Oklahoma elected Representative E. W. Marland, Democrat, to succeed W. H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray as governor and returned eight of her nine Democratic congressmen, tabulation of returns indicated tonight.

Returns from 851 of 3,365 precincts gave Marland almost a two to one lead over W. B. Pine, Republican ex-senator. The count was 80,990 to 42,206.

Representatives Will Rogers, at large; Wilburn Cartwright, Third district, and Jed Johnson, Sixth district, won reëlection. Other Democrats elected to the house were Jack Nichols, Second district; P. L. Gassaway, the cowboy judge, Fourth district; Sam Massingale, Seventh district, and Josh Lee, college professor humorist, Fifth district.

Idaho Democrats Sweep Election; Gov. Ross Leads

Returns from 119 of the 792 precincts in the state gave Gov. C. Ben Ross, Democrat, seeking a third term, a vote of 15,051 against 11,780 for his Republican opponent, Frank L. Stephan.

In the First district, Representative Compton I. White, Democrat, held a lead for reëlection. The vote was: White, 4,844; Burton L. French, Republican, 3,197. In the Second congressional district, D. Worth Clark, young Democrat, led Heber Q. Hale, Republican, 9,197 to 5,854.

LOCAL OPTION VOTERS FAVOR DRY DISTRICTS

Outlying communities in Chicago expressed a sympathetic attitude toward liquor trafic in their neighborhoods in returns on respective wet and dry option propositions. The question of limiting liquor sales was presented to 185 precincts of eight wards. Of 69 precincts whose returns were reported by a late hour this morning, 43 voted to remain wet and 26 voted to go dry.

The margins in three precincts were close. In the Thirty-fourth precinct of the Thirteenth ward the votes stood at 217 to go dry and 215 to remain wet. In the Seventeenth precinct of the Sixth ward it was 115 wet and 111 dry. In the Twenty-first precinct of the Thirty-seventh ward the count was 193 wet and 185 dry.

Six precincts of the Ninth ward, comprising the West Pullman and Roseland districts, all voted to eliminate liquor sales. These precincts were the 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, and 31st.

In Austin, which was dry for many years before the prohibition era, 26 precincts of the Thirty-seventh ward voted to stay wet and 10 voted to go dry. The wet precincts are 1st, 2d, 4th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 13th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 21st, 22d, 24th, 25th, 27th, 34th, 37th, 38th, 39th, 40th, 50th, 55th, 59th, and 63d. The dry precincts are the 23d, 28th, 30th, 31st, 36th, 41st, 42d, 44th, 45th, and 53d.

In the Sixth ward, precincts 13, 15, 19 and 22 voted dry, and precincts 12, 17, 18 and 26 voted wet. In the Thirty-sixth ward all of eight precincts retained their wet status. They were the 27th, 29th, 30th, 40th, 42nd, 45th, 46th, and 47th. Five precincts in the Thirtieth ward likewise kept their liquid privilege. They were the 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th, and 19th.

But five precincts of the Eighth ward adopted a dry attitude. The 28th, 46th, 47th, 48th and 53rd precincts voted to do away with the liquor trafic.

SIX OF 7 STATES VOTING ON REPEAL GIVE WET MAJORITY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Wednesday.] — (AP) — Six of the seven states balloting on prohibition repeal were giving wet majorities in partial returns from yesterday's elections.

Kansas alone appeared headed to retain its prohibition laws.

A majority in favor of repeal was recorded in Wyoming, the count standing with about one-fourth of the state's 660 precincts reported for repeal, 4,753; against, 1,774.

The amendment to repeal the South Dakota amendment had a lead of about 4,660.

West Virginia and Florida were giving commanding majorities to repeal, the former showing 151,452 for repeal to 110,646 against in 1,073 out of 2,338 precincts, and the peninsula state 15,437 for and 6,292 against in 295 out of 1,284.

Nebraska went 130,212 to 84,980 for repeal in a third of its precincts.

Ten precincts out of 792 in Idaho gave a slight lead to repealists, 745 to 720.

TRUMAN OBTAINS PATTERSON SEAT FROM MISSOURI

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Missouri today elected Harry S. Truman, supporter of the New Deal, to the United States senate in place of Senator Roscoe C. Patterson, Republican critic of the Roosevelt policies.

Returns indicated Truman, now presiding judge of the Jackson county [Kansas City] court, had carried the entire Democratic state ticket into office with him.

In returns from 2,394 of the state's 4,269 precincts Truman was leading Patterson by 159,000 votes. The totals were: Truman, 326,485; Patterson, 167,217.

FOUR YEAR TERM APPEARS CERTAIN FOR ALDERMEN

Extension of the aldermanic term to four years in place of the present two year terms appeared a certainty late last night as the early 5 to 4 lead was maintained in the votes cast for and against the proposition in 1,270 of the 3,127 Chicago precincts. The votes reported from the 1,270 precincts stood 217,769 in favor of the proposition and 180,539 against.

Thus, it appeared, the movement to lengthen the city council terms had at last succeeded. It was estimated by the Municipal Voters' league, which supported the movement, that a saving of $800,000 yearly in the cost of elections would result from the longer term. In addition, it was argued, the longer term will attract better candidates and allow aldermen to become more familiar with the ramifications of the complex city government. It was further contended that aldermen would not use so much of their time in pre-election campaigning.

A similar proposal to extend the aldermanic term was beaten by a substantial majority in 1920, the vote being 392,000 to 132,000. But in 1927, when the proposal again went on the ballot, the movement gained strength.

New Streamline Link Arrives

Among the arrivals at the Municipal Airport Monday afternoon was the new "Aero" cuff link, shipped via the United Air Lines from New York to The Men's Store of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. The Aero cuff link, shown in the inset, is exclusive with The Men's Store. This is the first time it has been seen in Chicago and, for that matter, as far as is known, the first time the Aero link has been obtainable in the United States. Tests have brought out the fact that its streamlining has made for inserting speed that cuts anywhere from one to five minutes off a man's dressing time. The new Aero link is on display in the Monroe Street windows of The Men's Store—priced at $5 set.

DEMOCRATS GAIN BIGGER MAJORITY IN THE ASSEMBLY

Elect 80 to 90 Members of House.

Democrats have increased their narrow margin of control in the Illinois house of representatives, according to the scattered returns from yesterday's election which were available at midnight. They also made a few gains in the senate, where they already have a comfortable lead.

The few returns received from downstate districts showed Democratic sentiment less strong than that exhibited in Cook county. However, it was powerful enough to elect from 80 to 90 members of the house. It appeared that the Republicans would have less than 65 in their minority bloc next session.

Bruce A. Campbell, Democratic state chairman, declared that 92 Democrats had been elected, or fifteen more than the 77 majority necessary to organize the house and elect a speaker. Last session the Democratic margin was only three and Gov. Horner often had trouble in handling it.

G. O. P. Against NRA Law.

Unless later returns show a decidedly different picture, there appeared to be little possibility that the Republicans could muster sufficient strength to repeal the tyranny law—the state NRA compliance act—at a regular session next January. Almost to a man the Republicans running in the contested districts were pledged to vote this contentious statute from the books. It was placed there at Gov. Horner's insistence by the special session which met last spring.

In the Cook county senate races the incomplete returns showed Democrats leading. As surprising as the defeat of Congressman Oscar De Priest was the apparent failure of another well known colored Republican, Representative William E. King of the Third district, who was running for the senate this year. His Democratic opponent, Bryant A. Hammond, also colored, was leading King.

Close Race in Seventh District.

In the 7th district—the Cook county country towns—Charles F. Baumrucker, Republican senatorial nominee, was in a nip and tuck contest with his Republican opponent, Arthur J. Bidwill. Baumrucker had the edge in 264 precincts out of the 323 in the district. In the house contest Republicans, Mrs. Bernice T. Van Der Vries and Representative Frank G. Foster, were leading Frank G. Ring and Oscar S. Johnson, with Ring given the advantage for third place.

In the fight for the three house seats in the 6th district, Charles H. Weber, present county commissioner, and Represenative Joseph H. Donahue, Democrats, were ahead with Representative Drennan J. Slater, Republican, apparently the third successful candidate. Representative Arthur E. Eischer, Republican, appeared to have been defeated.

The third house contest was in the 31st district, where Representatives Mason S. Sullivan and Pierce L. Shannon, Democrats, were believed reelected, with Edward P. Saltiel leading the second Republican, William H. Ennis.

Democrats Lead Senate Races.

Representative Josephine Perry was trailing in the house contest in the Fifth district. She was behind the two Democrats, Representative B. J. Kewin and Louis G. Berman, and the other Republican, Representative William J. Warfield.

Senate winners, on the basis of these incomplete returns, included every Democratic candidate. Roy C. Woods, Republican incumbent, polled less votes than Prof. T. V. Smith of the University of Chicago, but Smith's lead was not great. Much less doubt existed in the other districts. The winners, all Democrats, appeared to be Patrick J. Carroll, 9th; John M. Lee, 11th; Francis J. Loughran, 13th; Peter P. Kielminski, 15th; R. V. Graham, 19th; George M. Maypole, 21st; Thomas E. Keane, 23d; Frank J. Huckin Jr., 25th; John Broderick, 27th; William J. Connors, 29th, and Harold G. Ward, 31st.

Downstate returns were not as complete as those received in Cook county but from the Joliet district came word that the Republican floor leader, Senator Richard J. Barr, dean of the upper house, was in danger of being defeated by J. V. McCarthy, Democrat. It also appeared that Representative Luther B. Bratton, Kankakee Republican, had been beaten.

SEN. WHEELER DOUBLES VOTE OF G. O. P. RIVAL

Helena, Mont., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Democratic supporters of the New Deal in Montana, headed by the senior United States Senator, Burton K. Wheeler, swept into a formidable lead tonight in 187 of the state's 1,387 precincts.

Wheeler's margin over former Federal Judge George M. Bourquin, outspoken Republican adversary of the recovery program, increased with each added report. On reports thus far Wheeler had 24,754; Bourquin, 10,502.

By an equally heavy margin, Wheeler's running mate, James E. Murray, one time head of the public works of Montana, led former Congressman Scott Leavitt [Rep.] for the two years remaining of the term of the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem.].

DEMOCRATS AHEAD IN CONNECTICUT VOTE; MALONEY, CROSS LEAD

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—With all of the 169 Connecticut towns heard from, the vote for governor in Connecticut at 3 o'clock this morning stood as follows:

Gov. Wilbur L. Cross, Democrat, 258,444.

Hugh Alcorn, Republican, 249,267.

Connecticut will definitly gain a Democratic senator in the election of Francis Maloney over Senator Frederic Walcott.

Congressman at Large Charles M. Bakewell, Republican, went down in a similar defeat. Bakewell led the Republican state ticket two years ago and his margin of defeat may be the smallest of any Republican.

William M. Citron of Middletown, who defeated Congressman Bakewell, was Democratic floor leader two years ago. Schuyler Merrit of Stamford will probably be the only Connecticut Republican congressman elected. He defeated Edward T. Buckingham of Bridgeport. The Democratic state ticket is believed to have been elected for the first time during the three elections of Gov. Cross.

VANDENBERG OF MICHIGAN HOLDS SEAT IN SENATE

Fitzgerald Leads Lacy by 38,000.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Republican majorities outstate from today's election were mounting tonight, giving rise to the belief that they might offset the expected large Democratic vote in the Wayne county, Detroit, metropolitan area.

United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, led Frank A. Picard, his Democratic opponent. In 1,772 of the state's 3,451 precincts the vote stood: Vandenberg [Rep.], 300,928; Pickard [Dem.], 260,934.

Frank D. Fitzgerald, the Republican candidate for governor, led Arthur J. Lacy, Democratic nominee. The vote in 1,820 precincts was: Fitzgerald [Rep.], 328,766; Lacy [Dem.], 273,642.

The congressional races were close. In the Twelfth district Representative W. Frank James, Republican target of a concentrated attack from the national administration, was trailing Frank E. Hook, Democrat, on the face of incomplete returns. Representative Carl E. Mapes, Republican, also was trailing in the Fifth district.

It was estimated that an outstate Republican majority of at least 75,000 would be required to withstand the metropolitan Democratic vote and the ratio, on the face of inconclusive returns, indicated that such a majority might be accumulated.

GOVERNOR BERRY APPARENT VICTOR IN SOUTH DAKOTA

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Gov. Tom Berry and Congressman Fred Hildebrandt from the First congressional district apparently were reelected in today's balloting, while the remainder of the Democratic incumbents in state offices were running ahead of their opponents.

The trend for Berry and Hildebrandt was so pronounced that a surprise reversal would be necessary to upset the indicated result.

In 442 voting districts Berry had 46,405 and Allen, his Republican opponent, had 34,137.

T. B. Werner, Democratic incumbent congressman, and Francis Case, his Republican opponent, were in a close struggle for the congressional seat in the Second district as returns were tabulated early this morning. Werner had a lead of 354 over Case when the vote from 186 districts out of 652 had reported shortly after midnight. The count was: Werner, 9,080; Case, 8,726.

Memphis Votes to Issue Bonds for Power Plant

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Memphiisians today voted overwhelmingly to allow the city to issue bonds up to $9,000,000 with which to acquire a distributing plant for TVA electric power. Out of 91 precincts in the city, the first 35 to report showed 11,669 in favor of the bond issue and only 676 against it.

NEBRASKA GOES FOR DEMOCRATS, REPEAL, BETTING

Cochran Leads His Rival Griswold.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Nebraska today appeared to have approved a one house state legislature, prohibition repeal, and parimutuel betting and generally to have joined the Democratic New Deal parade. Candidates for governor, however, were locked in a nearly dead heat race on the face of returns from nearly one-fifth of the state's 2,029 precincts in yesterday's election.

All three proposed constitutional state amendments appeared to be carrying, with repeal leading the way by a more than 10,000 margin. The one house legislative plans sponsored by Senator George W. Norris was doing nearly as well, but the horse race betting amendment held an advantage of little more than 3,000 votes.

R. L. Cochran, Democratic nominee for governor and former state engineer, was leading Dwight Griswold, Republican nominee and northwestern Nebraska newspaper publisher, by less than 500 votes.

Meanwhile Representative E. R. Burke, the New Deal candidate for the full term U. S. senatorship, was piling up a steadily increasing lead over Robert G. Simmons, caustic administration critic. The latest figures were 80,873 to 65,246.

Karl Stefan, 50 year old Norfolk business man and radio announcer, making his first campaign, was the lone Republican leader in the five congressional races.

He was running nearly 5,000 votes ahead of Representative Edgar Howard, only Democratic incumbent seeking reëlection, with the vote nearly a fourth complete in that district. Democrats led in the other four races with majorities of from 600 to 5,500.

DEMOCRAT AHEAD IN GOVERNORSHIP RACE IN OREGON

Portland, Ore., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Charles H. Martin, Democrat, was leading Peter Zimmerman, independent, and Joe E. Dunne, Republican, for governor of Oregon in totals from 83 out of the 1,647 precincts tonight. The vote: Martin, 4,451; Zimmerman, 4,110; Dunne, 3,368.

In the Second congressional district Jay H. Upton, Republican, was leading Walter M. Pierce, Democratic incumbent. Twelve precincts gave Upton 967 and Pierce 760.

In the First district returns, the Republican incumbent, James W. Mott, had 201 votes. R. R. Turner, Democrat, had 195.

BRIGHT SPOTS IN THE NEWS

BRIGHT SPOT No. 1

Chicago pay rolls for September gained 12% over September, 1933. Employment was up 5%, real estate transfers 6%, department store sales 9%. Cook County new car sales were up 12%.

BRIGHT SPOT No. 2

Since its introduction on April first, 1934, compared with the same period last year, the sale of New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil increased 66.1%.

BEFORE New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil was offered to you it was road-tested for 963,000 miles. It was then tested against five nationally-known oils in a Destruction Test on Indianapolis Speedway. One fill of this new oil carried a car 4,729 miles—1,410.2 miles farther than the next best oil!

The original Germ Processed Oil was giving satisfaction in cars in 40 states. Motorists said no other oil could touch it.

But Continental scientists discovered, after years of research, that a better oil could be made—better than any mineral oil ever manufactured. And they made it!

Increase of 66.1% tells how motorists took to this new oil. They tell us it has a lower rate of consumption than any oil they ever used.

If you want an oil you can trust unconditionally, drive in at the Conoco Red Triangle and fill with New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil.

MOORE WINNING FOR U. S. SENATE IN JERSEY RACE

Democratic Governor Is Also Victor.

Gov. A. Harry Moore, Democrat, was elected United States senator over the Republican veteran, Senator Hamilton F. Kean, by an indicated plurality of 275,000. The actual vote as tabulated from late returns from 857 of 3,488 precincts in the state gave Moore 166,108 and Kean 98,938.

William L. Dill, Democrat, also swept into the governorship over his Republican adversary, Harold G. Hoffman, by an indicated margin of about 92,000. Returns from 847 districts gave Dill 145,525 and Hoffman 123,081.

Returns Come Slowly.

Because of the unusually heavy vote and the late hour at which the polls closed, tabulation of the returns was proceeding slowly. They indicated a huge Democratic plurality in the party's normal stronghold in Hudson county, and varying leads for the Democratic candidates in Passaic, Union, Hunterdon, Middlesex and Burlington counties. The Republicans succeeded in holding Camden county, it appears.

In Jersey City, where a total vote of 119,075 was recorded, Moore received 16,565 and Kean 3,877 of the first 20,442 to be tabulated. Dill was only slightly behind his Democratic running mate, with 15,664 votes to 4,880 for Hoffman.

A total vote of about 27,000 was registered in Bayonne, and early tabulations showed 3,915 votes for Moore and 1,090 for Kean. Dill had received 3,308 and Hoffman 1,674.

Congress Fights Close.

A close fight for New Jersey's fourteen congressional seats was indicated on the basis of early returns. Only in Hudson county, seat of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, Democratic leader, did a Democratic congressional candidate have a wide lead. The first ten districts gave: Hart [Dem.], 1,235; Tauber [Rep.], 62.

In the Second district, embracing Atlantic, Cape May, and Cumberland counties, Isaac Bacharach, veteran Republican representative, was threatened by Charles W. Ackley, Democrat. The first nine districts gave: Bacharach, 394; Ackley, 363.

Senator Pittman Leads in Votes of Nevada

Reno, Nev., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—About 180 precincts complete and incomplete in Nevada give for Senator Pittman [D.], 5,630; Malone [R.], 3,141; for congress, Scrugham [D.], 5,978; Russell [R.], 2,555; for governor, Kirman [D.], 4,793; Griswold [R.], 3,327.

Named Members of Board of Appeals

Emmett Whealan (left) and Fred W. Brummel, both Democrats, elected members of board of appeals.

G. O. P. GOVERNOR SEEMS SURE OF KANSAS VICTORY

Republicans May Gain Congress Seats.

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 6.—Returns from one-third of the state tonight pointed to a clear-cut victory by Gov. Alf M. Landon over his Democratic opponent, Omar B. Ketchum, by a majority likely to run 50,000.

Republicans drew considerable hope of increasing their representation in congress. As the returns piled up, it began to appear there might be some upsets for the Democrats. Also, it appeared that in the Third district, where Harold McGugin, Republican representative, was in trouble on the first returns, McGugin probably would pull through.

Has Trouble in Cities.

The first returns were from the cities and it has been in the cities of the district that McGugin has had trouble with labor. E. W. Patterson, Democrat, led on the early count, but within three hours McGugin has passed him.

It was in the Sixth district that one of the surprises of the election appeared possible. Frank Carlson, Republican, contesting with Katheryn O'Loughlin McCarthy, Democrat, representative in congress, had pulled out in front, after a questionable start at the beginning of the count. Saline, the county having the heaviest population in the district, was producing a heavy vote for Carlson. His own county, Cloud, favored him heavily. Other counties expected to give the woman a majority, appeared to be going to Carlson.

W. P. Lambertson, Republican representative in the First district, seemed to have had no difficulty.

Guyer Shows Some Losses.

U. S. Guyer, in the second district, showed some loss to Howard Payne, Democrat, in the southern counties of the district. However, Wyandotte county with its heavy vote appeared certain to wipe out any loss elsewhere.

It was apparent that Hal Harlan, Republican, and Randolph Carpenter, now representative in congress from the Fourth district, had been through a battle. The early returns gave an edge to Harlan, but the vote scarcely was sufficient to justify any conclusion that Harlan had won.

Clifford Hope, Republican representative from the Seventh district, seemingly had made a better race against L. E. Webb than had been expected a week before the election. Webb's supporters were claiming he would sweep the district.

GOVERNOR OLSON, SHIPSTEAD LEAD MINNESOTA VOTE

Conservatives Engulfed by Radicals.

BULLETIN.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 7 (Wednesday).—(Special.)—From 631 precincts out of 3,700, Olson had 121,014, Nelson 93,987, and Regan 31,498.

BULLETIN.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 7 (Wednesday).—(AP)—In 253 precincts of 3,700 Shipstead had 65,589; Holmberg, 26,105, and Hardale, 40,041.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Liberalists, embracing the anti-capitalistic tenets of the Farmer-Labor party, engulfed the more conservative Republicans and Democrats in a flood of votes that swept leading lights of Minnesota's third party into comfortable leads tonight.

Led by Gov. Floyd B. Olson, self-styled "radical," the Farmer-Labor party had given United States Senator Henrik Shipstead a commanding margin over Einar Hoidale, his nearest opponent, in the race for the senate, and had accorded two of the third party's candidates for the lesser state offices smaller pluralities.

Nelson Falls Behind.

Martin A. Nelson, Republican, was slowly falling behind as additional returns in the gubernatorial race were tallied, while John E. Regan, Democrat, who had joined Nelson in condemning the Farmer-Laborite platform for public ownership and state printing of free text books, was a poor third.

Shipstead was far ahead of N. J. Holmberg, Republican candidate for the senate. Hoidale, who abandoned his congressional post to campaign against the only Farmer-Labor candidate in the higher branch of congress, made little headway toward whittling down Shipstead's edge on the basis of scattered returns.

From 590 precincts of the state's 3,700, Olson received 114,219 votes. Nelson, Republican, had 69,378, and Regan, Democrat, polled 29,978.

Other State Results.

Gov. Olson's running mate, State Representative Hjalmar Petersen, candidate for lieutenant governor, showed the way to his Republican and Democratic foes while A. H. Kleffman had a precarious hold on first place in the race for state treasurer. Julius Schmahl, incumbent Republican, was a dangerous second.

Stafford King, Republican state auditor seeking reelection, encountered vigorous opposition from John T. Lyons, Farmer-Labor. Only a few votes separated those two with returns far from complete.

Young Physician Tries to End Life in Hotel

Failing after six months' effort to obtain an Illinois license to practice medicine, Dr. Joseph T. Graham, 33 years old, who came to Maywood from Draper, Va., tried to kill himself by slashing his throat with a pen knife in his room in the Maywood hotel yesterday, according to the suburban police.

A note was found in the room addressed to Graham's father, William, in Draper. "Dearest Father," it said. "Not guilty as charged. Love to you all. Yours, Thompson." Taken to the Westlake hospital, Dr. Graham declined to explain the cryptic message. Physicians said he would recover.

Police Asked to Search for Missing Canton Girl

Canton, Ill., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Police throughout central Illinois have been asked to search for Bernadine Snider, 16, missing from her home here since Saturday. Members of her family said that she had been threatened on several occasions while living in Pontiac, where she resided until about four months ago.

Drops Dead Near Polling Place in Elmwood Park

William F. Zettwoch, 55 years old, 434 Milwaukee avenue, died yesterday in front of a polling place at 7630 Grand avenue, Elmwood Park. A rescue squad of the Elmwood Park fire department was summoned, but could not revive him.

SINCLAIR LOSES BY BIG MARGIN IN CALIFORNIA

Sinclair to "Wait Patiently."

"The campaign is now over, and I violate no confidence in telling the people of California that President Roosevelt told me he was going to broadcast to the nation on the principle of production for use," Sinclair said after conceding his defeat.

"I am going to wait patiently day by day for him to fulfill his promise."

Sinclair charged that "thousands of votes were stolen today—that millions were spent for lies and all kinds of vilification, slander, and so forth."

"We do not know yet for certain what the outcome of the election will be," said Sinclair. "It may be Thursday before we will know.

"But regardless of the outcome, the EPIC movement will go on because the state is drifting into bankruptcy and something will have to be done about it."

LAUNDRY DRIVERS EMPOWER CHIEFS TO ORDER STRIKE

Chicago's union laundry wagon drivers last night voted, at a meeting in Columbus hall at 1340 Washington boulevard, to authorize their leaders to call a strike at once in protest against the cash and carry branch shops of the employing laundries.

Members of the union's executive committee indicated that the strike order might be given in a few days.

It was claimed by the drivers that the branches have resulted in a reduction of 20 per cent in the employment of union men. Their spokesmen said they were willing to continue working for $30 a week, plus commissions, if the cash-carry branches were eliminated.

St. Mary's School Votes Missing After the Election

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—More than 400 ballots cast by students and instructors at St. Mary's college for girls in the election yesterday were mysteriously missing this morning, more than five hours after they had been presumably dispatched to the office of the election commissioners for this county. The machine tabulation, comprising an entire precinct, had been sent from the college at 8 p. m., but when the commissioners attempted to trace the ballots at 1:30 a. m., they could not be found. The college vote, normally is Democratic. It was expected to supply a balance of power to several local candidates.

Abraham Lincoln Voter Casts Anti-New Deal Ballot

Le Roy Simmons, when he was a farmer boy of 24, cast his first vote in 1860, for Abraham Lincoln for President. Ever since he has voted the Republican ticket. He is now 98 years old and lives at 325 Linden avenue, Oak Park. "I'm against the New Deal," he said as he voted yesterday. "It's a wild scheme, and it won't work."

EX-POLICEMAN'S WIFE, 62, ENDS HER LIFE IN LAKE

Mrs. Alice F. Loan, 62 years old, 6539 University avenue, ended her life in Lake Michigan yesterday. Her body was found floating near the mouth of the Jackson park yacht harbor. A note in her purse left on shore said: "Notify my sister, Mrs. A. B. Phoenix, 913 Newall street, Flint, Mich."

Mrs. Phoenix said she last saw Mrs. Loan Monday in Flint. "Alice was married to Wick Clark, a Michigan farmer who died 16 years ago," Mrs. Phoenix said. "Six years ago she married John Loan, then a Chicago policeman, who was dismissed from the force after their marriage. Her first husband left her considerable money, but she was nearly penniless when she came to my home two weeks ago.

"She said she and her second husband quarreled often. She left him once before, but went back. She still loved him, for she sold a watch and ring to get money to return to him Monday."

$75,000 FIRE DAMAGE.

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Damage estimated at $75,000 was caused by a fire last night in the old building of the Morris Packing company here. Most of the loss was in cattle hides stored in the building by Armour & Co. Five fire companies battled the flames for three hours.

MUNITION THEORY PUT IN REPORT ON MORRO CASTLE

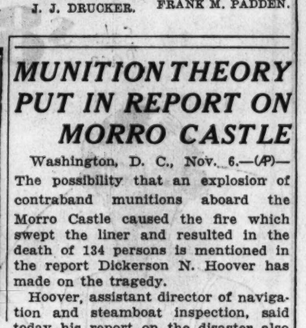
Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The possibility that an explosion of contraband munitions aboard the Morro Castle caused the fire which swept the liner and resulted in the death of 134 persons is mentioned in the report Dickerson N. Hoover has made on the tragedy.

Hoover, assistant director of navigation and steamboat inspection, said today his report on the disaster also reviewed other possible causes of the blaze, among them incendiarism, spontaneous combustion and defective electric wiring.

His summary is in the hands of Secretary Roper. A copy also has been delivered to Martin Conboy, federal district attorney in New York, for study in connection with possible criminal proceedings.

The study of the Morro Castle disaster failed to produce testimony which indicated that an explosion started the flames, but Hoover said the munitions angle had been closely scrutinized.

"I wouldn't care to state what theory the evidence developed thus far bears out," he said. "That isn't our job."



"Thanks, Marge—and can you imagine . . . this ducky little lapin swagger style cost me only $79! Why, it's just the coat I've been looking for, and it's warm as toast. You ought to get one, too—Walzer has some models that you'll think are darling!"

RAIL HEAD JOKES ABOUT REPORTS OF HIS ILLNESS

Miami, Fla., Nov. 6.—(AP)—From his yacht anchored off shore here, W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, tonight sent to the Associated Press this penciled comment upon reports he was seriously ill:

"Do you remember what Mark Twain was reported to have said?" (The famous humorist once said reports of his "death" "were greatly exaggerated.")

Atterbury, operated on in August for removal of gall stones, left Philadelphia two weeks ago aboard his 110 foot yacht Arminia for a cruise in southern waters.

The Arminia arrived in Port Miami yesterday. Attendants said the railroad president was "too ill" to receive other than close friends.

However, an official of the yacht said Atterbury came ashore this afternoon for an automobile ride.

Atterbury's comment was in response to a message sent to the yacht inquiring about his health.

ELECTION RIOTS WIDESPREAD IN U. S.; MANY SHOT

Toll Rises to Five Dead in Parade Battle.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Three men were killed and two wounded late today during Kentucky's elections for congress and Court of Appeals. The balloting was light.

Two of the slayings were attributed to election rows, and another to two men happening to meet in front of a polling place and attempting to settle a previous difference.

Kendall Allen, 21, was killed at Argillite in Greenup county as he wrestled with his brother, Joseph, 19, for possession of a pistol with which Joseph was alleged to have wounded Columbus Picklesimer in an election argument. Picklesimer was shot in the arm.

Quarrel Over Elections.

The death at Wecksesbury in Floyd county of McKinny Williams, 27, Negro, was attributed to an election quarrel with Frank Tanner, another Negro.

At Livingston in Rockcastle county, Town Marshal John Lake, 52, shot and fatally wounded A. B. Brown, 50, in front of a polling place. Brown stabbed the marshal over the heart in a fight said to have grown out of Brown's arrest several days ago on disorderly conduct charges. Brown died en route to a hospital and Lake was in a serious condition tonight.

Counting of the ballots starts tomorrow.

One Killed; Two Shot.

Holland, Mo., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—A white man was killed, two others wounded, and a number of Negroes beaten here today as racial feeing over Negroes voting in the general election flared into violence.

The shootings and beatings, all attributed to three gunmen, were believed to be a new outbreak of the racial disorder that occurred in the southeastern part of the state in recent weeks when a mob tried to lynch three Negroes.

Bullets from the weapons of the three gunmen took the life of Horace Farrow, 36, and wounded his father John, 65, as the car in which they were riding pulled away from the home of W. L. Myers, superintendent of the Holland Consolidated school.

Accompanied by Negroes.

The Farrows were accompanied by two Negroes, who apparently were the cause of the shooting, and who came off unscathed. It is believed the gunmen thought the Negroes had voted or were being taken to a voting place.

However, the Farrows had hired one of the colored men, Sampson Brow, to drive them to Alamo, Tenn., on a business trip, and the second Negro, Edmond Drobie, a school teacher, was making the drive with them. Neither of the Negroes intended to vote.

About an hour later Clarence Posey, a Republican, who had taken several Negroes to vote, was shot by three men, believed to be the same as those who attacked the Farrows.

Death Toll Reaches Five.

Kelayres, Pa., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—The toll of dead from the gunfire which raked a poltical parade here last night rose to five today as citizens of this little mountain mining town went fearfully to the polls, dreading a recurrence of violence.

Andrew Kontishion, 36, who lived in the nearby village of Lofty, died today of a score of wounds he received from the hail of lead that sprayed down upon the men, women, and children in the parade. Dominick Perna died in a Hazleton hospital.

Slain in Election Fight.

West Union, O., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Lon Hayslip, 61, was shot and fatally wounded near here today during an election quarrel. His alleged assailant, Floyd Covert, 48, fled after the shooting and was being sought by a posse headed by Sherif H. E. Ogle.

Two Taken to Hospital.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Two men were taken to a hospital today following a fight in a tenement district polling place here today. The row was precipitated when a Republican woman watcher accused a voter of insulting her. The voter was ejected, but returned with a crank handle as a weapon.

Tavern Keeper Is Held for Breaking Rum Law

Vincenzo Cutaia, 38 years old, owner of a tavern at 3812 North Ashland avenue, was held yesterday to the grand jury by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker in bond of $1,000 on charges of violation of the internal revenue laws. According to Eugene A. Tappy, the government prosecutor, Cutaia kept in the basement of the tavern a complete cutting plan including an electrical "ageing machine."

SHOT, HE ADMITS HOLDUP.

Dubuque, Ia., Nov. 6.—(AP)—An hour after his arrest in a doctor's office, where he had a .32 caliber bullet removed from his right shoulder, police said Vernon Rexroat, 18, of Ottawa, Ill., admitted he was shot while attempting a holdup at Morris, Ill., Sunday night.

FEW COMPLAINTS OF VOTE FRAUDS REACH OFFICIALS

Jarecki Sees Election as Most Orderly.

Complaints of cheating or irregularities were few last night as judges and clerks of election counted the landslide vote. Not more than a half dozen arrests were made while the polls were open, and County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki proclaimed the election the most orderly held in Chicago in many a decade.

Republican chieftains declared that the early returns disheartened Republican workers and caused them to abandon their tasks at the polling places. Watchers employed by the Nonpartisan Voters' association reported to C. B. Hopkins, secretary of the association, that they saw no evidence of vote frauds.

Ruling Slows Up Challenging.

In the early voting many calls came from the Forty-second ward, which was agitated over the race between William J. Connors, Democrat, and Robert M. Woodward, Republican, for election to the state senate. The election commissioners ruled that a challenge should not be recognized unless the challenger lived in the precinct where he was objecting. From then on the complaints ceased.

James Sinatera, 830 Townsend street, Republican precinct captain in the Forty-second ward, reported to police he was attacked by four men. Dr. Joseph King, colored, a brother of William E. King, who was a candidate for the state senate, charged he was kidnaped from a Second ward polling place and released ten minutes later. James Calloway, colored, was arrested when he fired a shot after the automobile in which Dr. King was driven away.

Charge Bribery Attempt.

Republican headquarters asserted one of its watchers had been offered a $5 bribe to overlook a fraudulent vote in the Fiftieth precinct of the Thirteenth ward. Several men arrested in the Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh wards on charges of disorderly conduct were reported to be workers for the Republican party and they were freed with warnings by Judge Jarecki.

Kick Fatal to Robbery Victim; Suspect Is Held

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Joseph Toth, 29, faced possible trial for murder today after a victim of a $5 holdup, Frank Kovatch, 62, died. Kovatch identified Toth as the robber who kicked him in the abdomen.

MRS. J. P. WARBURG, COMPOSER, WILL SEEK A DIVORCE

New York, Nov. 6.—[Special.]—The James P. Warburgs, known variously in Wall street, the theater, music, and literature under the names Paul James and Kay Swift, have reached the end of their romantic story. Mrs. Warburg, it became known today, has arrived in Reno to establish residence for a divorce action.

Friends of the talented pair—he is a versifier and poet as well as banker and economist, she a composer—recalled today the concluding phrases of a song they wrote for Libby Holman in the first "Little Show." It ran:

"This is how the story ends:
"He's going to turn me down and say
'Can't we be friends?'"

That song ignited the torch song era back in 1929. They collaborated on many song hits and musical shows. "Fine and Dandy" was one and "Can This Be Love?"

Mr. Warburg is vice chairman of the Bank of Manhattan County, succeeding to the leadership of his father, the late Paul M. Warburg, in that bank. The couple were married in 1918. Mrs. Warburg is the daughter of the late Samuel Swift, music critic.

NEW DEAL ALLY WIDENS LEAD IN WEST VIRGINIA

Senator Hatfield Trails in Re-election Bid.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Democracy rode strong tonight on a New Deal tide that evidently is sweeping 29 year old Rush D. Holt into the United States senate by a 50,000 majority over Dr. Henry D. Hatfield, the Republican nominee for reelection.

Unofficial returns from 1,229 of the state's 2,338 precincts gave Holt 218,892 votes and Hatfield 166,167. These came in part from Republican strongholds such as McDowell county, which until the election of Roosevelt to the presidency had been consistently Republican. First returns in the Hatfield-Holt race tonight in McDowell gave a 5 to 1 advantage to the young delegate, who in the last two years has made an unusual record for himself in the state legislature as an advocate of common rights and anti-utility regulation.

Holt even fared well in the home precinct of Hatfield in Cabell county. There the count stood: Holt, 521; Hatfield, 379.

The Holt-Hatfield race overshadowed the rest of the state election, in which six congressmen and the state legislature was picked. The holdover United States senator is M. M. Neeley, a Democrat.

Holt, who deserted his home in Weston to receive returns in Charleston, was jubilant, and declared that the election "is a perfect indication that the people of West Virginia are 100 per cent behind the New Deal policies of President Roosevelt."

Holt made no issues in the campaign. Hatfield conducted one of extreme vigor and condemned the New Deal as communistic.

One Killed, Two Injured in Indiana Plane Crash

Lebanon, Ind., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Norman Cox, 16, was killed and Loyal Endicott, 29, and Lloyd Edrington, 24, both seriously injured when a biplane, piloted by Edrington, was banked too sharply and crashed in a field north of Lebanon this afternoon.

MODELS TO CONFER TOMORROW WITH SOCIETY MANIKINS

Society girls and professional models will attend a conciliation conference at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the Hotel Sherman to discuss which group may have the jobs of modeling clothes in Chicago.

The professional models will be presented by Mrs. Connie D. Seaman, director of the Models' Registration bureau, with an executive committee of ten or fifteen models. She seeks "a peaceful understanding." The society girls who have been modeling are to attend in person. Others to whom invitations have been issued are Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, president of the Chicago Junior league; Mrs. John W. Gary, president of the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital, and various authorities in the fashion field.

Last month the professionals petitioned the society girls on the grounds of "sportsmanship" to withdraw from the fashion field. The society models responded that they too thought their own practice "unfair." But nothing happened.

"They say we are right," complained Mrs. Seaman, "yet they do nothing about it. We don't ask any girls who need the money to withdraw. I think that together tomorrow we can work out some solution."

MARY NOLAN IS FREED BY JUDGE; PLANS REVENGE

New York, Nov. 6.—[Special.]—The charge against her withdrawn after a night spent in jail, Mary Nolan, blonde vaudeville and film actress, boarded the train this afternoon for Hazleton, Pa., vowing to make the man who caused her arrest pay and pay and pay.

The charge was dismissed by Magistrate Thomas A. Aurelio in the West Side court today when the court was shown a telegram from the chief of police at Hazleton stating that the charge had been withdrawn. Magistrate Aurelio said:

"It's none of my business, but the man responsible for this indignity should be made to pay.

"You are right, judge," said Miss Nolan, "and he's going to pay."

Miss Nolan, who has been working as an entertainer at a night club at Hazleton, was charged with the theft of $2,000 from Louis Keefman, a Newark theatrical manager, at 4 a. m. on Sunday, according to the alarm sent out. Mr. Keefman said that he went riding with Miss Nolan and went to sleep after having one drink. When he awoke both Miss Nolan and his money were missing, he said.

The actress made her first big splash on the front pages in 1924 when she was co-respondent in Frank Tinney's divorce suit.

CAMERAS CLICK AS ROOSEVELTS CAST BALLOTS

Mrs. Anna Dall Makes No Attempt to Vote.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt was receiving election returns from all parts of the country by radio and telephone in the library of his mother's mansion here tonight.

Although the Democrats carried the President's own voting district, the third in Hyde Park, they again lost Dutchess county, a Republican stronghold, with returns from 83 out of 87 districts giving George Moses 17,917 votes to 16,250 for Gov. Herbert Lehman.

Offers to Play a Game.

Although declining to venture a public opinion on the election results in the various states, the President suggested a sweepstakes to be participated in by himself, the correspondents, and Marvin H. McIntyre, a White House secretary. The entries in the guessing game will be compared with returns tomorrow and this will determine whether the President's selections indicate a greater interest in and knowledge of state campaigns than he has admitted.

The little town hall at Hyde Park, freshly painted and spruced up for the occasion, was the scene of a ceremony with kleig lights, the making of sound pictures and applause from Democratic workers when the President, his wife, and his mother voted today.

Good Weather for Ducks.

The President was driven the three miles from his mother's mansion to the voting place in a downpour of rain. He remarked, as he mounted the steps of the town hall, that it was "good weather for ducks, and the Democrats ought to win."

Mr. Roosevelt made no comment on his voting, except a laughing remark that it was "down the line." He undoubtedly voted for Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, both Democrats, whom he had indorsed in preëlection announcements. As to voting a straight Democratic ticket there could be no certainty, for the President remained in the booth enclosing the voting machine much longer than would have been required to run the gamut of the Democratic levers.

Town Hall Is Dingy.

The ancient frame structure where Mr. Roosevelt has voted for thirty years has been known as the "little yellow townhall," the white paint of its colonial exterior having been turned to a dingy color by the elements. Today, however, it was a bright white with green trimmings, and the lawn and pavements were in a good state of repair on the occasion of having the hall's first President of the United States as a voter. Republican workers smiled at this display of civic pride, recalling that two years ago both Hyde Park and Dutchess county voted overwhelmingly against sending Mr. Roosevelt to the White House.

The President greeted the clerks, judges and other voters with a wave of his hand as he entered the hall and asked them how the liked working under kleig lights.

Name Still is Same.

A woman election clerk asked, "What's your name?" the President laughingly replied, "It's still Franklin D.," whereupon the President's number, 289, was read on the list and he went into the booth to vote. When the photographers asked him to pose standing by Mrs. Roosevelt as he came out of the booth he walked away, laughing again and saying he did not care to have it appear that his wife was telling him how to vote. Then he posed with his wife and let the cameramen have all the pictures they wanted.

The President was preceded in the voting booth by his mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, and followed by his wife, who wound up her speechmaking campaign in behalf of Mrs. Caroline O'Day, candidate for representative at large, at a women's gathering in Poughkeepsie yesterday.

No other members of the family voted, the absentee ballot of Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall having been challenged by Mrs. Natalie Couch, Republican opponent of Mrs. O'Day. Mrs. Couch pointed out that Mrs. Dall, the President's daughter, had established a legal residence in Nevada to obtain her divorce from Curtis B. Dall last summer. Later Mrs. Roosevelt stated that her daughter had no intention of using the absentee ballot which she sent for and received.

James in Massachusetts.

The President's eldest son, James, maintains his legal residence in Massachusetts. The second son, Elliott, has lived in Arizona, California, Nevada and Washington, D. C., during the last eighteen months. The younger sons, Franklin Jr. and John are not of voting age.

Other members of the White House staf who voted with the Roosevelts were Marguerite Lehand, personal secretary to the President, and Mrs. Malvina Scheider, secretary to Mrs. Roosevelt.

RHODE ISLAND DEMOCRATIC BY 25,000 TO 38,000

Beat Sen. Hebert; Green Keeps Governorship.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Rhode Island appeared to have given the New Deal a complete indorsement today.

The defeat of Republican Senator Felix Hebert, the reëlection of the state's two Democratic members of the national house of representatives, and the reëlection of a complete slate of state officers seemed assured tonight as the compilation of votes neared the halfway mark.

Based on a comparison of figures for other years, Peter G. Gerry, Providence publisher and former senator, appeared virtually certain of victory over Hebert by about 25,000 votes, and Governor Theodore Francis Green, a Democrat, was expected to beat off the attack of Luke H. Callan by approximately 38,000.

Gerry trailed in the early returns, mostly from small towns, but when the city votes began to flow in, he surged forward and when 100 of the state's 232 districts had reported he led by 42,335 to 41,738. The Republican small towns had kept Senator Hebert in the running throughout the early part of the night but the Democrat votes in the cities were believed certain to swell the Gerry lead.

BLAZE CAUSES $10,000 DAMAGE IN WAREHOUSE

Damage estimated at more than $10,000 was caused last night by a fire in a three story building, used as a warehouse at 2911-13 Wentworth avenue. The warehouse was occupied jointly by the Joseph Guggenheim company, dealers in paints and oils, and Wirtz Brothers, hardware merchants. Firemen battled for nearly an hour to prevent the flames spreading to a large supply of linseed oil. Residents of an apartment building in front of the warehouse fled, but their living quarters were not damaged.

HUEY LONG WINS VOTE TO RATIFY 14 AMENDMENTS

Suggests State Should Secede from U. S.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Following today's election in Louisiana in which Senator Huey P. Long saw his 14 amendments to the state constitution ratified by a big majority, he announced that he would probably call himself a special session of the legislature, "maybe next Monday."

"I ain't exactly decided just what this good old state needs yet," he said, "and we may have to mess around a bit until we can see just what the poor folks need and want. Of course, they are all saying that these amendments that were ratified today mean more taxes, but even if they do they ain't going to hurt the poor people, but are going to hit the rich.

"My principal amendment that passed today, of course, is an income tax. Anybody that makes more than enough to live on with all of the fine things we are giving him in this state should pay an income tax. You will notice that we are taking the burden off the little automobile owners and socking the boy that rides in one of these great big, long, high, wide, and handsome limousines, I believe you call them."

Suggests State Secede.

Prior to discussing the call of the special session the senator declared that he wanted Louisiana to secede from the United States. He said if he couldn't get the state out of the Union in a peaceable way it ought to be gotten out some other way. He said that joining up with Mexico would be preferable to "our present form of government."

"I'm just gettin' plum tired," he declared, "of all of these dam bureaucrats, hobcrats, autocrats, alphabetcrats and all other kinds of crats up there in Washington. We ain't goin' to get nowhere until Louisiana gets out of this mess. If we do get out we will have a regular Utopia here. I'll guarantee that our present two million population will grow to forty-five million in four years. People will just flock here. They like to be bossed and ruled by the Kingfish because I give 'em something. I'll distribute the wealth so everybody will have his share."

Election Passes Quietly.

The election in Louisiana passed off quietly today. All eight of the present congressmen, all Democrats, were reëlected. J. C. Fernandez in the First district, Paul H. Maloney in the Second, Neuma F. Montet in the Third, John N. Sandlin in the Fourth, Riley J. Wilson in the Fifth, Jared Y. Sanders Jr. in the Sixth, Rene L. De Rouen in the Seventh, and Cleveland Dear in the Eighth.

None had opposition except the two in the First and Second congressional districts, who were opposed by Mrs. Louise Jessen, a graduate of the University of Chicago, and Clifford Leblanc. They ran as "Socialists."

In New Orleans no one but Long commissioners served at the polls, he having seen to it that only those favorable to him were made election officials. Senator Long also saw his lieutenant governor, John B. Fournet, elected to the State Supreme court.

MOVE GARIBALDI STATUE TO NEW LINCOLN PK. SITE

Chicago park district workmen yesterday were completing the removal of a 175 ton statue of Guiseppe Garibaldi, Italian patriot and soldier, from its former site at Clark street and Lincoln avenue to a new location in Lincoln park, near Wisconsin street.

New foundations for the statue have been completed at the Lincoln park site, which is 500 feet southwest of Grant's monument and will be known as Garibaldi plaza.

The statue of Garibaldi was given to the Lincoln park commissioners by the Chicago chapter of the Legion of Garibaldi in September, 1901, and it honored the man whose military leadership accomplished the unity of Italy during the 19th century.

Italians of Chicago plan a celebration honoring Garibaldi at the new Lincoln park site as soon as work on the statue is finished, according to Cavaliere Chiappe, a director of the Legion of the Garbaldi and a member of the commission which originally

How America VOTED on a very important question

LAST year millions of men and women went to the drug stores of America and decided a very important question:

"Which is America's most popular laxative?"

And Ex-Lax won with over 43 million votes—for that's the number of boxes of Ex-Lax that were purchased last year!

Ex-Lax wins on every "count". Ex-Lax is everything a laxative ought to be. It is easy to take—it tastes just like delicious chocolate. It is effective—in a mild and gentle way. It won't cause stomach pains. It won't nauseate. It won't form a habit—you take Ex-Lax just when you need a laxative. You don't have to keep on increasing the dose to get results.

Try Ex-Lax yourself—and you too will vote it the best laxative you ever used!

At all drug stores—in 10c and 25c boxes.

So—when Nature forgets, remember Ex-Lax!

STATE TO CALL MRS. DOKE FOR MURDER TRIAL

"White Hibiscus" Wife Missing, It Is Said.

Woodland, Cal., Nov. 6.—(AP)—A subpena for Mrs. Helen Louise Doke, the "White Hibiscus" of the love triangle involving the slain poet, Lamar Hollingshead, and Judson C. Doke, was issued today by the prosecution in Doke's trial for murder.

District Attorney Chester C. McDonald said thus far he had been unable to find her, but that if she is located he would attempt to question her about the contents of letters written by Mrs. Elizabeth Englis to Doke.

Tells of Suspicions.

Doke, who admitted the shooting of Hollingshead and invoked the unwritten law as a defense, had mentioned Mrs. Englis, a neighbor, as the one who had aroused his suspicion about relations between his wife and the poet.

Arthur C. Huston Jr., Doke's counsel, said he would challenge any testimony by Mrs. Doke under a California statute. That law, he said, prevents a wife from testifying against her husband.

The letters which McDonald would like to have disclosed were exchanged by Doke and Mrs. Englis while he was in jail here. The prosecutor said some of them were turned over to Mrs. Doke, and he was curious to know what Doke and his neighbor had discussed.

Ready to Argue Case.

McDonald said if Mrs. Doke were not found he would start presentation of final arguments with the case expected to reach the jury early Thursday. The trial was in recess today because of elections.

Taking the witness stand yesterday, Doke related that Mrs. Englis came to him three days before the killing and said she believed a love affair between Mrs. Doke and Hollingshead had been renewed after apparently being ended about a month previously.

Says She Showed Letters.

Doke said she provided him with letters exchanged between the couple. Three days later he confronted the youth on a ranch near here and shot him after Hollingshead had refused to write a letter saying all he wanted of Mrs. Doke was "her physical body."

Despite repeated efforts of the defense, the sensational correspondence of Mrs. Doke and her lover was blocked from the jury by arguments of that state that it was immaterial to the case.

4 CHANUTE FIELD U. S. ARMY FLYERS BAIL OUT; SAFE

Danville, Ill., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Four army flyers from Chanute field bailed out safely from their ship tonight a moment before it crashed, out of gasoline, on a farm northwest of here and was consumd by fire.

The soldiers were identified as Capt. Harper, pilot; Lieut. Joseph Daley, co-pilot, and Privates Browning and Bentley. Both enlisted men came down safely by parachute near Moore's Corners, 10 miles north of here on state route 1, while the officers landed in a field near Bismarck, Ill.

The twin motored bomber dived into a wooded field on the farm of Dr. George Potter, eight miles northwest of Danville. First reports from neighbors that several bombs were exploded in the impact were dissipated by the explanation the blasts was caused by the fire.

Capt. Harper and his crew had left Dayton, O., at 4:15 p. m., believing, they said, their gasoline supply sufficient to take them to Rantoul.

ROBBER SUSPECT SHOT BY PLAYFUL PAL AFTER THEFT

The other members of the band were Samuel Mosacchio, 19 years old, 9418 Commercial avenue; Sylvester Blasky, 19, of 9335 South Chicago avenue, and Miss Florence Hardy, 18, of 9942 Avenue L.

Gennarelli and the girl waited outside in a car while Mosacchio and Blasky are alleged to have held up a drug store at 2802 East 87th street, obtaining $4. When they all fled after the holdup Blasky twirled his pistol carelessly on a finger. It was discharged, the bullet striking Gennarelli. The others took the wounded youth to the South Chicago hospital. Mosacchio was seized before he could get away and a little later, after he had talked to the police, Blasky and Miss Hardy were arrested.

3 Gunmen Get $1,182 Loot in Office Holdup

Loot valued at $1,182 was obtained by three gunmen who yesterday invaded the offices at 2115 21st street, shared by the Indiana Varnish company and the Isgo Wallpaper Mills Inc. While one stood guard, the others took a $1,000 diamond ring from Leo Goldberg, 6200 Kenmore avenue, owner of the wallpaper company, and then took $79 and stamps worth $103 from the office safe.

Two Get 25 Years for Holding Up National Bank

Abilene, Tex., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The government today recorded a conviction under the new law making it a federal offense to rob a national bank. James Lucas and Jack Hardin were found guilty of the $5,103 robbery of the First National bank of Albany, Tex., and sentenced to 25 years each in the Leavenworth federal penitentiary.

Form Letter Solution Key to Farley's Sinclair Stand

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The key to the mystery of Chairman James A. Farley's suddenly withdrawn indorsement of Upton Sinclair came to light today in the shape of a form letter drawn up by the Democratic national committee.

This key letter, sprinkled with blank spaces into which could be dropped names and words to fit all situations, was to have gone to every precinct committeeman in 46 states. Only Maine and Louisiana at first were excepted.

Then, suddenly, Farley withdrew his indorsement of Sinclair as Democratic candidate for governor of California. Thousands of letters in which his name had been filled in had been prepared. They were left piled on a table in New York Democratic headquarters.

One Letter Escapes.

One letter, however, had escaped. It came to light in California, causing the administration considerable embarrassment.

The heavily blank spaced key letter, 260,000 filled in and signed copies of which finally were sent to 135,000 precinct committeemen in 45 states, bore across its top, just below the masthead of the Democratic national committee, the terse instruction:

"Letter to go to all precinct committeemen over the signature of Chairman Farley."

A first paragraph was devoted to impressing upon the recipient the need for a sympathetic congress if the program of President Roosevelt was to succeed.

"He must have friends on guard from top to bottom," it said. "Your work at the polls on Nov. 6 must be the answer to the critics of the Roosevelt administration."

Leave Numerous Blanks.

The second and third paragraphs left numerous blanks, each numbered, and with a key at the bottom to indicate what should be filled in. The numbered answers to blanks specified in every case that the Democratic nominee for governor, senator or representative was to be named. Leeway was left in the senate blank, however, for Hiram Johnson in California, who carried both the Republican and Democratic nominations.

A sample of the manner in which the two paragraphs were intended to read follows:

"[Name of state], [Democrats or Democrats and Republicans] are to be congratulated for their wise judgment in selecting Hon. [name of senate candidate] as the nominee of the [name of party or parties] for United States Senator. By electing Hon. [Democratic candidate for governor] your popular Democratic candidate for governor, [name of state] will have a combination of leaders in Washington and in [state capital] who can coöperate in the best interests of the people of the state and of the nation. Each voter owes it to himself to vote not only for [senate candidate] and [candidate for governor] but the entire Democratic ticket.

Asks Sympathetic Congress.

"If the people of all political parties will join in [returning or sending] Hon. [name of Democratic candidate for congress] to the house of representatives I know he will coöperate with the national administration in the best interests of [name of state]. During the next two years the President will need a Democratic congress to lend sympathetic support to every phase of the recovery program, and with Hon. [senior Democratic senator, if any] and Hon. [junior Democratic senator, if any] in the senate and Congressman [Democratic candidate for congress] in the house, the [number of congressional district] would be ably represented in the nation's capital."

With the exception of Wisconsin, in which reference was not made to the Democratic senatorial candidate who is oposing Senator La Follette, the Progressive candidate, these appropriately filled in letters were sent to all the states on the list. Maine was omitted because it had voted; Louisiana because the committee is not on letter writing terms with Senator Huey Long.

In mapping the plans no exception was made for California. The letters were prepared for that state. Lists of precinct committeemen for that state were arranged. All plans were made for mailing them.

Farley Changes Mind.

Before more than a confidential sample copy had been sent, however, Farley changed his mind. Orders were issued that the letters were not to be mailed. They were held in the New York headquarters.

A California representative who had received a sample copy of the letter asked an official of the Democratic national committee for permission to use the letter. This official, having been away from Washington when Farley countermanded his order to mail the letters, did not know of the change in plans. He informed the representative that the letter was to go to all precinct committeemen in California and that it might be used in any way at all.

Copies Clutter Office.

Thus, the letter came to light in California while hundreds of facsimile copies cluttered up the office in New York and lay there unmailed through the remainder of the campaign. Farley and other committee officials lapsed into an impenetrable silence.

Numerous reasons have been advanced in Washington for Farley's decision not to send the letter. Some said Hiram Johnson was responsible; others, that the White House stepped in.

Still others blamed it on a "dumb stenographer." If so it was, the "dumb stenographer" left several thousand copies, which, except for certain changes to make the state and candidates conform, were strangely similar to 260,000 other letters mailed by the Democratic national committee.

RICKENBACKER TAKES OFF TODAY ON RECORD HOP

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Piloting one of the new 14 passenger Douglas air liners, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker will take off tomorrow from Union air terminal, Burbank, to attempt a new coast to coast air transport record and thus break his own Los Angeles to New York mark of 13 hours and 2 minutes set last February.

Rickenbacker and his co-pilots, Capt. C. W. France of Eastern Air lines and Sid Morehouse of TWA, said they were "prepared to leave as soon as favorable weather opens." Whether they fly by night or day makes no difference, the ex-war ace said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 6.—John S. Labatt, victim of last summer's kidnaping in which he was held three days for $150,000 ransom, peered through a slit in a curtain at nine men in Middlesex county jail today and is reported to have picked David Meisner of Cincinnati as one of the snatchers.

Eighteen other witnesses filed up in turn to the curtain while provincial police enforced the most elaborate precautions ever known in an Ontario prosecution. The witnesses were assembled in the office of Maj. Norman F. Newton, crown attorney, where their statements were recorded. All concerned refused to discuss the situation.

Who the eighteen witnesses are is a matter of speculation, but it is believed they included two farmers from the district where Labatt was kidnaped near his summer home on Sarnia beach, a service station attendant and a grocer who sold supplies to the kidnapers as they drove Labatt's car toward Muskoka lake, and seven or eight persons from the neighborhood of the cottage above Bracebridge where Labatt was held prisoner.

GERMAN NEO-PAGAN MOVEMENT GIVES OUT NINE COMMANDMENTS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—The neo-pagan Germanic faith movement, which harks back to the pre-Christian religion of the ancient German tribes, has issued a set of nine "commandments" to replace the Bible's ten commandments. They are:

1. Honor the deity, the World foundation.
2. Honor ancestors and grandchildren.
3. Honor the great of thy people.
4. Honor thy parents.
5. Keep yourself clean.
6. Be loyal to your people.
7. Do not steal.
8. Be truthful.
9. Help the noble.

The Germanic faith movement finds its principal support in the doctrines of Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, Baltic born supervisor of Germany's spiritual education, and R. Walter Darre, Argentine born minister of agriculture.

MOTHERS HONOR THE MEMORY OF WAR HERO SONS

Fifty Chicago mothers, each bearing a rose in memory of the son she lost in the world war, gathered at the Hotel La Salle last night to pay tribute to their dead in the annual Armistice service of the Chicago council of Gold Star Mothers.

Some of the mothers wore black, some less somber colors, but each carried a yellow rose, or two, or three, to place on a small altar. Also laid on the altar was a white rose for each Gold Star mother of the council who has died since 1919.

Mrs. Lillian White, 903 East 67th street, whose son, Frank A. White, aviator, was the first son to be buried in Chicago during the war, was hostess. Lieut. H. S. Bottomley, vice commander of Woodlawn post of the American Legion, and Helen Rowland, commander of the John A. Hartman post, who was an army nurse, made talks. They spoke of their service in Chicago's 33d division as comrades of the soldiers represented by the yellow roses.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

THE DECLINE OF THE EAST.

The migration of industry is frequently discussed as if factories were able to move about like a circus. As a matter of fact, except over long periods, industrial migration consists largely in new industries finding places where conditions are attractive. Plants will not be constructed in states whose taxes discriminate against industry, but old concerns with heavy investments are obliged to stay and pay. The repeal of prohibition enabled the institution which made a neighboring city famous, and others in the same line of business in the same state, to function again, but Wisconsin's high corporation taxes undoubtedly caused other breweries to avoid that state for one where the tax gatherer is more considerate.

Few concerns would go as far as the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company did in closing its business in Cleveland because of labor difficulties, but frequently when a concern was looking for a new business site controling consideration has been given to the status of industrial relations locally prevailing. Thus, when Skinny Madden had Chicago terrorized and labor relations were discordant, the automobile business settled in Detroit, where at the time all was concord between employer and employed.

Some years ago a spokesman for the United States department of commerce referred to the movement of industry from the midwestern states to the Atlantic seaboard. This was supposed to be taking place because the Panama canal had cut shipping costs for New Yorkers doing business on the west coast, while higher freight rates had made costs higher for their midwestern competition. This is indeed a handicap, but with it in their favor the easterners have not been able to hold their own. The center of manufactures has been moving steadily westward for many years. In the 70 years following 1850 the center of American manufactures moved westward 339 miles. Since 1920 the westward progression has continued, being accentuated by the abandonment of New England by the textiles and the expansion of the automotive industries.

There are several reasons to account for the declining importance of the east. For one thing, legislation in New York, the leading manufacturing state, has been growing steadily more hostile to business. Several years ago the state's best known line of business, the stock market, was almost driven across to Jersey by excessive taxation. Then, again, the proximity to supplies of a wide range of raw materials has drawn manufactures into the interior of the United States. And when raw materials have not provided a magnet, market conditions have. A manufacturer is most accessible to all parts of a market when he is in the middle of it. For many kinds of consumers' goods the center of the market is the center of population, which for this country is in the middle west. And, perhaps as important a reason as any, our foreign trade has been allowed to languish. The home market is an increasing factor in the determination of the location of American manufactures. The star of the central west is still ascending.

WELLS DISCOVERS THE OBVIOUS.

At a meeting in London organized by the National Council for Civil Liberties H. G. Wells, drawing on a recent visit to Russia, told his audience that he was impressed that Russia was likely to become an awful warning to the world of what the destruction of intellectual vitality might mean to a country. In Russia, he explained, there had been complete suffocation of opposition. No writer could write without permission. The country had lost its intellectual freedom. It would not tolerate opposition or listen to the honest voices of criticism.

These tardy truisms were resented by members of the audience who repeatedly interrupted the speaker, not because he was telling what everybody has known since the bolsheviks seized power, but because the interrupters didn't like any criticism of the soviet. The interrupters were more consistent than Mr. Wells, who has approved the dictatorship of the proletariat without recognizing or foreseeing the consequences he now deplores, years after their appearance, and, in fact, after they have been in some measure mitigated.

The incident is only the latest of many demonstrations of the fact that real bolshevists have no use for civil liberties and real believers in civil liberty cannot be sympathizers with bolshevism in any guise or disguise. There are many self-called liberals who are sentimental friends of soviet Russia who have ignored the logic of the communist despotism and condoned its cruelties and its ruthless destruction of the liberties liberals are supposed to cherish. We hear often the passionate protest of these supposed liberals against alleged infringements of civil rights, but while the greatest destruction of these rights in modern history was taking place in Russia they were not only silent but obviously condoning the communist tyranny as a noble experiment.

The American pseudo-liberal of this variety ought to get in touch with the liberalism he pretends to represent. He had better face the fact that planned societies want no civil liberties and then choose between them. He cannot have both. Mr. Wells has at last discovered the obvious. Other liberals might take note.

THE SUPREME COURT AND THE NEW LAWS.

Cases testing the constitutionality of New Deal legislation are approaching the Supreme court. One is the Weirton case, involving the collective bargaining features of NRA. There are several agricultural administration cases and there is a test of the authority of the government in abrogating the gold contract clause. District court decisions have been diverse and contradictory.

Property rights, freedom of contract, and liberty of personal action are involved in the probable decisions of the final court. The future form of the American government may be involved. If the final judicial decision should follow one line of opinion, limitations of federal powers would receive a new defining by which old restrictions would be restored and the rights of a citizen against his government would be reëstablished. A majority opinion along another line would reinterpret many of these restrictions and limitations, increase the power of government, and give validity to acts of congress and of administration which have been regarded outside the province and powers of the federal Union.

Under one decision, political action with the consent of majorities would be greatly increased in scope and power and the American government would be relieved of restrictions which have restrained it in its dealings with the people. Much of the legislation of the last year has been called revolutionary. The description is not an extravagant one. Back of the new laws is a different conception of the rights of a government over the people and of the relation of the people to the government than has prevailed up to the present time. Although the citizen is still regarded as the creator of the government, once the government has been created it may proceed under the new laws to extraordinary lengths in dealing with the citizen's liberty, use of property, and conduct of his personal affairs.

A few of these new laws have had a final adjudication. Thus far they have been state and not federal laws, but they involve principles. The United States Supreme court has said that the state of Minnesota may modify the terms of contract between a creditor and his debtor. It is said that the state of New York may fix the price of milk and may punish a citizen for such an evasion as giving a loaf of bread away with the milk. There are many other cases on their way up, such as that of the small Pennsylvania manufacturer who couldn't meet the wage scale of his code, continue in business, and employ and pay his help.

The prerogatives of government set forth in the new legislation are fundamental and they affect the structure of democratic political organization. Either the government has these powers, revolutionizing the relations of government and people, or it has not, and the old relations as defined in the constitution continue to prevail and the United States is, as it was, a country in which individual liberties and rights are protected against what may be said at any one time to be the greatest good for the greatest number. Liberties in a democracy are always measured by the liberties of minorities who may at any time disagree with the majority as to what is the greatest good. The two conceptions in government are distinctly antagonistic. The first must prevent the growth of the second or the second must destroy the first.

CRUSADING WITH QUESTIONNAIRES.

[Bloomington, Ill., Pantagraph.]

The Council of American Industry, through its chairman, A. C. Rees, has seen fit to utter a blast against what he terms "questionnaire crusaders," made up of that body of reformers, lobbyists, treasury raiders, and uplifters who are engaged constantly in putting candidates for office "on the spot."

Mr. Rees considers that there is "cause for grave disquietude" in the flood of such literature which appears in the period before each election, seeking to wring confessions, promises, or pledges from this, that, and the other candidate for public office, on some platform, program, or other plan which each particular questionnaire group is sponsoring. Mr. Rees expresses regret that two national organizations such as the United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers should engage in this practice, which in former years they condemned. The system is called a form of "third degree" work upon the candidates, and it is added that "grueling and quizzing of candidates for public office merely invites subterfuge, side stepping, phrase making, and other known methods of duplicity which candidates, in self-protection, feel they must employ when harassed by these self-appointed mentors of the public conscience."

The effect on the candidate himself is depicted by Mr. Rees when he says that "a questionnaire does not make the dishonest, unscrupulous candidate morally and politically clean, nor does it change corruption into decency, nor sharp practice into fair play. The crook remains crooked still."

In place of waiting until candidates are chosen by political machines and then plying them with questionnaires it is suggested that men for public office should be carefully drafted, selected, and elected on account of their known intelligence, integrity, and dependability; men whose lives justify the confidence which people should repose in their public officials.

Recognizing on the one hand all the evil and futility inherent in the questionnaire crusade, and on the other hand the unlimited potentialities of the substitute plan, the council appeals to all respectable organizations to resist this transparent cheap bid for publicity and to refuse to have their organizations used for purposes repugnant to all their fine traditions.

THE DARK HOUR.

"Yes," said the old man, "I have had some terrible disappointments, but none stands out over the years like one that came to me when I was a boy."

"And what was it?"

HOUSEHOLD HINT!

"Mary," said Mrs. Alden to her cook, "I wonder if the pudding is done. Stick a knife in it and see if it comes out clean."

A few minutes later the cook announced: "It came out wonderful, ma'am, so I stuck all the other knives in, too."—American Cookery.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE ELECTION IS OVER, the agony, the suspense, the hopes, the fervent prayers, or what had you can now be cast aside. Whether Santa Claus won or not (see first page), he's through and probably by this time he's gone back to the North Pole if somebody didn't steal his sleigh and all his reindeers. And now that a lot of people were elected to various public jobs all that the rest of us can do is to pipe down and watch the cabinet members and brain trusters run the country. Not very interesting and it won't do a bit of good, but, anyhow, it may help to pass the time away until the baseball seasons opens.

ELECTION DAY is a tense strain, a time of yearning and suffering for the patriotic American citizen. A lot of them yesterday didn't know the places that had their back doors open and had to wait until five o'clock until they could get a drink.

BRIDGES.

Time after time
I have built a rainbow bridge
Of words
That I might cross to you;
But always
The delicate structure has crashed
When I was midway.

Now I cross
A shorter, sturdier span
And reach you, safely upheld
By the strong white girders
Of silence.

ADELAIDE LOVE.

"I WAS TREMENDOUSLY CONCERNED," said Gertrude Stein, in a lecture at Princeton, "in finding out what was myself inside of me." We wish the brain trusters and the New Dealers generally would feel that way and let us know what is themselves inside of them.

MAYBE YOU THINK fate has been unkind to you in giving you the name you bear. You may think up all sorts of romantic and poetical names you would like to have and you feel that your parents were a bit harsh when they conferred on you the name of Cuthbert, Clarence, or Maggie. All right, think of Prime Minister Abdul Fattah Yehia Pasha of Egypt, who resigned yesterday. How would you like to have a name like that and have people walk up to you and say, "Hello, Fattah! How's old Fattah today?" or "Hey, Fattah! What about a cocktail?" or "Well, well, here's good old Fattah. Come on, Fattah, let's go to a movie." No, there's nothing so bad it couldn't be worse. Gosh! I'd hate to be named Fattah. And suppose you were a stout lady and had that for a name! Or suppose you fell in love with a man named Fattah and wanted to marry him. Goodness! it gets worse and worse the more you think of it!

ADD SIGNS OF PROSPERITY! Alice Faye, the movie picture queen, has been told by her landlord that she must vacate her apartment out in Hollywood unless she gives up her Dobermann-Pinscher dog, Zeta, and so she's looking for another flat. Time was when apartment landlords would let you keep lions, kangaroos, man-eating Indian tigers, boa constrictors, or a hippopotamus, even babies, in their flats just so you kept on living there and paying rent. But now if they're getting snootie even about nice little dogs it shows that they're beginning to sit up and count their money again.

BALLADE TO YE CONTRIBS.

Awake, O Muse! and improvise anew;
Melpomene, put on the cap and bell;
Forgo a while the sentimental rue
And sing a joyous song for R. H. L.
Ye sonneteers, let inspiration swell;
Ye scribes, with care your phrases hack and hew;
Across the land a million people dwell
Who toast the grand old "Line o' Type or Two."

Ye poets, fetch your pencils now and chew
And eke out honor with the rhymes you spell;
Ah, contribs, come! it might be you—or you
To lead the Line—indeed, no one can tell.
Revise the gems you tried in vain to sell,
Let ecstasy your very pens imbue,
Compose a masterpiece for R. H. L.

Again the Linebook passes in review.
The public grabs a hat and runs pellmell
To demonstrate what one thin dime can do
And take a cup of cheer with R. H. L.
Along the lake, through valley, hill, or dell,
In Tokio and even Timbuctoo,
In London fog or where the stockyards smell

Envoi.

Perchance we haven't made the Book—oh, well,
Not all may stand among the chosen few.

AND TODAY'S the last day to mail your idea of an Introduction to the Linebook of 1934! Remember, the polls close at midnight tonight. You may—and you may not, dearie—win the coveted and heretofore never offered place on the inside front cover of the Linebook. But you won't if you put off until morrow what you should have done the day before yesterday. Last chance!

BED WETTING.

BED WETTING is a common symptom, and, in the majority of cases, may be identified as a nervous manifestation. The number of children who give regular or occasional evidence of the symptoms is fairly high.

After one has ruled out the routine physical causes, such as bladder abnormality, disease of the kidneys, or metabolism disorders such as diabetes, the cause may be ascribed either to faulty training or to the existence of a nervous tendency.

Inefficient toilet training is an important factor. Sometimes no attempt is made by parents to establish correct habit periods in which the child will empty his bladder.

It is frequently noted that bed wetting may occur following days or evenings of unusual excitement or of vigorous play. The symptom following nervous excitability may be due to an increased secretion of urine and hence greater pressure in the bladder.

We are inclined to forget that the child's bladder is quite small and that relaxation of the sphincter muscle, even under moderate pressure, may result during deep sleep. Many mothers will say, "My child sleeps so soundly that it is difficult to arouse him." In spite of the contradictory conclusions of some authors it would appear reasonable that sleep may be so sound that stimulation from a filled bladder will fail to wake the child. Many children, however, waken as soon as the bladder has been emptied, aroused no doubt by a sense of discomfort.

Preventive measures have been tried, such as restricting fluid after 4 o'clock in the afternoon, waking the child at stated intervals, avoiding sleeping on the back, and elevating the foot of the bed. All of these may be helpful to some extent. Occasionally a child will be aroused by the sense of a full bladder, but not sufficiently so to get out of bed. Others can be trained to recognize the first symptom and respond to it.

A careful study of the several aspects of bed wetting of 180 boys and 40 girls was made by F. N. Anderson. The age of the boys was 9 years: of the girls, 8 years. Of this group 70 per cent showed no physical defects whatever. Nearly 30 per cent of the group were found to be superior in intelligence and only 28 of the children averaged as low as 80.

Anderson concludes that emotional factors constitute the chief causes of the bed wetting habit. He notes that the sensitive child regards the habit as shameful, but feels that the condition is one entirely beyond his control. Sometimes parents unthinkingly aid the continuance of the habit by their failure to expect the child to overcome it. The reëstablishment of confidence in the child through the encouragement of parents was noticeably successful in certain cases.

Habit training is regarded as the most important means of overcoming the condition, and Anderson estimates that in 87 per cent of his studied cases home training had been inefficient.

In a recent article C. J. C. Earl describes what he calls the neuropathologic child who has certain behavior disturbances, among which bed wetting is one of the most common. He believes that the cure lies largely in training, encouragement, and the proper form of suggestion. The child is neither punished nor scolded for lapses, but is encouraged to form proper habits and to respond quickly to the first sensation that the bladder is full. The child's fear that it will happen again is allayed by the counter-suggestion that it will not happen again and that he will waken should necessity arise.

A nervous strain reflects itself in many ways and in many parts of the body. A quiet evening predisposes the child to restful, normal sleep devoid of untoward incidents. We may avoid fidgets of the bladder just as we train children to avoid hysterical chatter, screaming at play, and nervous manifestations of all sorts.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please inform me if there is any penalty imposed by the government on an individual for the holding of bar silver that is owned outright by that individual. It is my understanding that all bar silver must be turned in to the United States mint by Nov. 9 at the price of .5001. Am I correct in this or not? T. D.

A. Silver coins.

B. Silver of the fineness of .8 or less which has not entered into industrial or other specified uses.

C. Silver mined.

D. Silver held for industrial, professional or artistic uses in an amount not exceeding in the aggregate 500 fine troy ounces belonging to any one person.

E. Silver owned by foreign governments.

F. Silver contained in fabricated articles not held for their value as bullion.

G. Silver held under license.

Since you have not given us the purpose of your holding, we cannot say whether you come under any of these exceptions.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

JOINT TENANCY.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Should papers on a house and lot after it is paid for and owned by husband and wife be made out in joint tenancy? 2. Should one or the other die, would there be any trouble to sell such property if papers were not made out in such manner? 3. There are two children. Would this make any difference? R. K.

1. In many cases the parties consider it desirable. You will have to decide for yourself.

2. The joint tenancy would dispense with the necessity for probate.

3. Their presence would mean that the title would be more badly involved in the case of a debt without a joint tenancy deed and without a will.

RIGHT TO ESTATE.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When a widow marries again after her husband's death does she waive her rights to the estate or still share in the estate the same? K. S.

Her remarriage would not affect her rights in the estate of her first husband unless her first husband leaves a will to that effect.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES.—That the United States should refrain from investing more money in Argentina if it desires to increase its exports to that country would seem to be indicated by Great Britain's experience.

Miguel F. Casares, president of the Argentine Rural society, recently told members of the British Chamber of Commerce in Buenos Aires that Great Britain "could hardly expect to have a balanced trade with a young country without capital of its own and with heavy British investments which make necessary a margin of exports in order to provide for financial service. The disappearance of that margin would prejudice British interests themselves."

This argument, reduced to plain terms, means "if you lend us plenty of money you will be compelled to accept our wares in payment, even on a greater scale than our purchases from you." Or again, in other words, that the country which lends to or invests money in another is automatically reducing its prospects of selling its manufactured goods there.

This theory, which presumably would have been laughed to scorn a few years ago when it was usually contended that the investment of capital in a foreign country constituted an encouragement to trade, cannot be dismissed out of hand as ridiculous. It has set many people, particularly the importers of British goods, thinking strange thoughts, since it is obvious that, provided there is no hidden flaw in the argument, the ever increasing investment of British capital in Argentina must tend to decrease British exports to Buenos Aires unless the buck can be successfully passed to other exporters to that market.

This, in effect, Great Britain has attempted to accomplish in her latest trade treaty with Argentina by stipulating that after the deduction of a reasonable amount of sterling exchange to provide for debt service, the allocation of the remainder should favor the importers of British goods.

The thorny point stressed by Casares is closely linked with the question of governmental control of exchange. Such control enables a country to avoid the many points of friction which may arise through inequitable trade balances. It also enables a government to dodge the most favored nation clause when convenient. These are two strong reasons in support of the contention that the system of exchange control has come to stay, even though a country should have attained a degree of prosperity which made such control no longer an imperious necessity.

There has long been an idea abroad among visitors at the zoo that the leopard is a cross between two other animals, the lion and the panther. There is no foundation for such a belief, for although these animals are all distantly related to one another they are distinct and have been ever since man has known anything about them.

A NATIONAL FAIR.

Dwight, Ill., Nov. 3.—The World's Fair is over and it seems too bad that all its brilliance and glory should be gone forever, but, of course, all good things must end.

I have been much interested in reading in your columns some of the statistics on it. I wish you would tell us how it has compared with other similar expositions, especially the St. Louis fair, the 1893 Fair and the San Francisco and Philadelphia fairs. I would like to know the number who attended all these fairs, the number of acres in the grounds and the approximate cost of these different fairs. I note you reported the total cost of A Century of Progress at something over 40 million.

We have annual county fairs, district fairs and state fairs. Why should we not have an annual National Fair running for four or six weeks? And let it give more attention or space to agriculture proportionately than did A Century of Progress. Chicago is the agricultural capital of the country and would be the logical place for such a show. These are only the rambling thoughts of a downstater, but we are proud of Chicago and what she has accomplished.

J. F. ZIEGLER.

A MONUMENT TO SUCCESS.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 4.—What about an everlasting monument erected on the site of the Administration building to do honor to all the people who made A Century of Progress the first successful exposition of its kind ever held in all the world? A fund through public donations should be raised to finance this project. Because the Fair brought such big returns to so many people it should be possible to raise the fund.

MR. SCHLENGER.

TIME, 1924; PLACE, BERLIN.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Reading in your columns "Inflation held by Kemmerer to be on the way" recalls our experience on our first night in Berlin in February, 1924. We paid our bill in a restaurant with what were known as rentenmarks. The waiter brought in change a whole platter of worthless government marks, mostly in denominations of millions. We rejected these and demanded our change in the rentenmarks with which we had paid.

After some argument when the waiter actually wept, for he had hoped to make a killing, and after we had appealed to the manager, we received our change in rentenmarks.

We sincerely trust that no such expedient as the rentenmark will become necessary in this country. F. H. W.

THE WORLD'S FAIR LEGION.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Why, O why, when all the credit is being given for financing A Century of Progress, does no one remember that thousands and more thousands of Chicago's working people [working then, at any rate] contributed sums of $5 or more to become members of the World's Fair legion in return for a promise of admission tickets if it took place? This was in 1928 or 1929 and the funds so given were the nucleus that gave the Fair its start.

J. N. RIGGS.

CHICAGO AND THE MOVIES.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—Cartoonist McCutcheon, through one of his characters in today's cartoon, inquires why Chicago never seems to have any first run pictures. Tell Jawn to look to home for the answer in the sycophantic attitude of the press toward the local movie situation. No city in America is more plagued [or shall we say gypped?] by a punk assortment of hick-town newspapers than is Chicago—the sort of banners that keep a photographer down at the depot to take pictures of nth rate movie personages who are en passant from Broadway to Bawdyway, meanwhile giving Chicago the go-by.

If Jawn will look at today's paper he will see a screaming headline with a two column article about the passing of an obscure, almost forgotten ex-movie actor; on another page a halftone purporting to show a coat of tan on the anatomy of a Los Angelite; on another page a halftone showing the angularities of a scarcely heard of inhabitant of Quakyland; and on the review page a blurp [at 50c per line, we presume] about a squawkie that would insult the intelligence of an Igorrote.

Where, O where is the movie reviewer who will start a review something like this: "This week there is showing at the Dowdy theater a third class film which, having made the round of Podunk, Coon Hollow, and Swayback Junction, has been permitted to be turned loose in Chicago for the entertainment of a long-bilked movie public. As usual, the plot is lousy and the acting punk, particularly that of the leading character, Percival Heppelthwaite [born Isador Glutz, whose moral code in private life is just two notches below that of an alley tomcat] . . ." And so on to a frank conclusion.

Tell Jawn that when the movie going public of Chicago merits primacy in entertainment they will get it, but not until. J. A. THOMAS.

OLD MOVIES.

Oak Park, Ill., Oct. 31.—I enjoyed McCutcheon's cartoon of Oct. 30 very much. I entertained guests from the far west and the sticks of Kansas and Missouri, but couldn't take them to a single picture house here as they had seen the pictures a month or so before in their own home towns. What to do about it? B. G. BATES.

A CAUTIOUS YANKEE.

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 4.—Pardon the intrusion, but may I step in on A. J. Yoder's recent suggestion for questions and answers on the proposed Townsend old age pension plan? Being a New Englander by birth, and by nature somewhat cautious, wearing both a belt and suspenders, I want to know if I sign the petition, and the administration accepts the plan, should I, in giving up my present small income, expect their promise to pay me $200 each month to mean any more than their campaign pledges or the promise of the government on the face of every gold certificate to the effect that "the United States will pay to bearer in gold on demand"? Thank you. C. L. CLARK.

FRENCH CABINET CRIPPLED; CIVIL WAR LOOMS ANEW

6 Herriot Party Ministers Draft Resignations.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 6.—The threat of civil war was hanging over France anew tonight following a day of the wildest political confusion and authorities prepared to face an outbreak of rioting in the capital at any moment.

While the six Radical Socialist ministers in the cabinet drew up letters of resignation and the departure of Premier Gaston Doumergue is considered virtually inevitable in some quarters, desperate last minute efforts are being made to patch up a compromise to save the government from an upset.

If the compromise efforts are unsuccessful it is expected that former Premier Edouard Herriot, Radical Socialist leader; former Premier Pierre Laval, or Pierre Etienne Flandin, minister of public works, will be appointed to form a new government.

Fight Blazes at Meeting.

At the cabinet meeting this morning an open fight blazed up between Herriot and Doumergue over the premier's announced intention of asking an immediate vote on a three months' budget bill to forestall obstruction of his scheme for constitutional reform—the real cause of the conflict.

The Radical party ministers headed by Herriot stalked out of the meeting and after a conference proceeded to draft letters of resignation. President Lebrun prevailed upon them, however, not to hand them in officially tonight to avoid breaking up the formal opening session of the fall parliament.

In the afternoon the Radicals held a party caucus at the chamber of deputies, and while the bitterest hostility was voiced against Doumergue's proposals to vest more power in the premiership at the expense of the senate, the deputies decided against any procedure which would throw the onus for breaking the ninth months long political truce on the Radical party.

Compromise Suggested.

It was decided to suggest as a compromise that all the party leaders of the chamber give formal assurance that a normal budget will be voted through in eight days. This would make the emergency procedure proposed by the premier unnecessary and leave the possibility of an early debate on constitutional revision.

A delegation of Radicals called on Doumergue to try to get him to accept this procedure which would avert the cabinet crisis for another week—and many things can happen in a week in France.

Meantime it is reported that war veterans from al lover the country are pouring into the capital to back up Doumergue, and the city is full of rumors of impending street demonstrations by the rightist groups that staged the attack on the chamber of deputies on Feb. 6. Police guards around the Elysée palace, the chamber, and the senate have been strengthened.

Armed bands of the red united front are said to be girding for action on their side, and the Socialist organ, Populaire, pubished a call to workers to take the same precautions against a Fascist putsch that they took last February.

NAZIS PROMISE TO TREAT U.S. SPY SUSPECTS FAIRLY

German Envoy Talks Over Case.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—(AP)—A promise that two Americans held in Germany for several months without charges would be "given exactly as fair treatment as if they were German citizens" was made today by Ambassador Hans Luther of Germany.

He gave this assurance following a call at the state department to review the matter with Acting Secretary Phillips.

The state department was disclosed yesterday as having proceeded actively to clarify the status of the two citizens, Isabelle Lillian Steele, 25, of Los Angeles and Richard Roiderer, 40, said to be a Chicagoan, who were both jailed last summer for suspected espionage.

The department is awaiting full reports from its consular representatives in Berlin and Munich as to what steps have been taken to bring the prisoners to trial or dispose of the cases.

Case "Extremely Serious."

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The magistrate in charge of the case of Miss Isabelle Lillian Steele said today every effort is being vigorously pursued to bring the "extremely serious" case to an early conclusion.

Miss Steele, a young music student, has been held in Moabit prison for eighty-eight days as a result of her expression of opinion on the Nazi régime.

Judge Zimmer of the People's court, the investigating magistrate, said many ramifications requiring the greatest secrecy are being investigated. He refused requests to see Miss Steele or to answer questions about her welfare.

"You understand, of course," he said, "the reason she is here is extremely serious."

It was said thirty Germans are involved in the Steele case and are still at liberty. The authorities fear if the exact nature of the charges is revealed, the suspects will escape.

Mother Blames Baroness.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Clara Steele, mother of Miss Isabelle Lillian Steele, said at her home here today that "a certain baroness," whose name she would not divulge, "led my emotional daughter into some trap."

The mother, German born, but a naturalized American, as is her daughter, said she and her younger daughter, Marian Steele, 17, had quarreled in Berlin with Isabelle over the older girl's "enthusiastic, emotional views."

"That was last spring," Mrs. Steele continued. "Marian was being paid court by a young Nazi officer. She, herself, was ardently pro Nazi, but Isabelle, a musician, emotional, foolish, became terribly outspoken against the Hitler régime. This created an unbearable situation, and Isabelle finally moved to another apartment.

"She could not have been a spy, however, because she was too outspoken; she could never conceal or equivocate. But she was foolish, and I warned her she dared not offend the Nazi government."

Prof. Tugwell Visits Irish Minister of Agriculture

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture of the United States, returning home from a European trip, was received today by Dr. James Ryan, Free State minister of agriculture and one of the stalwarts of President De Valera's campaign to make the Free State economically independent.

INSANITY PLEA'S MISUSE DECRIED BY PSYCHIATRIST

What Cook county needs today is revision of the criminal code, rather than more rigid enforcement, Dr. Harry Hoffman, psychiatrist and chief of the behavior clinic of the Cook County Criminal court, told members of the City Club Forum yesterday.

Speaking on the place occupied by psychiatry in the administration of criminal justice, Dr. Hoffman attacked the "insanity plea" in modern criminal jurisprudence.

"Insanity should never be used as a defense for crime," he said. "It should be used only in the disposition of the case. The question should be: Is John Jones guilty or is he innocent? And then—what type of an individual is he?"

Dr. Hoffman advocated three innovations in the criminal code. They are: [1] Establishment of a board [made up of lawyers, churchmen, social workers, and physicians] to aid the judge in the disposition of the case; [2] establishment of a walled institution, a combination school, hospital and prison, where mental defectives might be housed with maximum security and [3] revision of the probation system.

"It is folly," he declared, "to take an individual from the criminal court and put him on probation, or to take a mental defective and send him back to a crime infested area.

"Neither punishment or probation is a deterrent of crime. If so, why are more than 55 per cent of the persons in the House of Correction there for the second or third time?

"The peculiar thing about our law," he concluded, "is that it tries the offense and not the offender. The criminal judge should individualize. Perhaps then our House of Correction would correct, our reformatories reform and our penitentiaries make penitents. We know that they do not now."

TAYLORVILLE MERCHANT DIES.

CUBA MOVES DATE FOR ELECTIONS TO MARCH 3, 1935

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The cabinet tonight modified the constitution by changing the date set in it for elections from Dec. 31, 1934, to March 3, 1935.

Oppositionists have objected strenuously to an electoral census, ordering their supporters to refuse to be enumerated. They have insisted that they would not respect the results of the elections, which will choose delegates to a constitutional assembly, declaring the elections cannot be fair because of the army's control over police and civil functions.

With the "full approval of President Carlos Mendieta," Secretary of the Interior Enrique Mazas announced today he would invite several revolutionary leaders now in the United States to return to Cuba to help plan the national elections.

HOW INSULL KEPT BOOKS IS ARGUED AT FRAUD TRIAL

Head of Accounting Firm Upholds Practices.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The question of sound accounting practice, which lies at the basis of the Insull mail fraud trial, was debated before the jury in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's courtroom yesterday afternoon and will form the subject for renewed combat this morning.

This is an evanescent doctrin, according to Joel M. Bowlby, partner in the accounting firm of Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co., who was put on the witness stand to uphold the theories under which the books of Corporation Securities company were kept by the firm of Touche, Niven & Co., one of whose partners, Charles R. Whitworth, is one of Samuel Insull's 16 fellow defendants.

Methods of Accounting Upheld.

All the bookkeeping methods which have been attacked by the government in this case as leading to a false statement of assets and concealment of the true condition of the company were given the accolade of propriety by this witness, who was under cross-examination by Special Prosecutor Leslie E. Salter as court was adjourned.

The moot question of the taking of stock dividends into the income account at the market price was declared by this witness to be one of the things in high controversy among accountants. In the case of the Insull company books, he said, there could be no criticism, as they had set forth the fact of what they had done in their annual report, as provided by the federal securities act. All the other accounting issues in the case were likewise resolved in favor of the defense as at least permissible practices.

Defendant Sills on Stand.

Mr. Bowlby, who was examined chiefly by Attorney William H. Haight, said his firm had offices in 12 cities and affiliations abroad, and that he was a director of the Illinois Society of Certified Accountants. He knew Mr. Whitworth, he said, as a man of good reputation in the profession.

Clarence W. Sills, former vice president of Halsey, Stuart & Co., former director of Corporation Securities company, was the only other witness of the day after the government had concluded the cross-examination of Clarence T. MacNeille.

Mr. Sills, who resembles his brother, the late Milton Sills, motion picture star, said he was 50 years old, father of five children, a trustee of Rush Medical college and of the Museum of Science and Industry. He went to work for N. W. Halsey & Co., predecessor of Halsey-Stuart, in 1905, at $75 a month, and worked up to the place where his income from the company averaged $200,000 a year. He resigned from all his business connections in April, 1932, he said, on account of threatened ill health.

Like Sterling on Silver.

Mr. Sills' main story was developed in efficient manner by Attorney John J. Healy. The witness had participated in the sale of all the Insull securities since 1907. These aggregated, he said, "upwards of two billion dollars."

As a result of the success of this financing he grew to have the greatest possible faith, he said, in the Insull management and the character of his securities. "His name was as good as the name sterling on silver," said Mr. Sills.

He told of the orders he received to acquire Middle West Utilities stock in the summer of 1929, just before Corporation Securities was launched. The public ran the prices up, he said, even after he and his associates stopped buying. This was the mood the public was in regarding Insull paper.

The chief effect of the Sills testimony is found in his own early reaction to this high dream of finance He bought for his own account 4,069 of the allotment certificates of Corporation Securities stock at $75 a unit, the same price at which it was sold to the public. In order to raise the cash for this he sold such bonds as Oak Park schools, Louisiana state, City of Los Angeles, and the sanitary district.

All Good Bonds Today.

"These bonds are all good today," he said.

He also bought 561 units for a trust fund for his mother and wife. In the summer of 1929 he bought 550 shares of Middle West Utilities common stock for his own investment at a cost of $143,000.

"It would be rather incongruous," Mr. Sills said, "that I should have lack of faith in something that I put such a disproportionate share of my wealth into."

Here was a "wise" man of La Salle street investing in something which the government claims was a fraudulent scheme from the start.

In 1931 when his health failed, he said, he sold 3,000 of the units to Fred H. Scheel, vice president of Utilities Securities company, another defendant in this alleged scheme to defraud.

Final Losses Put at $240,000.

He got between $20 and $23 a unit from Mr. Scheel and sold a few other small lots later. His final losses and the losses of the family trust, he told the jury, were $240,183.

On cross-examination Mr. Salter brought out his income returns for 1929, 1930, and 1931, and after objections to this were overruled it was shown that the salary of the witness was $25,000, but that his further income from distribution of profits of the company in 1929 brought the total to $213,616. In 1930 he drew $120,939 and in 1931 $180,658. In addition he had dividends from his stock.

"Did you sell because you thought it was a good thing to get out of?" Mr. Salter wanted to know.

Not a Figurehead Director.

"Were you a director in name only?"

"I have not so testified."

"You were not a figurehead?"

"I was not."

"On Oct. 1, 1931, you sold some shares in Corporation Securities?"

"Yes, and bought them back the next day. I decided that I did not have the right to sell without conferring with Mr. Stuart."

The prosecutor stated that from June to December, 1931, Sills had received $68,000 in cash for securities sold and $25,000 in dividends.

"Did you know this was worthless at the time?"

"I did not."

Confidence in His Superiors.

"Did you know your corporation was buying its own stock in 1931?"

"Yes."

"Did you know Insull Utilities Securities was buying from 50 to 60 per cent of all the Corporation Securities stock purchased?"

"I did not."

"What did you do while you were a director?"

"I had absolute confidence in Mr. Insull and Mr. Stuart, who were running the corporation. They knew and know more about public utilities than I ever will and their integrity is unquestioned. When they approved of an act of the company which was affirmed by a reputable firm of accountants and by attorneys I would ratify their action."

Cross Examination of MacNeille.

During the morning session Special Prosecutor Leslie E. Salter led MacNeille through a searching cross examination. MacNeille fenced with the prosecutor at every turn and whenever he had an opportunity told of his belief in the correctness and honesty of the management of Corporation Securities, of which he was secretary and treasurer for several months after its formation.

Slater tried to bring out the government's contention that the portfolio of Corporation Securities contained only a comparatively small amount of stock of the Insull operating companies while it was being represented to the public that 90 per cent of Corportaion Securities' assets were in these companies.

Q. [by Salter]—Would not sales of Corporation Securities stock to the public have dropped if it became known that the company only held a small amount of stock of Commonwealth Edison, Public Service of Northern Illinois, and Peoples Gas Light and Coke? A. [by MacNeille]—I don't know if the matter was ever considered.

Insull "Never Was Afraid."

Q.—But shouldn't the public have known that only 6 per cent of the portfolio's holdings were in these companies? A.—That's 6 per cent of a big total.

Q.—Wasn't the investor getting the impression that large blocks of operating companies' stock were in the portfolio. A.—He might have.

Q.—You wanted the public to get a false impression from the company's offering circular? A.—I don't think so. There was nothing misleading in the circular. What impression do you mean?

Q.—With only 6 per cent of the operating stocks in the portfolio compared to 94 per cent in Utility Investments and Middle West Utilities?

Question for the Jury.

Judge Wilkerson interrupted to state that that was a question for the jury to consider.

The prosecutor then went into correspondence the company had had with the Chicago Stock exchange, which had asked for a listing of the company's holdings. MacNeille asserted that the company was ready at all times to make a full disclosure. The information was furnished in December, 1929, he said.

Salter then asked the witness about the expense of organization of Corporation Securities. This amounted to $946,896 and was charted against capital surplus in the company's annual report for 1929. The government contends it should have been charged against current earnings, in which event the company would have showed a loss instead of an income.

No Effort to Conceal.

"Didn't you want to conceal from the public the manner in which organization expense was charged off?" Salter asked.

"It was close to a million dollars," Salter continued, "and if it had been charged against the net earnings of $635,071 there would have been a loss instead of income, wouldn't there?"

"Theoretically yes," MacNeille admitted.

The company's depreciation in assets from its formation on Dec. 31, 1929, was $34,000,000, the prosecutor brought out and was charged against capital.

Sore Spot Before Stockholders.

The government maintains this should have been charged against earnings and should also have been carried in future statements for the public's information. MacNeille said depreciation had been charged against capital on the advice of Attorney W. J. Parker, now dead, of the firm of Schuyler, Weinfeld & Parker, and Attorney Waldo F. Tobey, another of the defendants. The prosecutor brought out through correspondence in evidence that Tobey and MacNeille had written Parker that the depreciation should be written off against capital.

"You didn't want to keep a sort spot before the stockholders, did you?" Salter asked. "Wasn't it your opinion that the depreciation should be off the statement once and for all?"

Denies Trying to Shield.

The prosecutor then tried to show that Clarence Whitworth, who is a co-defendant, had done the actual auditing on the annual statement. MacNeille said that Whitworth's firm, Touche, Niven & Co., accountants, had done it.

"Are you trying to protect Whitworth?" Salter inquired.

"Not at all," MacNeille answered, "he can take care of himself."

Salter next sought to show that Corporation Securities would not have been able to declare stock dividends on its own stock in 1930 if it had not listed as earnings $6,093,000 in dividends it received from its holdings in other Insull companies.

The government contends that the companies "pyramided" stock dividends to inflate their earnings and alleges that the dividends should have been listed as capital. The circular issued when 1,250,000 shares of Corporation Securities common stock was put on the market in April, 1930, said the company would earn $1.42 a share that year.

Salter asked MacNeille whether the public was not being misled by not being told stock dividends received by the company were regarded as income.

"I don't think so," MacNeille replied, "or we would have put that information in the circular. We didn't hesitate a moment in doing what we did. We would do the same thing, as far as I am concerned, today under the same circumstances."

"Have you no concern for the thousands who lost money when the company failed?" Salter questioned.

"I exceedingly regret it," MacNeille said, turning to the jury.

"Yet, you would do the same thing over again?"

"Under the same circumstances," the witness insisted.

Concerning the government's evidence that the defendants agreed to support the market on Corporation Securities' units and common stock when the latter issue was made in April, 1930, without the public's knowledge, MacNeille said: "I never thought of it as unfair. It was the usual procedure."

Reads Statement of Holdings.

On redirect examination by his attorney, Charles Lounsbury, MacNeille read from the statement given to the Chicago Stock exchange of Corporation Securities holdings on Nov. 15, 1929.

The holdings at market prices were 1,291 shares of Peoples Gas Light and Coke capital stock, $296,931; 11,093 shares of Commonwealth Edison capital, $2,551,390; 4,631 shares of Public Service of Northern Illinois common, $1,018,829; 360,940 shares of Utility Investments common, $16,683,580, and 1,065,500 shares of Middle West Utilities common, $23,444,000.

On a short further cross-examination Salter brought out that the contents of the portfolio were not made public until the annual statement for 1930.

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Fritz Ulrichi, a bookbinder, killed in a railroad accident twenty-five years ago, was found listed today on assessment rolls compiled by Assessor Gus. S. Brown. The list also contained business concerns that closed their doors thirty to forty-five years ago.

$1,000,000 JEWEL GETS HOME SAFE IN OLD CLOTHES

La Favorite, the one million dollar diamond which was on display in the at the World's Fair, has been delivered safely to New York agents of Chicago Jewelers' association exhibit the French owners, according to word received here yesterday. The gem, which weighs 52 carats, was placed in a small packet after the close of the Fair and a detective dressed in shabby clothes carried it to the express office, followed by four other detectives in a squad car. It was consigned as an ordinary valuable package and but few knew that it contained one of the most precious stones in the world. The diamond was fully insured until it reached its destination.

"Business Blues" Turned to Smiles

The Famous Liquid Test Helps Man in Condition Where His Work Seems to "Have Him Down"

I have used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for years. I take it when I have any of the usual symptoms of sluggishness or constipation. I generally feel better in every way and regain my usual health and energy after using it.
Kenneth B. Logan, Bondville, Vt.

Do you have headaches before breakfast, or after lunch? Nausea or sourness after any meal? Perhaps you have thought yourself a victim of "indigestion" when food doesn't seem to agree. Or that you are all run-down physically because you feel "sunk" an hour or more after eating, or haven't the ambition or energy others have at all hours.

If, by making one little change, you could relieve a condition of sluggishness within a few days, and feel about 100% better — would you do it?

Try This!

If you are a victim of "sluggish bowels"; an occasional sufferer from constipation, here's the secret of prompt and safe relief until nature restores your regularity. Use a liquid laxative!

Start tonight with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. If necessary to repeat the dose use less each day, until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

If there is an occasional return of the trouble, Syrup Pepsin will comfort and relieve you again, as easily as it did the first time you ever took it.

BE CAREFUL

IF any laxative is dipsetic (makes you thirsty).
IF it affects your appetite.
IF you need more today than the first time you took it.
IF it drains the system (by too watery a movement).
IF a bad "burning" is felt.
IF there is severe griping.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative made from fine herbs, pure pepsin, senna and cascara. It is most agreeable to take. The comfortable bowel movement from Syrup Pepsin is a joyful relief from the violent action of strong mineral drugs!

Ask any druggist for a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and make the "liquid laxative test."

I JUST CAN'T GAIN AN OUNCE-I MUST BE NATURALLY SKINNY
I SAID THE SAME THING TOO-TILL I DISCOVERED KELP-A-MALT!
SKINNY SINCE CHILDHOOD SUDDENLY PUTS ON WEIGHT!

THOUSANDS CALL THEMSELVES
"NATURALLY SKINNY"
WHEN THEY'RE SUFFERING FROM STARVED GLANDS!

New Mineral Concentrate From the Sea —RICH IN NATURAL IODINE—Building Up Thousands of Nervous, Skinny, Rundown Men and Women Where All Else Fails.

There is hope now for "naturally skinny" folks who cannot seem to add an ounce no matter what they eat. A new way has been found to add flattering pounds of good, solid flesh and fill out those ugly, scrawny hollows even on men and women who have been underweight for years. 5 lbs., in 1 week guaranteed . . . 15 to 20 lbs. not uncommon.

This new discovery called Kelp-A-Malt—a mineral concentrate from the sea—gets right down and corrects the cause of thin, underweight conditions—STARVED GLANDS. It provides in easily assimilable form every vital body mineral for the proper functioning of the glands without which no amount of good food can do you an ounce of good. Only when your glands are nourished and normalized by these food minerals can you digest the fats and starches (the fat making elements in food). Kelp-A-Malt, too, provides one of the world's richest sources of Natural Iodine.

Kelp-A-Malt's NATURAL IODINE nourishes the internal glands which control assimilation, the process of converting digested food into firm, solid flesh. 6 Kelp-A-Malt tablets contain more NATURAL IODINE than 486 lbs. of spinach, 1,600 lbs. of meat, 1,389 lbs. of lettuce.

Try Kelp-A-Malt for a single week and notice the difference, how much better you sleep, how your appetite improves, ordinary stomach distress vanishes and flattering extra pounds appear. Kelp-A-Malt is prescribed and used by physicians. Fine for children, too. Remember the name, Kelp-A-Malt, the original kelp and malt tablets. 100 jumbo tablets, 4 to 5 times larger than ordinary tablets, cost but little. Nothing like them, so do not accept imitations. Try Kelp-A-Malt. If you don't gain at least 5 lbs. in 1 week, the trial is free. Sold at all

Describes Business Deal in "Gang" Office.

The obstacles in the path of a man trying to start out in business during the racketeering days of 1930-'32 were related from the witness stand in Judge William V. Brothers' Criminal court yesterday by Harry H. Gray, 6916 South Wabash avenue, a hoisting engineer. He was on the witness stand for the second day as a prosecution witness against fifteen men charged with racketeering conspiracy through the Trucking and Transport exchange, the T-N-T.

Gray told the jury that he began his business enterprise by taking in two political leaders in a refuse disposal business he tried to start on a dump at 125th street and Kedzie avenue. Failing to establish the business, he said, he finally went to the union officials and ended by being given directions by gangsters.

Makes Deal with Agent.

After having been "kicked around" by the various groups with which he came into contact, Gray said he finally made a deal with Dan [Dago Dan] Tagnotti, a business agent of the scavengers' union.

Tagnotti arranged, Gray testified, to have independent scavengers use his dump. The witness said he communicated this fact to the defendant, Thomas C. Sullivan, brother-in-law of the slain gangster, George [Red] Barker, and an alleged labor racketeer. Sullivan, he said, asked him if he was trying "to get Dago Dan burned up."

A chorus of defense objections prevented the witness from telling the jury what happened to Tagnotti. The coroner's records, however, show that Tagnotti was slain on a gang ride not long after the deal was made in December, 1931.

Takes Politicians As Partners.

Gray testified that he got a lease on the dumping site in the summer of 1931. He took in as partners, he said, Eugene L. Nusser, former northwest side alderman, and Eden T. Brekke, northwest side Republican ward committeeman. Nusser is a son-in-law of George Hitzman, then a Republican party leader. Just what arrangement he made with the political leaders, Gray did not say, other than "he let them in on it" because of their political connections.

On cross-examination by Defense Attorney Joseph Harrington, Gray said he was to get some of the city work, but that the politicians "did not do any business." It was then, the witness said, he went to see Marcus [Studdy] Looney, another defendant and a labor union business agent. Looney, he said, asked for "50 per cent" of the enterprise.

From Looney, the witness said, he was directed to the alleged gang headquarters in a La Salle street office building. More than 50 times, Gray said, he went to this office, where he saw both Barker and William J. [Three Fingered Jack] White, both since slain. It was at this time he negotiated with Sullivan, he said. He finally signed a contract giving Sullivan 20 per cent of the project, he said.

20 Per Cent for Sullivan.

"We had a conference at which it was agreed to give Sullivan 20 per cent," testified Gray. "The conference was attended by Nusser, Brekke and Sullivan in a lawyer's office.

Q.—Were you told why Sullivan was to get 20 per cent? A.—Not then. I was chased out of the room while the matter was discussed by the others and then I was told about the 20 per cent.

Q.—Were you later told? A.—Yes, for the things he could do. He said, "We control the drivers."

Defense Attorney Michael Ahern, who has been unsuccessfully attempting to get the judge to censor press reports of the trial because the jury is not locked up, indicated he thought he ruined the effect of Gray's testimony when he brought out on cross-examination that gangster White was in the county jail waiting trial for murder at the time the witness said he was in the La Salle street office building running the racketeering activities.

Can't Explain Discrepancy.

Prosecutor Donald Thompson said he could not explain this discrepancy unless his witness was mistaken as to the time.

Gray's testimony also indicated that others of the defendants, including John M. Bransfield, prominent contractor and main defendant, had contacts with the gangsters in the La Salle street office.

Defense Attorney Benedict J. Short will cross-examine Gray further when the trial is resumed this morning.

Laborites Make Big Gains in Scotland's Elections

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Labor registered an impressive victory today in municipal elections throughout Scotland. In Glasgow the Socialists gained a clear majority of 14 in the town council. Elsewhere the laborites made marked inroads similar to the headway they gained against conservative candidates in municipal elections in England and Wales last week.

Ten Convicts Flee Tropical Prisons; Roam Sea 32 Days

ARUBA, Dutch West Indies, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Ten escaped convicts from three French penal colonies off French Guiana reached Aruba today to tell an incredible tale of hardships suffered during their escape.

The men, headed by Jean Duvernay, made the perilous ocean crossing despite the fact there was not one sailor in the lot.

For three of their 32 days under the searing Caribbean sun they were without food and for five days no water passed their parched lips. Twice their frail boats were wrecked and many times times they were near death.

The ten convicts,—four of whom were imprisoned on Royal Island, four on St. Joseph and two on Devil's Island—communicated with each other to lay their plans for escape through the food delivery boat traveling among the islands.

Swim Through Shark Waters.

Duvernay had money concealed on his person and with it he purchased a 16 foot canoe which, by pre-arrangement, put out at night from the mainland to a spot off Royal Island.

The men then swam the shark-infested passages between the islands to the meeting place and, once together, swam out to sea to meet the canoe.

A fisherman who brought the boat out was put off on the mainland, and the ten, after securing additional food and water, set sail for Trinidad.

They battled the elements for 32 days, part of the time without food and water, until a passing British freighter furnished them with new supplies, and they pushed on to Trinidad.

Boat Crushed on Coral Coast.

There they rested for thirty days, secured another craft and set out again. Winds buffeted them and squalls drenched them until after 12 days their boat was crushed on the coral coast of Curacao.

Residents took them in, sheltered and fed them, and furnished them still another craft, a 14 foot fishing boat, in which for the third time they set sail.

The first night out their main yard parted and they fought their way into San Nicholas bay, Aruba, where they remained long enough to have their vessel repaired.

After securing new clothing, food, and cigarets, they fared forth again. Three miles off Aruba their boat went down. They managed to keep afloat until a Dutch pilot boat rescued them and brought them back into Aruba.

The colony here today was subscribing funds to enable Duvernay and his fellows to buy still another craft.

MILL OPERATORS REPRIMANDED BY TEXTILE BOARD

Steel Body to Sit Here on Nov. 13 and 14.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Textile mill operators who are still refusing, six weeks after the September strike, to reëmploy strikers were sharply reprimanded today by President Roosevelt's textile labor board.

At the same time the President's steel labor board, made up of the same members as the textile board, announced that it will sit in Chicago on Nov. 13 and 14 instead of Nov. 15, as previously announced.

Steel Board to Meet Here.

The steel board will hear on Nov. 13 the appeal of the workers at the Acme Steel plant, and on Nov. 14 the appeal of the workers at the Gary plant of the Illinois Steel company. Both groups are asking the board to conduct an election to determine which union will represent them in collective bargaining.

The textile board, composed of Judge Walter P. Stacy and Admiral Henry A. Wiley, retired, told the textile mill operators bluntly that it expects them to rehire all strikers in accordance with the terms of President Roosevelt's strike settlement.

Text of Reprimand.

"It has been six weeks since the textile strike of September, 1934, was officially terminated," the board reminded the mill owners. "In the majority of mills those who went out on strike have been taken back without question, but the textile labor relations board is still receiving numerous complaints that strikers are not being rehired and that many are being evicted from company houses.

"The strike cannot be satisfactorily ended and peace restored to the textile industry until all workers who left the plant during the strike and who did not engage in lawless violence are returned to their former positions. This is a fundamental issue which must be met.

"The board expects the industry to reëmploy those who were in the mills before the strike without further delay and without discrimination. Other important matters concerning the industry demand the attention of the board."

MAC DONALD ADMITS TRUTH OF CHARGES IN U. S. ARMS INQUIRY

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Prime Minister Macdonald today admitted the truth of statements made in the recent munitions inquiry in Washington that the Soley Armament Company, Ltd., was authorized to sell surplus war office arms to foreign countries.

Answering the question in the house of commons, the prime minister said the Soley company "is on the list of war department factories eligible to tender for surplus stores, including arms and ammunition."

Evidence was laid before the senate munitions investigating committee at Washington Sept. 10 that the surplus stocks of the Soley Armament Company, Ltd., of London were of such magnitude that "the sale of a big block of them could alter the political balance of power of the smaller states, involving corresponding complications fro mthe point of view of finance and industry."

GENERAL STRIKE BY EXTREMISTS MENACE SPAIN

MADRID, Spain, Nov. 6.—(AP)—A sharp parliamentary skirmish over its policies in suppressing the recent radical revolt ended in triumph for Premier Alejandro Lerroux's government today, but there were indications stormy weather lay ahead of the new régime.

While parliament, with most of its radical deputies absent, voted confidence in Lerroux 233 to 0, syndicalists announced general strikes throughout Spain, in protest against the government's decision that at least two of those found guilty of rebellion in Asturias must die.

Socialists, still nursing wounds they suffered in the abortive general strike less than a month ago, refused to join the syndicalist movement and belief was expressed it was thereby predestined to failure.

The government was confident it has enough facilities at hand to prevent serious disorders, but provincial governors were instructed to exercise extreme vigilance and to use a firm hand in the event of trouble.

The unanimous vote of confidence in Lerroux came after the premier himself had insisted that the government's policy be put to the test.

Previously deputies of the Catholic right had flatly accused the government of bowing to external pressure in commuting the sentences of 31 rebels condemned to death.

First of the general strikes called was that at Zaragoza, where approximately 50 per cent of the workers went on strike. Street cars and taxicabs, however, were operating normally.

Kill that COLD!

Don't Merely Coddle It with Half-Way Measures!

A cold is nothing to trifle with! It may end seriously. A cold, being an internal infection, calls for an internal treatment. It also calls for a COLD remedy and not something good for a number of other things as well.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what a cold requires. It is expressly a cold remedy. It is direct and internal and it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. Anything less than that is taking chances with a cold. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is sold by all druggists, 30c and 50c. Accept no substitute.

They'll smile all winter long these thousands who have Gas Heat

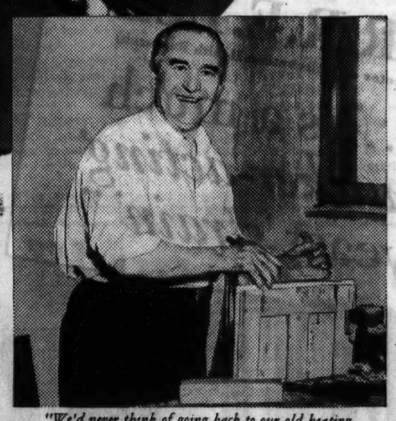
"We like gas heat, yes sir, and we're going to keep it!" That's the way Mr. John Brabec 2437 S. 61st Court Cicero, feels about it.

"Boy! How the blizzard raged. The gas furnace kept my home as warm as toast." states Mr. Earl F. Leary, 7759 St. Lawrence Ave., Chicago.

"Who wants to shovel coal and haul ashes? Not me!" is the statement of Mrs. Greenwood, 1842 S. Sawyer Avenue, Chicago.



"We'd never think of going back to our old heating system," says Mr. Matthew Zdrahal, 2109 S. 60th Court, Cicero.

"Why, we've actually saved money on cleaning bills already," is the statement of Mrs. Helen Schultz, 2421 S. 56th Court, Cicero.

"Let the cold wave come!" says Mr. R. R. Williamson, and his son Delmer, of 1845 S. Sawyer Ave., Chicago.

THE hard, long winter that's just ahead holds no terror for these people. No sir! Their heating problems have been solved—solved the day they installed automatic gas heat. No matter how rough the weather, no matter how quickly it will change, they are prepared for it. Always plenty of fuel. No long waits for the truck to deliver, no chance to forget to order it. Gas is always there, ready for instant use. The little thermostat on the wall automatically sees that the temperature is just as you want it—day and night. The house is kept comfortable as easily as that. No shoveling, no hauling of ashes, no chopping of kindling. All the drudgery of winter days has been banished.

Gas heat ends furnace dirt

To make your household tasks even lighter, gas heat does away with all the unnecessary cleaning caused by old-fashioned heating methods. There is no dirt, no dust to seep into rugs, no soot to smear walls, woodwork and furnishings. Gas heat is clean. No other fuel can compare with it.

These thousands who have installed gas heat will smile all winter long. The weather won't bother them. They'll have no hard labor to keep comfortable. Gas heat is automatic. Get the facts on gas heat at once. Give yourself the pleasures and the advantages that these thousands already know.

You invest nothing to try gas heat

We want you to try gas heat. But you need not invest one cent for equipment while you are trying it. Here's what we'll do for you. We'll install gas heat in your present furnace or boiler at our expense. You try it for a month, two months, or a year. While you are trying it you pay only a small rental—only $3 a month for the burner during the heating months in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. Then, if at any time within the year you find you don't like gas heat, we'll take it out—at our expense—and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. But if you decide to keep gas heat, as these many thousands are happy to have done, the rental you have paid is applied on the purchase price of the equipment.

Order gas heat now. Tomorrow it may be much colder. The radical reduction in rates—now less than half of what they were a few years ago—makes it possible for every home to have it. Investigate this liberal offer now. Simply call or write your nearest gas company office for complete details and for free estimate of what it will cost to heat your home with gas.

YOU INVEST NOTHING

To Try Gas Heat!

Gas heat can be installed without your investing one cent for equipment. To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense—remove it at our expense, if you don't like it. Accept this startling offer. Phone your nearest gas office TODAY.

GAS SERVICE HAS 84-YEAR RECORD

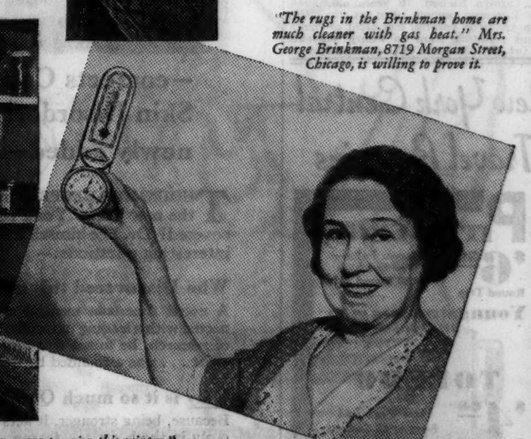
Gas service was turned on for the first time in Chicago on September 4, 1850. There were 125 customers for the new company—also 99 street lamps and the city's one public building to be lighted by gas. Since that evening 84 years ago, gas service has continued without interruption in Chicago.

Eighty-four years have brought great changes. The little 4-mile gas main of 1850 has grown into a 3,735-mile distributing system. The city now uses as much gas in one hour as it did in the entire first year, 1850-51. Constant research and experiment fostered by the management, plus the conscientious efforts of 4,000 employes, have brought improvements in service that have given Chicago a gas service unexcelled anywhere.

This service has been a factor in the growth and development of Chicago and our aim is to make it an increasingly potent factor.

"The rugs in the Brinkman home are much cleaner with gas heat." Mrs. George Brinkman, 8719 Morgan Street, Chicago, is willing to prove it.

"I'm going to enjoy this winter," is the statement of Mr. E. A. Weise of 5721 Wilson Avenue Chicago.



"Just a little thermostat on the wall is all we need to keep the house comfortably warm, day in and day out." says Mrs. John R. Russell, 935 N. Lorel Ave., Chicago.

"It's easy to keep the walls and woodwork spic and span," says Mrs. Clauter, 9942 Wallace St., Chicago.

5,000 JAM INTO COOKING SCHOOL ON OPENING DAY

Pencils Fly While Expert Tells New Recipes.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Five thousand women, filling to overflowing the huge Trianon ballrooms, 6201 Cottage Grove avenue, hailed the opening of THE TRIBUNE'S fourth annual cooking school yesterday.

The first comers, three women, arrived simultaneously at 7:05 a. m. with members of THE TRIBUNE staf who had come to make the last minute preparations before the doors were to be thrown open at 10:30. By 9 o'clock women thronged outside, jostling one another good naturedly in an effort to be nearest when the doors opened. Long before the program started at 12:30, the ballroom was filled to its last seat, and those outside were advised to return today.

Husbands Along, Too.

The fortunate ones, once in, prepared to enjoy four hours of the latest cooking information interspersed with entertainment by actors and musicians from various theaters and recreation spots. Grandmothers and children, and even husbands on their day away from work, came along.

Many brought their lunches and others their knitting, but no one forgot pencil and paper to take down first hand notes on the culinary secrets which Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, the home economics expert who is in charge of the school, was to reveal to them. And when she made her first appearance in crisp white cook's cap and white uniform, smiling and bowing, every one cheered.

"I see a great number of familiar faces here, a great many of my old friends," Mrs. Chitwood began. "And now I have some new things to show you, and some very good things, too."

There was rustle of paper and poising of pencils. The first lesson was jelly making, very quick, and easy, at least it sounded so with Mrs. Chitwood's simple rules. In a twinkling she skipped from jelly making to China, with bean sprouts au gratin followed by egg foo yong.

Tribute to Cooking Editor.

"See how lovely they are—bamboo shoots and water chestnuts direct from the orient," she continued. "You chop them up, like this," holding them up, "and then you add the chopped onion and chop suey sauce and the rest of the ingredients, and salt and pepper to taste. At the very last you sprinkle cheese over the dish and bake."

Next Mrs. Chitwood paid her respects to Mary Meade, TRIBUNE cooking editor, by showing the women how to prepare fried chicken à la Mary Meade. This was done by dipping the chicken pieces into beaten egg and milk, rolling it in flour and cornmeal, cooking in a heavy frying pan until brown, then cooking slowly with the pan covered.

Other recipes included salmon basket—a hollowed out loaf of bread toasted, filled with a salmon mixture, and decorated with parsley; all-bran johnny cake and coffee cream.

New List Today.

A brand new list of recipes will be prepared today, also tomorrow and Friday, when the school for the south side women closes.

The cooking school opened with community singing led by Carl Craven, with Leon Benditzky at the piano. Then Bob Becker, TRIBUNE nature editor, told the women how to cook the game their husbands might bring home during the hunting season.

"Soak the duck, rabbit, or squirrel overnight in salt water," he advised. "Cut five slices of bacon in small squares, add two onions cut finely and fry until brown. Add this to the birds and cook as a pot roast until brown. Pour in a little water and a dash of whole mixed spice, then a small bottle of grapejuice, and bake slowly until the birds are tender."

Fashion Discussed.

Others on the program were members of the Dixiana Show Boat players, Ruth Pryor, former première danseuse of the Chicago Civic opera, Lynn Cole, singer at the College inn, Hotel Sherman, and Robert Phillips, bass winner of the Chicagoland Music festival in 1930. Rhea Seeger, TRIBUNE fashion editor, and India Moffett, society editor, made short talks.

Each day of the school widely known singers, pianists, dancers, actors, other public personages, and TRIBUNE women writers, will be introduced by Phil Maxwell, master of ceremonies.

Next Tuesday the cooking school will move to Guyon's Paradise ballroom, 128 N. Pulaski road, for the benefit of west side women, and on Nov. 20, to the Aragon ballroom, 1100 Lawrence avenue, for north side women.

WOMAN, 79, DIES AFTER FALL.

Mrs. Carolyn Nielsen, 79 years old, 2040 North Lavergne avenue, died at the Norwegian-American hospital last night of complications resulting from an injury she suffered Oct. 28 when she fell at her home.

BRITAIN WILL BUILD 20 SEAPLANE BASES IN SOUTH SEA ISLANDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The British government has decided to build twenty seaplane bases in the South Sea islands for an air force comprising about fifty squadrons, which is considered the minimum needed in the Pacific ocean.

Seadromes with repair shops, fuel tanks and garrisons will be established on the Fiji islands, the Norfolk islands, the Tonga islands protectorate—by arrangement with the queen of Tonga—the Solomon islands and Papua. Sir Philip Sassoon, undersecretary of state for air, will visit the islands shortly to start negotiations with the various governors and also to arrange for coöperation with the Australian and New Zealand governments.

The type of vessel to be used in the Pacific air fleet is a Singapore flying boat carrying machine guns, bombs, mooring gear, anchor and a landing boat. The vessels will have accommodations for six persons.

KILLED IN HEADON COLLISION OF CAR AND MOTORCYCLE

George Henderson, 20 years old, of Lansing, Ill., was killed last night when the motorcycle on which he was riding collided headon with an automobile driven by Gerrett Kots of Oak Glen, Ill., on Ridge road near Burnham avenue. Kots told the Lansing police that Henderson cut in front of him while making a turn.

Arthur Krueger, 38 years old, of Harvard, Ill., former chief of police of Harvard and operator of a gasoline station, was killed, and Gerald Dalton, 23 years old, also of Harvard, was seriously injured last night when their automobile was sideswiped by a beer truck on state route No. 19 between Harvard and Woodstock. John McLaughlin, 30 years old, of Rockford, Ill., driver of the truck, was held for the inquest.

Seven persons were injured, four seriously, when a car driven by Mrs. Lyle Dayholl, 546 North Euclid avenue, collided yesterday near Gary with another autmobile driven by Herbert Wienke of Michigan City. Mrs. Dayholl, Mrs. George Spence, and Mrs. Fanny Bernard, all of Oak Park, were reported in a serious condition at a Gary hospital.

Mrs. Elza Swim of Michigan City incurred a possible skull fracture and internal injuries. Wienke, his wife and a brother were cut and bruised.

Two deaths yesterday in addition to Henderson's brought to 1,057 the Cook county toll for 1934. The victims:

Mrs. Rose Tracola, 38 years old, 532 North Ogden avenue. Died in the Norwegian-American hospital of injuries suffered Saturday when she was struck by an automobile.

Joseph Lombardino, 45 years old, 1415 Ohio street. Fatally injured last night when he was struck by a car in Michigan avenue in front of the Tribune Tower.

JAPAN ABIDES BY MANDATE TERMS, TOKIO DECLARES

Denies Fortification of Pacific Islands.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 6.—The Pacific islands Japan holds under mandate are not being fortified, the foreign office spokesman asserted today. This was in reply to the league of nations' mandate commission's session at Geneva yesterday, at which Japan was accused of fortifying harbors, constructing submarine bases, and barring foreign visitors from the Marshall, Carolline, Ladrone, and Pelew islands.

"Japan is observing faithfully the terms of the mandate under which it governs the former German islands in the equatorial Pacific," the spokesman declared. "All suspicions and accusations are without foundation."

Japan continues to submit to the league reports of its stewardship of the islands, but openly considers them as permanent possessions. This question will not be settled until next year, when Japan's withdrawal from the league is to become final. Nominally the islands are under civil administration, but actually they are ruled by two high naval officers.

Japanese Poachers Held.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 6.—The Australian government is detaining a Japanese vessel with its crew of 24 and its captain, Gomi, after their capture on Oct. 10. An Australian government boat discovered the Japanese poaching in the western islands near New Guinea.

Information regarding their capture is being withheld by the Australian government authorities, but it is known that a diplomatic exchange of cables is burning between Tokio, London, and Canberra. Capture of the Japanese fishing vessel in Australian waters bears out recent reports of Japanese fishing and "naval" sampans seen from time to time about Australia's undefended north coast.

Vessel from Formosa.

All the members of the captured crew were taken to Rabaul, seat of the Australian government in New Guinea, where they have been charged with "being prohibited immigrants and with breaches of the government fishing and quarantine ordinances."

It was learned that the vessel was direct from Formosa and that she had no ship's papers or bill of health. It was learned that the vessel was loaded with six tons of trochus and green snail shell. The capturing vessel dismantled the engine of the Japanese ship before removing the crew to Rabaul. Further investigations are being made by the Australian government.

JAPAN APPROVES ABROGATION OF NAVAL TREATY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 6.—Emperor Hirohito was informed today by Field Marshal Prince Kotohito Kanin, chief of the army general staf, and Admiral Prince Hiroyasu Fushimi, chief of the naval general staf, of a decision reached by the fleet admirals to approve abrogation of the Washington naval treaty, which fixed the 5-5-3 naval ratio among the United States, Great Britain, and Japan, respectively.

Thus all formality attending the question is over, and the only matter remaining is that of time. It is expected that the notification will be submitted to the other signatories of the pact late in November, or in any event not later than Dec. 31.

Seek to Revive Conversations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Efforts are being made by Great Britain to revive the naval conversations, which are at a deadlock. Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, today invited Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, to meet him. They spent an hour comparing notes and arriving at an agreement on the details of their position.

The next move is to be a call by Sir John upon the Japanese ambassador, Tsuneo Matsudaira, to whom he will make it clear that neither the Americans nor the British intend to move from their position of maintaining essential features of the Washington and London treaties, and that in no circumstances will they agree with the Japanese thesis of tonnage equality.

JAPANESE ARMY BLOCKS PLANT TO BUILD U. S. AUTOS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MUKDEN, Manchukuo, Nov. 6.—The Kwantung leased territory government has ordered the suspension of work on a new Chrysler automobile assembly plant being erected at Dairen by Sale & Frazar, Ltd., agents in Japan, and by the Japanese agents for the cars in the leased territory.

The two concerns formed a special joint company last March to construct the plant. Soon after work was begun the army started investigations on the pretext that the name of the new company included the word "teikoku," meaning "imperial." The Kwantung government then suspended the permit, but there is strong evidence that this action was taken under orders from the Japanese army.

According to informed sources, the real reason for the suspension of the permit was the army's disinclination to increase private competition with a semi-official plant situated at Mukden, which will soon start to assemble Japanese parts. The joint company is expected to be dissolved and compensation for the property.

JUDGE KAVANAGH AND MISS LATOUR WILL BE MARRIED

Dean of Bench Is 75; Fiancee Is 27.

Superior Judge Marcus Kavanagh twirled his snowy mustache last evening and announced that he will marry Miss Jeanne Latour, his pretty brunette secretary, next Saturday afternoon. The judge made his formal announcement, confirming rumors in circulation for a month, from his rooms in the Lake Shore Drive hotel, 181 Lake Shore drive.

With him was his bride-to-be and another young woman who said she was "the housekeeper." Judge Kavanagh, who is 75 years old, declined to pose for photographers, although Miss Latour did not object to having her picture snapped. The judge promised to pose with his 27 year old fiancée at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Will Have Church Wedding.

The wedding, Judge Kavanagh said, will take place in the church of Our Lady of Lourdes, 4640 North Ashland avenue. The ceremony is to be performed by the Rev. Father M. J. Scanlon, pastor of the church, who was a schoolmate of Judge Kavanagh at Niagara university in 1876.

"We have no plans for a honeymoon," said the judge, "and we do not know where we shall make our home."

Dean of Superior Court.

Judge Kavanagh is the dean of the Superior court, having served since 1898, when he was appointed to fill a vacancy. He has been reelected ever since. Born in Des Moines, Ia., he came to Chicago in 1889 to practice law. During the Spanish-American war he served as colonel of the 7th Illinois Volunteer infantry. His first wife died a year ago.

TOW 2 DAMAGED DESTROYERS TO SAN DIEGO BASE

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Two American destroyers damaged in a collision off Magdalena bay, Mexico, were en route to San Diego navy base tonight in tow of tenders.

Wireless reports said the destroyer Ellis, commamnded by Lieutent Commander F. K. O'Brien, rammed the McFarland on the starboard side while both were engaged in maneuvers without lights last night.

The commander of the McFarland radioed to the flagship Raleigh that none of the crew had suffered serious injury but water was rising rapidly in the fire and engine rooms.

GUARD OF STATE TROOPERS HIT BY LINDY DEFENSE

Flemington, N. J., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's New Jersey defense attorney, Lloyd Fisher, today charged the state with subjecting the Lindbergh kidnap-slaying suspect to "an insidious third degree to harass him and break down his mentality."

A grim, silent guard of state troopers and deputy sheriffs, never fewer than five, stands outside Hauptmann's cell night and day, Fisher declared, never speaking to the prisoner or to each other.

When the prisoner asks for something, the attorney said, it is handed to him without a word. When the guard is changed there are at least ten men outside Hauptmann's cell at one time.

"Hauptmann ought not to be subjected to any indignity not imposed on other prisoners held under the same charge," Fisher said, indicating he would ask Attorney General David T. Wilentz to remove the troopers as guards.

Fisher declared the state troopers were part of the prosecution force and should not be allowed continual access to the prisoner lest they question him improperly.

The cost to the state of Hauptmann's guard, plus the daily medical examinations by county physicians, will be about $3,000 a month, Fisher asserted, and may total $12,000 by the time the trial begings.

BERWYN MAN FOUND DEAD.

Joseph Suva, 64 years old, owner of a cleaning and dyeing shop at 6937 Roosevelt road, Berwyn, was found dead yesterday in his living quarters behind the shop. He apparently had died of heart disease.

LOOK ON THE LABEL FOR THE AGE—to be pure whiskey must be at least four years old.

Facts Worth Knowing!

In accordance with the regulations of the the U. S. Pharmacopoeia, "whiskey must have been stored in charred wood containers for a period of not less than 4 years."

DR. R. E. LEE
(Director of Fleischmann Health Research)
"...it's a much quicker-acting yeast 'strain'"
DR. LEE, authority on Yeast for Health, reports: "This new 'strain' of yeast is very rich in hormone-like" substances."

...speeds digestive juices, muscles—makes cathartics needless... clinic tests all show

CATHARTICS PROVED soon unnecessary, as "XR" Yeast corrected constipation and related ills faster than before! "It is extraordinary," report doctors in 25 clinics after large-scale tests. Hormone-like* substances in new "XR" Yeast make digestive juices flow fast, strengthen digestive muscles amazingly... make you feel better.

—corrects Constipation, Indigestion, related Skin Disorders twice as fast. (Vitamin "A"—newly added—cuts down colds, too!)

Who Discovered this new Yeast?

A noted American medical scientist, connected with a leading university. After years of research, he found this new "strain" of yeast... was astounded by its action.

Why is it so much Quicker?

Because, being stronger, it acts more vigorously in the body... faster. It is rich in *hormone-like substances ("activators") which relieve the cause of most constipation, indigestion and resulting ill health in very short time.

What is this cause of Constipation, Indigestion and related Ills?

Slow digestive juices, and slow action of your digestive tract! "XR" Yeast speeds secretion of these digestive juices and muscles from the stomach on down. Your food is better "churned"—softened—digested... without that heavy, stuffed feeling, heartburn, indigestion after meals. Constipation should cease promptly.

You get more "good" from your meals, too... gain appetite and energy as your blood is quickly freed of digestive poisons.

Does the Skin clear sooner?

Yes! As your blood clears of poisons, your skin is better nourished—gains health.

Do frequent Headaches stop?

Very often. "XR" Yeast also keeps you younger, retards the approach of premature "old age" in many cases. Builds up health very quickly.

Will it prevent Colds?

It helps, by cleansing your system and supplying newly added "anti-infective" Vitamin A. It also contains important Vitamins B, D and G which everyone needs for health... four vitamins in all!

DON'T PUT THIS OFF!

Start now to eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's "XR" Yeast daily—plain or dissolved in one third of a glass of water—preferably half an hour before meals. Stop cathartics gradually (if you're using them). A food, "XR" Yeast should be eaten after you've noticed first quick results — till you're well! Eat it regularly for full benefit. Get a supply immediately.

(As good as ever for baking!)

● "Just after leaving college I ate yeast—for indigestion," writes David Evans, Norwood, Pa., "with good results. But this fall my indigestion came back. I tried 'XR' Yeast and felt better in three days. It works more quickly!"

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

As compared with the modern "sophisticated" movie, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" is a soporific; a cool hand on a fevered brow; a little frog pond far removed from the surging ocean. Even its humor is quiet.

My memory's rather vague as to the details of Alice Hegan Rice's beloved book read so many years ago, but it seems to me the movie adaptation is a right slick job, and that any liberties taken with the original story have not been objectionable ones.

The "Cabbage Patch" is, as most of us know, a little community of tumbledown homes, and Mrs. Wiggs is the guide, philosopher and good angel of same. She's also the mother of a brood of children who are—in the picture version—temporarily fatherless. For Mr. Wiggs has, after months of rocking and thinking, gone to [or started FOR] the Klondike. He is expected to return some day dripping with gold nuggets. During his absence, however, there ARE the matters of feeding and housing five children and their mother to be attended to. NOT by Mr. Wiggs. . . .

Well, Mrs. Wiggs is equal to all emergencies. She can pray a Thanksgiving turkey into the house, bring a practically defunct horse back to life by means of hot water bottles and the neighborhood bed coverings, find a husband for her neighbor, the limp and longing Miss Hazy, or patch up a quarrel between her two wealthy and kind-hearted benefactors, Miss Lucy and Mr. Bob. . . .

Pauline Lord makes her screen début in the title rôle. Under her deft, restrained handling, a characterization which might easily have been a soppy thing, is delightful and disarming. She's marvelous in her scenes with her geographically named offspring and deserves a wreath of laurel for the episode in which she speeds her dying boy happily into the great beyond with descriptions of the vaudeville show she's just seen. . . .

The children are all splendid—Asia, who holds her breath until she gets black in the face when she can't have her own way; Australia who has her braids pressed out on the ironing board to give them a shine: delicate, tubercular little Jimmy and manly Billy who peddles kindlings and is his mother's standby.

Zasu Pitts is a wistfully amusing Miss Hazy. W. C. Fields and Donald Meek are just grand in their too, too brief appearances as, respectively, the matrimonial bureau aspirant for Miss Hazy's hand, and the thoughtful Mr. Wiggs.

You'll also like Kent Taylor as Mr. Bob. Evelyn Venable as Miss Lucy is a bit too prunes and prism'y, I thought.

It's to the picture's credit that, with all the simplicity and sweetness, you are sharply aware of the terrors, unleashed by grinding poverty, that stalk behind the curtain of optimism.

See you tomorrow!

Front Views and Profiles

MAX REINHARDT, frequently called the greatest impresario in the world, will arrive in Chicago Nov. 10 with his numerous trunks [he carries bed linen in one, shoes in another, suits in another, and so on], and for five days he will direct rehersals of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," the première of which on Nov. 15 will be a benefit for Passavant Memorial hospital. The day after the opening he will return to Hollywood, where a movie of the production is under way. Herr Reinhardt's presence the opening night is almost as much of a drawing card as the production itself.

RUDOLPH KOMMER, Herr Reinhardt's close friend, is expected to be in Chicago when Reinhardt arrives, as the producer has expressed a desire to have a familiar face and presence about him during his Chicago stay. The talk of the town which has been eddying about Gertrude Stein for the last month now has begun to deal with Reinhardt, his fame, his quarrels with the former kaiser, his home, one of the most famous castles in Europe, Schloss Leopoldskron at Salzburg, where the ancient atmosphere is carefully preserved, even to using only candles for light.

Herr Reinhardt's only hobby is reading and he reads a great deal in English, although he speaks it with a little difficulty. One room in his castle is devoted to English and American dramatists. Reinhardt is a late riser, and it is said the man has not been born who dares call on him before high noon. In fact, in Europe there is a familiar German saying that, translated, means "The professor is not visited before 12 o'clock." He is a great gourmet and when he orders a meal gives long and careful instructions to the waiter. He has a particular enthusiasm for grapefruit; thinks it is a great rejuvenator.

It was "A Midsummer Night's Dream" that made Reinhardt famous in 1905, and his production was hailed as making an entirely new play of it without adding a word or cutting a line. Although Reinhardt lives at his castle most of the year, he goes to the Lido a few weeks each year, where he has engaged a bath house for the rest of his life.

ROBERT REID took his small daughter, Mary Jane, for a long ride in Milwaukee the other evening. As twilight came, Mary Jane curled up against him and started to go to sleep.

"It's too early to go to sleep, Mary Jane," he said. "Look! See that beautiful moon! We'll soon be home now," he added.

Mary Jane obediently looked at the moon, then her eyes fell shut. A few moments later she opened them again.

"Daddy, you'll never get home this way," she pointed out sleepily. "You haven't even passed the moon yet."

Society Will Attend Stein Opera Tonight

Premiere to Be Benefit for Vocational Society.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THIS is the day in which you must cultivate a mood of receptive passivity if you are going to hear "Four Saints in Three Acts" tonight, for every one who has heard it insists that that is the only mood in which to listen to this opera that has caused so much comment in the east.

Gertrude Stein, the librettist, and Virgil Thomson, who wrote the music, both will be on hand tonight for the opening, which is to benefit the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins, and the occasion is certain to be one of the gayest and most interesting of the entire season.

Miss Stein, whom all who have met her like and admire but whose writing no one I know even pretends to understand, and her faithful secretary companion, Alice B. Toklas, escorted by Carl Van Vechten, are arriving by airplane from New York this afternoon and a welcoming committee of "Vocationals" will meet them. Mrs. Zimmerman, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Madlener Jr., Mrs. Sammons, Mrs. John R. Hurley, Miss Marjorie Kimball, and Mrs. Edward J. Hersey are those who are planning to drive to the airport.

Miss Stein and her companions, who will fly back to New York tomorrow, are to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeeds tonight. Mrs. Goodspeed is not giving a dinner for Miss Stein, for the latter does not arrive until fairly late in the afternoon and she does not want to have to hurry and dress and sit through a dinner party, and she is anxious to be on time for the opera, but her hostess has planned a small supper party for later in the evening.

Press Ticket Sale for Reinhardt Show.

Just as society will assemble almost in a body at the Auditorium tonight to benefit the Vocational society, so next Thursday night it will go again to the Auditorium to benefit the woman's board of the Passavant Memorial hospital. The opening of Max Reinhardt's production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be the attraction that night, and already there are dozens of dinner parties planned to precede the performance.

Mrs. Francis Johnson, president of the board, entertained the women who are working with her on the benefit at tea yesterday at her residence, 1430 Lake Shore drive, so that they could hear Thornton Wilder tell about seeing Reinhardt's production in California last summer. The novelist is very enthusiastic about the presentation and inspired every one who heard him talk to rush out and sell more tickets.

Chauffeurs to Hold Annual Ball Tonight.

Many considerate owners of chauffeur driven cars won't be using their own autos tonight to go to the Auditorium, for this is the night of the annual benefit ball of the Chicago Private Chauffeurs' Benevolent association. The party, to be given at the Aragon ballroom, is a highlight of the social season not only to chauffeurs but to maids and butlers in fashionable households.

Such forehanded young women are those who are interested in the Travelers' Aid society! Already they have made plans for a benefit on Jan. 6 and on the 15th of this month they are opening an office in the Farwell building and starting their ticket selling campaign.

The benefit is to be a concert at the

New Buttons Are Styled in Shape of Nuts

BY RHEA SEEGER.

They've gone nuts about buttons, now quite literally, with a lot of new devices for holding new wool frocks, swagger woolen suits, and coats in place. Real nuts, with metal discs and rings of either silver or gold metal with which to fasten them to the fabric. Until you see these surprising buttons you will not have realized just how goofy we can be, without being impractical.

The list sounds like a buying binge for the Thanksgiving dinner nut supply. You can find brazil nuts, hickory nuts, filberts, and two or three other varieties, in grand shades of beige, tan, and brown. They are perfect with green, gold, and brown woolen dresses. The lighter beige shades are especially attractive on black. Small nuts, large nuts, and sizes in between give you a large assortment. Fat round affairs, long zeppelin shapes of pecans, and scraggy walnuts in dark brown will do lots for the buttonholes in rough tweeds and knitted weaves.

You can also button all kinds of chic into heavy crêpe silks and velvets and velveteens with the gleaming new buttons of silver and gold metal. The ring numbers made of four perfect circles put together like a trick puzzle are exceptionally good. Filigree old silver [simulated] and dusky gold make snappy accents for dull silk crêpe dresses, while some frosty silver square buttons, two inches large that look like interlaced braid, are matched to buckle clasps.

Buttons make the best of the newest dresses these days. Shop for them while the exciting and different ideas are in; you can make a creation out of just a dress with the proper buttons, buckles, and clips.

Fashion photograph. . . . Gold lace and black velvet combine to make a romantic picture dress. This model has a fitted bodice top, a full gathered skirt, and flesh colored net shoulder straps. The gold lace is gathered on an elastic to keep in position on the arm. Available in a Chicago shop.

Milady's Fan.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Miladay's Fan" takes its place beside the other fan inspired patterns, delightful design without which any quilt collection would be incomplete. In its early days in Massachusetts the pattern usually was pieced in quaint old fashioned prints, with a plain handle, and appliqued to a white block.

Modernist Art Turns Beautiful in This Exhibit

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A new note in modernism is struck in the exhibition of paintings by Olive H. Skemp, which opens today in the Marshall Field galleries. It is a stunning exhibit, startlingly beautiful. The paintings are pared down to the essentials and then these essentials are dwelt upon with an infinite variety and blending of line and color. Abstractions gain significance and the concrete picture acquires subtlety. Mrs. Skemp is a wizard at suggestion.

There is, for example, a painting of flowers. The flowers are not really there. They are hinted at by a block of rose and pale pink and a vaselike streak of brown. It is an abstraction, a pattern, a rhythm. Yet not a scrap, even the most abstruse, of that canvas but shouts: "Flowers." Similarly with a skyline, the feel of city strength below the purity of night sky is obvious to the most uninitiated.

Painting after painting increases one's appreciation of the technique Mrs. Skemp has evolved. From the same modern formulas which have provided us with ugly exhibition after ugly exhibition, she has written a new story. Her paintings are beautiful.

Where figures are employed the figures are beautiful. They may be blocked in in sharp concise lines and angles, as with Lot's wife turned to salt, or they may be present as bulk confined in sweeping curves, but the curves are not excessive; they stand for harmony, not avoirdupois.

The modern version of the resurrection has been exquisitely painted. The light on Mary's face comes from the empty tomb. Here is sentiment, of a kind, but beautifully simplified in accordance with the best modern teaching. Again, in a portrait of a young girl the artist has seen fit to give the glow of Sir Joshua Reynolds to a characteristic modern piece of construction. It is a subtle marriage, and successful.

Paintings on lacquer by Jean Dunand are also on view in the galleries. These are stunning in a different vein. They are products of a finished technique, a craft employed by an academician to a startlingly fine goal.

The exhibitions will continue through November.

School Birthday

Miss Marie V. Farrell, president of the Merry High school alumnæ, is in charge of the celebration that will mark the tenth anniversary of Mercy High school tomorrow evening in the school auditorium, Prairie avenue and 81st street. Recognition is to be paid Mother Mary Sophia, superior general of the Mercy Order of Sisters, who founded Mercy High school, with the establishment of an annual scholarship in her name.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Women are always telling us they'd love to try one of the treatment lines but that experimenting enough to give them a fair trial was much too expensive. If they did buy the whole setup of cleansing cream, tissue cream, skin tonic, and what not at one fell swoop and then didn't like them they were out too much money for peace of mind.

The cosmetic houses have recently tumbled to the situation. As a result there have been several little kits of beauty aids in small sizes. They're so inexpensive you can take them on without qualms—and it's quite likely that among them you might find your heart's desire.

If you should come across a trim white and gold box that dots the counters around town we advise you to snap it up. It's called a week-end beauty box and in it are cleansing cream, a skin and tissue cream, a bottle of excellent tonic, and a box of face powder. The price is amazingly low.

The cleasing cream is one of the most successful ever introduced. It's been on the market for ages, and it has whole armies of admirers. It isn't a liquefying one; it's almost a heavy cleanser and it seems to us an ideal weight for dry, sensitive skins.

The tissue cream is the number you use for treatments, either before you fall into bed or during the day when you can waltz around with a cream smeared face. This is the cream that is to be slathered on when, or preferably before, the tiny lines appear. Incidentally, in each box is a massage chart that makes war on wrinkles a lot easier.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Rhoda Cornboise's engagement to Maj. Ralph Stornack, of apparent position and wealth, is arranged by her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Briarley, who is serving a twenty year sentence for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club. Colin was alone at the table with the Canadian when the lights went out and he was struck in the throat by a table knife. Chief witness against Colin was Maj. Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Rhoda met Stornack when he called to express his regret for the testimony he had to give at her lover's trial. Jack Caermaen, an old pal of Colin's, is his warder. He plots Colin's escape by taking Colin's place as prisoner, allowing Colin to use his week's vacation. Nobody looks closely at prisoners, he explains, and warders are frequently changed. Rhoda elopes with Colin on the eve of her marriage to Stornack. They spend a brief honeymoon in Wales. Then Colin returns to prison. Rhoda returns home and feigns a lapse of memory. Her mother besieges her to marry Stornack, who is still willing. He and his confederates know she has inherited the fortune of a Canadian relative. The Canadian solicitor had come to London to tell her of it. Rhoda meets Jack Caermaen. Stornack follows. Later he calls on Caermaen and they quarrel. Jack suspects Stornack of the crime for which Colin was convicted. Rhoda tells her mother that she is going to have a baby.

INSTALMENT XV.

UNSUSPECTED KINDNESS.

Mrs. Cornboise was sitting back in a wicker armchair, her hands over her eyes.

"Unless I'm very much mistaken I can still marry you to Stornack."

The remark seemed to Rhoda so perfectly ridiculous that she really thought her mother was unwell.

"I think you're feeling rather upset, mother. Shall I ring for some tea? Or would you like a little brandy?"

To her surprise her mother suddenly softened.

"I do feel a bit unstrung, Rhoda. I fancy I've been talking rather wildly. You must forgive me, dear."

The appeal went straight to the girl's generous heart. There came to her then the sense of their tragedy. An unknown assassin had killed a man in a night club and an innocent man's life was broken. She herself was condemned to an unthinkable future and this proud mother of hers was broken and humbled, compelled to believe that the shadow of disgrace had fallen upon her house.

"That's all right, darling! We're still going to be friends, Rhoda. Whatever you want to do I'll help you do it."

"Suppose I go away next Monday?" said Rhoda.

"Yes, dear; I think that is as good a plan as any," said Mrs. Cornboise.

And because Rhoda herself felt generous and forgiving she did not suspect the sudden amiability of her mother.

Mrs. Cornboise got up to go.

"And in the meantime you agree, darling, that we needn't blazon the literal truth to—to anybody. Not even your father. I'd much rather tell him when the opportunity presents itself."

Rhoda agreed to leave all that to her mother.

The next morning Rhoda felt healthy and comparatively at ease in her mind. Indeed, the stormy interview with her mother had cleared the air and defined her position and it had all ended in friendliness. So she thought.

There would be an end to the perpetual discussion of her marriage with Stornack. And next Monday she would leave Cornboise hall.

This part of the program had not been discussed. Mrs. Cornboise had implied that she would come with her, but Rhoda intended to go on her own—to carve out a new life for herself.

She realized that her plan of becoming a self-supporting wage earner would be interrupted later on by the birth of her baby. Fortunately, in the plan Jack Caermaen had outlined for her, there had been at least a hundred pounds in reserve. And that, she was sure, would be ample.

After breakfast her mother took her aside.

"Your father and I have to go into Gallowden this morning—to see the bank manager." She gave a little laugh. "I told you things were becoming rather difficult in that way. If Major Stornack comes you might drop a hint that we've been asked to stay for a little while with a cousin in Paris."

As Rhoda frowned she added:

"Unless you have any objection."

"No, I've no objection. But wouldn't it be better for me to tell him that I can't marry him—without giving any reason?"

Mrs. Cornboise affected to think it over.

"I'd rather you wrote and told him that later. After all, we can have a prolonged stay in Paris—and you can write and imply that you've fallen in love with some one else."

Rhoda assented. It would be hypocritical to refuse one line of deceit when she herself was bound to withhold the truth. And the object of the deceit, she told herself, was merely to spare Ralph's feelings.

Before they got home she told him the Paris story.

"That's bad news!" he exclaimed. "Of course, I'm not a romantic Johnny, but I shall miss these walks."

"So shall I," she answered in all sincerity.

Her parents were late for lunch and she feared that they must be having trouble with the bank manager. And this belief was actually confirmed by the fact that her father, when he came back, looked extremely miserable.

That night, just after Rhoda had gone to bed, her mother knocked and came in.

"I saw Dr. Treadgold this afternoon, dear, and I want you to let him examine you tomorrow," she said, with a new and almost unnatural gentleness.

"O, why? I feel perfectly well."

"Yes, dear. But we want to be quite sure that things are as we think. And I would like to be assured that your general health will give no anxiety."

The next day when Dr. Threadgold came he brought another doctor with him whom Rhoda had never seen before. The examination was perfunctory, but the other doctor asked a lot of questions about her lapse of memory. Again Colin's formula stood by her. She had merely to repeat that she remembered nothing, and they soon stopped trying to trick her with questions and assured her that she need not worry about herself—that lots of people had exactly similar lapses of memory and were none the worse for it afterwards.

"Mother, what was that other doctor for?" she asked when they had gone.

"It's usual to have a consultation on these occasions," answered Mrs. Cornboise, and Rhoda wondered why.

As she was so soon to go away, Rhoda wanted to have a little time alone with her father. Before dinner that evening she went into his study. She often used to creep in there for a quiet chat—it had been a recognized custom since childhood. And he would put away his microscope and his books and joyfully spend half an hour with her.

"May I come in, daddy? Or are you too busy?"

For the first time in her life her father did not look up.

"I'm afraid, my dear—that is, I have some important work to finish before dinner."

At once she left the room to dash away her tears. She felt certain that her mother had told him. And it was incredible that he should turn away from her. She must know.

"Mother have you told daddy?"

"Yes, dear. You wanted me to, didn't you?"

"Yes, of course! I hoped you had. But—he—he—didn't want to see me."

"My dear," said her mother unctuously, "there are some things in which men can be very hard—even the men we love best."

The hurt stayed like an aching tooth. She was silent during the meal and went early to bed. The next day she saw him leave again with her mother for Gallowden. To see the bank manager again?

In the last twenty-four hours she had been conscious of a change in the atmosphere of the house. Even the servants seemed different and she wondered why. She was certain that the conversation with her mother could not have been overheard.

She did not feel she wanted to go for a walk this morning and decided she would get some exercise in the garden.

Miss Pinchot Is Made Star on Election Day

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—The first Tuesday after the first Monday in November has long been an important day in the Pinchot family, but this time it was outstanding, not for her uncle, the governor of Pennsylvania, but for Rosamond Pinchot, society-actress and daughter of Amos Pinchot.

She received notice today of her election as a full-fledged movie star on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio roster.

Miss Pinchot is one of the few movie newcomers to become a star in her first appearance.

She also, by the way, is the only actress near six feet in height ever to be welcomed into the starring division of the movies. Her height is 5 feet 11.

Miss Pinchot, who played in 750 performances as the nun in "The Miracle," will launch her movie career in "The Brave Live On," an emotional and dramatic story of a woman's adventures in the great war. It is an original story by Colin Clements and Florence Ryerson, one of the most talented Hollywood husband and wife writing teams.

David Selznick, producer in charge of the Pinchot film, says of Miss Rosamond: "She has greater screen possibilities than any personality who has come along since Katharine Hepburn." Miss Pinchot is under long term contract at M. G. M.

George Breakston, 13 years old, film actor who received so much mention for his rôles in Ferenec Molnar's "No Greater Glory," in which he was the youngster who died, and in the recent talkie version of Dickens' "Great Expectations," is to go on the road with Max Reinhardt shortly. He will play Puck in Reinhardt's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," which opens shortly in Chicago, and will tour key cities of the midwest and Atlantic seaboard this winter.

Little George's mother is a French woman who married his father when the latter was a soldier. George was born in France. His mother now acts as his manager and both his mother and father will travel with the lad on his stage tour to work in shifts as tutors for his school work so that George can return to pick up with the rest of his class in Bancroft Jr. High school in Hollywood.

Arthur Marx, Groucho's 13 year old son, had to write an essay about the American constitution and returned home gloomily from school late that afternoon. In the ensuing family discussion it developed his teacher tore up the essay as one of the worst ever handed in and kept Arthur after school. What made Groucho sore was that he had written the essay.

Father Should Begin Guiding Daughter Early

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Fathers miss a glorious opportunity to direct their daughters wisely and well. Some fathers, that is—not all, fortunately. The girl who is close to her dad is just about the luckiest girl alive. The companionship in itself is a beautiful thing, the advice he can give her is invaluable. Somehow girls will take from their fathers suggestions and advice against which they rebel when received from the mother, perhaps because they are used to mother's chastisings in smaller matters, such as etiquet and behavior. Maybe it is because it is a man who is talking that dad rates higher on the giving of advice.

Too many dads leave the entire education of the girls to mother. Then if things go wrong with the girl it is mother's fault. Father criticises mother on her laxness. Father remains so aloof from the girl in the growing years that when womanhood is reached there is a chasm too wide to bridge suddenly.

We meet up with this father-daughter situation all too frequently in this department. Dad, suddenly swinging down on the girl with all his mighty parental weight, has no good effect whatever. He has been so far away from the girl all her life that she resents this present intrusion. Often she proceeds, just out of sheer rebellion, to do the very thing she is forbidden to do just because she is forbidden to do it by one whom she doesn't understand and one who, she feels, does not understand her.

Father's power for moral direction, character distinction in his girl is so overwhelmingly good it's a great pity he isn't always willing to establish the close relationship in the years that matter.

BY MARY MEADE.

Have jams and jellies, pickles, and food canning gotten to be an old story at your house? Always each year do they taste the same, and do you sometimes wonder why the folks acquired bored expressions when these old faithfuls turn up at the table? Then perhaps what you need is a touch of honey here and there to brighten up the prospect and add zest and a tingling new flavor to the old family traditions.

Honey is a most admirable helper in any type of preserving in which a sweetening agent is needed. It may be used in place of all or part of the sugar in canning, jelly making, preserving, and pickling. And while several of the creations we'll talk over today are at present out of season, mealmaking women with handy recipe files and ready scissors will find a minute of clipping to have been well worth while when these foods turn up again on the market.

When the less tart fruits are to be used for canning and jellies the milder flavored honeys are correct. For pickling purposes and for conserves from gooseberries to rhubarb, ring in the stronger flavored products. Keep in mind, too, that honey sirup is darker than sugar sirup. This will tend to darken the lighter colored fruits—peaches and pears, for instance. On the other hand the original fruit flavor is intensified. Therefore, if color is more important with your family than flavor it will be well to replace with honey only from one-fourth to one-half of the sugar usually used.

Fingers of warning should be shaken at us when we begin to honey our canned foods. The first, remember that honey has a tendency to foam when heated, often causing a "cooking over," and making sorrow for the stove cleaner. Avoid this by selecting a preserving kettle large enough to take care of the foam.

Second warning: Since honey is part water it's necessary to cook the product in which it is used slightly longer before arriving at the correct consistency.

In canning fruits with a honey sirup either the hot or the cold pack method will do admirably. In either case prepare the sirup first, then add it to the fruit. This sirup is a simple matter. Water is brought to a boil, the honey stirred in, the combination heated again to a good galloping boil, then all the scum carefully removed.

With the cold pack method we now pour the boiling sirup over the peeled fruit, which has been packed in sterilized jars. Process these jars in hot water or pressure cooker, the time depending upon the type of fruit used.

If you prefer the hot pack method prepare the sirup as directed above, add the fruit, and allow it to reach a good rolling boil. Fill the sterilized jars and process the foods.

Fruits with varying tartness call for different amounts of sweetening. For cherries, plums, and apples which are tart use either a combination in the proportion of 2 cups of honey and 3¾ cups of water, or a sirup made from 1 cup honey, 1 cup sugar, and 4 cups water. The latter gives a less pronounced honey flavor. For strawberries, pineapple, raspberries, peaches, and sweet black cherries prepare a sirup either of 1 cup honey to 2 cups water, or one made up of ½ cup honey, ½ cup sugar, and 2¼ cups water, according to the tastes of the family.

If you would make crabapple, apple, plum, quince, or currant jelly with the honey touch you may have your choice of using ¾ cup honey to 1 cup of juice, or of substituting sugar for half of that amount of honey, still with the same amount of juice. If all honey is used boil the juice for 10 minutes, add the honey, and cook to 220 degrees F. Remove the scum carefully, pour into sterilized jars, and seal with paraffin.

When half and half sugar and honey is used for jelly boil the fruit juice for 10 minutes, add the sugar, and bring again to the boiling point. Then add the honey and cook to 220 degrees F. Remove the scum, pour into jelly glasses, and seal.

Episcopal Young People to Collect Food for Poor

City-wide officers of Gamma Kappa Delta, Episcopal young people's society, met last night at St. James' church, Wabash avenue and Huron street, to perfect plans for its annual Armistice day celebration Monday night. This also will be held at St. James'. Leigh H. Hunt, president, stated that the feature of the evening, in addition to entertainment, will be the collecting of canned foods and used clothing for distribution among poor people of the city through the Cathedral shelter and other Episcopal welfare agencies.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

There are many things about this graceful dress that matrons will find helpful and charming. Its V neckline, always a becoming detail, its bias bodice seaming, and its pin-tucked beltless waistline all are slenderizing. Contrasting colors or materials may be used with excellent effect, and brown wool crêpe was used for the skirt in the original model, and a brown wool crêpe with gleaming metal in its weave formed an effective contrast in the bodice and sleeves.

The pattern, No. 2511, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure.

Makeup Solves Riddle of How to Wear Green

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Green is not the easiest color in the world to wear for most women. Emphasis was laid on the fact recently when one of the famous Fifth avenue cosmeticians was called in to solve the color problem for the Green Ball given in New York. Guests were expected to wear green, with white and silver suggested as alternating colors. Incidentally, one learns that green was chosen as motif for the ball not only because of its favorite as a current fashion color, but also because it symbolizes hope, victory, and plenty.

A makeup plan was evolved at the Fifth avenue salon by cosmetic artists with the aid of living models. These experts knew from experience that green is a "difficult" color for most women. Two popular green shades were emphasized, olive for daytime, emerald for evening. Most of the fashionable greens are variants of these basic shades.

With the greens, for instance, a chart is worked out, by the house of which I spoke above, to guide blonde, brunette, and redhead in wearing of the green. For daytime, olive green wear, the blonde is advised to wear a dark paste rouge, peach face powder, brown mascara, gray eyeshadow, and bright lipstick. For evening, emerald green, a light paste rouge, peach face powder, brown mascara, heavy grey eyeshadow, and vivid lipstick is advised.

The brunette, with her daytime olive green, adopts light paste rouge, soleil face powder, black mascara, brown eyeshadow, with touch of green, and vivid lipstick. For her evening emerald frock she should wear a dark paste rouge, suntone powder, green eyeshadow, and vivid lipstick. The redhead uses for daytime green an extra light paste rouge, peach face powder, green eyeshadow with touch of brown, and light lipstick. For evening the same except for a more vivid lipstick.

Radio Should Be Turned Low at Child's Bedtime

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"I have a little neighbor 3½ years old, of whom I am extremely fond. She is a rather nervous child and high strung," writes an elderly woman who is a grandmother and knows children.

"This child's family have a way of turning on the radio full blast and no one in the family wants it turned down, even when the little girl is going to sleep. The mother says the child has got to get used to noises. I believe the child should have at least comparative quiet when she is about to go to sleep. Am I right?"

Of course you are right. If a child has not a room far enough away from the family for her to go to sleep peacefully and quietly, then assuredly unnecessary noises should cease at that time. Such conditions as you describe, especially if typical of the family's attitude toward the child, are enough to make her nervous and high strung.

One can't help wondering whether the father or mother would be willing, if tired out as a young child is at bedtime, to try to go to sleep to the accompaniment of blasts of radio.

Even if the child's room were away from the living room, on a second or third or even fourth (!) floor, the intervening space and closed doors could hardly shut out the penetrating, noisy blare of a radio going full tilt.

People do not seem to realize the force of a voice or music coming over the air. We do not shout to each other in a living room—yet it is rather unusual to hear people tone radio voices down to the volume of a natural speaking voice. We wouldn't choose a band or orchestra to play in the small intimacy of a home—yet people will allow these things to come over the air in full volume. Certainly these loud, intrusive sounds are not good for children. And most certainly a small child should have a quiet, peaceful bedtime.

Auditorium theater with Jascha Heifetz as the artist. These plans were formulated yesterday morning at a meeting at the home of the benefit chairman, Mrs. Harney Bassett, on East Schiller street.

Housewarming Tea of Junior League.

Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, president of the Junior league, and the board members will receive and pour tea at the housewarming of the league's new headquarters, 664 North Michigan avenue, tomorrow afternoon from 3 until 6 o'clock. At the same time the league will begin a series of one man exhibits by members, each to run three weeks. Adorning the walls of the smart new drawing room will be six oils by Mrs. John Satterthwaite, including a stunning portrait of her husband and son, and one of Miss Jean Armstrong; some black and white sketches by Miss Betty Ashcraft, and a few of Miss Veronese Beatty's handsome sculptured figures.

Since the first Saturday in December falls on the first day of December, the Dunham Woods Club Hunt ball will be held on Saturday, Dec. 1.

With both the Ballyhoo ball of the Beverly Hills Center of Infant Welfare and the Big Sisters dinner dance this Armistice eve, a number of society folk will be dining and dancing Saturday night instead of attending the first night of opera. Of course there will be some who will combine the two with opera first and then dancing at either the Stevens or the Palmer house.

Reservations are coming in by the dozens for the Infant Welfare party, which promises to be a very gay affair with all the guests dancing in the Grand ballroom of the Stevens transformed by interesting blue lighting effects.

The Big Sisters supper dance at the Palmer house is to carry forward the splendid work of this group, which gives assistance both spiritually and materially to all girls and women in need. The party is to begin at 7 o'clock and continue until an early hour with dancing and entertainment.

Dr. Gault to Talk at Dawes Home.

Mrs. Charles G. Dawes is opening her Evanston home at 4 o'clock the afternoon of Nov. 27 for a benefit party for the American Institute for the Deaf-Blind, which has been incorporated with Dr. Robert Harvey Gault of Northwestern university as the director. Dr. Gault will speak at the party on "Listening Fingers" and will demonstrate his talk with his teletractor. In the demonstration, which will show how a slightless person can learn a language by feel, he will be assisted by the blind boy who works in his laboratory.

Arriving today to visit the Lawrence Meekers are Mrs. Charles Henry Sallass of Paris and her daughter, Miss Susan Quaintance. They will be here through Sunday, but Mrs. Meeker is limiting her entertaining for them to a few very quiet luncheons and dinners since she is still in mourning for her father.

Miss Quaintance has stopped over in Chicago every year for the last several years on her way from Paris to Santa Barbara, so she has a number of friends here. Next week she will proceed west to spend the winter with her grandfather, Edward Lowe of Grand Rapids, in California. Her mother will return to Paris this next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan G. Hurst are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son at the Passavant hospital on Oct. 23. Mrs. Hurst and Baby Bill are returning to the Hursts' apartment at the Knickerbocker hotel the end of this week.

"Cleans a million things"

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

MORE ABOUT MINIMUM RAISE.

Yesterday I suggested a simple working basis to guide the responding hand when in doubt whether to pass or raise a major suit when he has four trumps and a doubleton. If my partner is reasonably sure to get into dummy twice, I generally raise. A doubleton (with four trumps) provides one entry, and for the other we must look either to a high trump honor or to a primary trick elsewhere, such as an ace, two kings, or even a king and a queen-jack. If your partner has bid a minor suit, look for distributed values; do not base any hopes on merely a doubleton and four trumps to a high honor, because your game hopes must be centered on no trumps, and not on a contract for five odd in the suit. For instance, if my partner bid a spade and I held

Sp.—Q x x x	Di.—x x x x
Ht.—x x	Cl.—x x x

I would bid two spades, because game in spades may not be very hard to make if the opener can respond optimistically, while game in no trumps is far less likely though still a possibility.

The Minor Suit Prospect Is Different.

If my partner bid a diamond and I held

Sp.—x x	Di.—Q x x x
Ht.—x x x x	Cl.—x x x

I would pass, and not bid two diamonds. The prospects are the same for no trumps as they were in the spade hand cited above—they are remote though probable — but the game prospects in diamonds are not at all promising. Partner must be very strong for five diamonds to materialize. To raise in diamonds I would need a hand with which I would not be afraid to let my partner play the hand in three no trumps if he got there as a result of my raise in diamonds. For instance,

[a]

Sp.—Q x	Di.—Q x x x
Ht.—x x x x	Cl.—K J x

or

[b]

Sp.—x x	Di.—x x x x
Ht.—K x x x	Cl.—K J 10

are about the weakest hands with which to raise in diamonds. If opener veers into no trumps, you must trust him for the spades and raise him to three. If he bids two spades over two diamonds, bid two no trumps yourself and hope that he will raise you to three. If he bids hearts secondarily, raise him in hearts. He may now bid three no trumps, which you can pass with hand [a]. On hand [b] I would take it to four hearts. Possibly the opener will bid four hearts, which you pass, or four diamonds, which you take to four hearts. With less than the above values in your hand you will be in a quandary if your partner shows a desire to get to three no trumps.

Always Try to Force the Next Move.

Let me put the prospect to you in this way. When your partner bids a major suit, if you have Q x x x in trumps and a doubleton, he does not have to hold a very powerful or unusual hand for game in that major suit to be dependent on a reasonable playing chance. A little luck in the fit is about all you need. Opposite the first hand given in this article, opener can deliver game with

Sp.—A K x x x	Di.—K Q 10
Ht.—A x x x	Cl.—x

or with a little average good fortune in play, on as weak a hand as

Sp.—A J 10 x x	Di.—K Q x
Ht.—x x x	Cl.—A Q

so it is right to give light chances in raising a major suit. However, in a minor suit the outlook is really limited to a no trump game except in very rare cases where the opener has an extremely freakish minor suit hand. But in this way: It is not reasonable to raise in a minor suit with high card values with which you could not raise one no trump to two—in fact, with values barely enough to raise two no trumps to three, because a no trump game is hardly imaginable in these circumstances unless the opener had a fine no trump opening bid to start with. Indeed, if responding hand has only a couple of queens or so, opener would need almost, if not quite, an opening two no trump hand for game to be likely. Therefore, to give a chance in a minor suit, with 4-4-3-2 distribution, you need about the same values as you would require in order to raise one no trump to two no trumps. A trifle less, perhaps, because you have a safer and easier sign off in a partial score in the suit. When in doubt about raising a minor suit opening bid, remember that your partner will read such raise as a constructive move toward three no trumps; therefore, ask yourself this question: "If I raise and my partner now makes the highly invitational and encouraging rebid of two no trumps, can I then raise him to three no trumps without a shiver or a squirm?"

Acting School Wins Praise in Behrman Play

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Playgoers searching for an oasis of drama in Chicago may find a little solace for their agonies of deprivation by investigating the Members' Series of productions which are given in the Goodman theater for one week in every month. These are performances by the senior students of the Goodman school of acting and stagecraft and are worthy of attention.

This week's play, the second of the current series, is "The Second Man," which started S. N. Behrman (author of Ina Claire's and the Theater Guild's "Biography") on a career which has been, to date, fairly brilliant. He writes admirable dialog in a literary vein and is clever in characterizing the fancy types that infest the studios of New York's upper Bohemia.

"The Second Man" is a comedy of chatter among four people—an author, a scientist, a glossy widow and a sexually avid, adolescent girl. The principal purpose of the play is to demonstrate how bright and cynical the rising generation has become. The story is thin, but Behrman and the Goodman's neophytes make it amusing. When this cast is graduated it can go looking for jobs without blushing.

Max Reinhardt, preparing for the première of his production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" in the Auditorium theater, Nov. 15, announces that he has engaged Otis Harlan for the rôle of Starveling the tailor; Frank Sully for the rôle of Snout, and Nini Theilade as leading ballet dancer.

Walgreen presents TATTOO FACE POWDER
which lasts as temptingly as the famous lip color . . . TATTOO

Only a face powder that really stays on skin could bear the famous name, TATTOO. TATTOO FACE POWDER clings longer than you've ever imagined a face powder could—because it is finer than all the rest! We found, by actual test, that TATTOO is so amazingly fine that it actually changes the the texture of the skin . . . makes it naturally fresh-tinted and smooth instead of leaving the usual powdered look. And we know that your enthusiasm will know no bounds when you discover that TATTOO'S haunting, exotic perfume is exceedingly effective!

GIANT NEW HALL TO BE READY FOR LIVE STOCK SHOW

International Amphitheater Near Completion.

Completion of the International amphitheater, which is being constructed on the site of the old stock show pavilion, one of the buildings destroyed in the stockyards fire last May 19, will make Chicago the world's greatest convention city, Leonard Hicks, president of the Chicago Hotel association, said yesterday.

The building, which is to be completed by Dec. 1, has 255,000 feet of floor space, and is said to be the largest structure of its kind in the United States. It is 530 feet long and 310 feet wide, has ample parking space for [illegible] cars on a concrete floor outside the building, and will seat more than 12,000 people.

Called Gift to People.

Mr. Hicks, interviewed yesterday at a meeting of the hotel association at the Palmer house, said that the building may be considered a $2,000,000 Christmas gift to the people of Chicago.

"For years we have tried to figure a way to construct in Chicago a building which would hold conventions bringing from ten to twenty thousand people into the city," Mr. Hicks said. "Now such a building has been built on the ruins of the stock show pavilion at the Union stockyards. Chicago has come into her own as the world's greatest convention city.

"The space in this building will be available for any convention exhibition at a cost of only fifteen cents a square foot," Mr. Hicks declared. "Such cities as Cleveland, St. Louis, Memphis, and Kansas City, which have always been stiff competition for us, are now out of the running. Even Atlantic City cannot offer so fine a building at such a reasonable price."

Likely to Draw Big Sessions.

Mr. Hicks said the following conventions may be brought to Chicago by the new structure: American Society of Steel Treating, which attracts 10,000 persons; Roadbuilders' association, 20,000 persons; Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, 8,000 persons; Joint Convention of Motor and Equipment Manufacturers' association and the Motor Equipment Wholesalers' association 16,000 to 20,000 persons, and the Railway association of America and its branches, 15,000 persons.

Mr. Hicks announced that as a starter he planned to go to Buffalo next week to seek the 1935 convention of the Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages. The first attraction scheduled for the building is the stock show, which is to open on Dec. 1.

Ailing Calf Gets Well

November 6, 1934.

THE little Hereford calf that has been sick is now just about the liveliest animal on the farm. This calf has had a fever, sort of a cold, according to Clarence Thurow, farm manager. The little fellow came in from the west with a shipment of Herefords and apparently became chilled during the train ride. As soon as Clarence noted that he was ailing he was taken from the field and placed in a box stall. Last week it looked as if this young Hereford might not pull through, but he snapped out of his sickness.

The convalescent is being fed alfalfa and oats. I was unable to go across the river to the north farms to see him yesterday, but Clarence remarked this morning that the calf is feeling so good that he is doing his best to get out of the stall and head for the pasture in order to join his pals.

Starlings have moved into the small silo [14 by 40] which is next to the cattle feeding yard. When I made the rounds on the farm a few days ago with Clarence we noticed several flocks of starlings on the property. Since then four birds have decided upon the small silo as a very comfortable roost for the winter. They aren't seen around the barnyard very much during the day, but along toward sundown they get together and they move into the silo for the night.

This isn't the only farm down here along the valley that is playing host to starlings. These aliens, the descendants of starlings which were brought to this country from England many years ago, are increasing rapidly and on practically every farm in this section there are flocks of all sizes. I have seen as high as 30 or 40 birds coming in to roost around a barnyard or in a silo on nearby farms.

The boys are getting the cattle feeding yard ready this week, because it won't be long until the 117 Hereford steers are brought up from the pasture and placed in the feed lot. Here they will be fattened up for the market. Getting their quarters ready is a drab job. The principal task has been cleaning the entire yard. Guenther, Sleezer, and Johnson had this assignment. They have take out 70 loads of manure from the yard and put it on the fields with two spreaders. A few hours more of work and this job will be done. Then everybody will get into the fields to finish the fall plowing. For that work the tractors will be wheeled into action.

BANDIT SUSPECTS CONFESS INDIANA PRISON RAID PLOT

Six Men Are Arrested on Holdup Charges.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 6.—[Special.] Confessing that they hoped to raid the Indiana reformatory at Pendleton and free eight friends, six members of a suspected bandit gang were held by police here today on charges of having committed at least two holdups.

While efforts were being made to connect the gang with a score of robberies here and throughout northern Indiana within the last few weeks, members of the group admitted their robberies were planned to raise funds pending their raid on the reformatory.

List Those Arrested.

Under arrest were Raymond Barnes, 33; James Horvath, 21; Charles Baker, 25; Paul Szekula, 20; Ernest Pass, 29, and another youth named Shelton. All but Pass are South Bend residents and he gave a Kokomo, Ind., address.

The gang confessed here today, following their arrest early this morning, that they robbed a filling station and obtained $37.50 here Oct. 20, and obtained $26 also in a holdup of the G. Mack Sales corporation here.

Arrest of the entire gang followed the seizure of Baker as a suspect in recent filling station holdups. On information supplied by him, other members of the gang were rounded up.

Robberies Incidental.

Barnes told police the robberies were just incidental to the release of the prisoners at Pendleton, after which the gang of 14 planned to enter banditry on a large scale.

Barnes was convicted of killing Elbert Page here in a brawl seven years ago, and was paroled later from the state prison. Horvath was accused of killing his own father and was freed after pleading self-defense. He later served a term for automobile theft. Baker and Shelton have prison records on larceny convictions, and Szekula had been imprisoned for holdups.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Pig Goes Native; He Dies by Sheepherder's Rifle

Helena, Mont., Nov. 6.—(AP)—A domestic boar, "gone native," had its gory career nipped today in a sheep camp in the mountains north of Helena. The animal, suddenly berserk, ripped a herder's tent to shreds; disemboweled his horse, and killed a half dozen sheep before the flockmaster could bring his rifle into play. He had tusks six inches long.

BIG 10 TEAMS BREAK RULES ON SCHEDULES

Sign Foes Booking Freshman Games.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Two rules of the Western conference, one governing the number of years of eligibility of athletes, the other specifying which nonconference universities may be met in intersectional games, will be brought to the attention of the faculty committee at the annual meeting next month in Chicago. It is the hope of several Big Ten athletic directors and coaches, who will not have a voice in the ultimate decision, that these rules will be altered.

STAN KOSTKA.

Under the present rule concerning non-conference games, it was pointed out yesterday, the present series of football games arranged between Illinois and Southern California, between Michigan and Columbia and Pennsylvania, and several other of lesser importance, are contrary to conference regulation. This violation is interlocked with the rule determining the length of eligibility of transfer athletes.

It Restricts Opposition.

Under the present rule no member of the Big Ten is permitted to meet in athletic competition any other school which does not have requirements equally as drastic as those of the Big Ten. It is this restriction, permitting three years' competition after one year in residence [provided, of course, passing scholastic grades are made] that the United States Military academy does not meet. The Army permits three years competition at West Point regardless of competition at university or college prior to entrance into the academy. This year's contest between Illinois and Army was the last for any Big Ten university against the Cadets.

This eligibility rule also provides that the freshman year shall count as one year of competition if the university plays a freshman schedule of games. Since the Big Ten does not permit freshmen to participate in inter-university competition, it has no effect except on transfer students.

For instance, the eligibility of Stan Kostka, Bill Bevan, and Arthur Clarkson of the University of Minnesota football team is affected since all are transfer students from the University of Oregon.

Three Gophers Involved.

Oregon, a member of the Pacific Coast conference, plays a freshman schedule in football. That, however, does not count as a year of competition in its conference. Bevan, now playing guard for Minnesota for the second successive season, is through at the end of this fall. Kostka, who, it is said, played freshman football and one year on the varsity, now is completing his varsity career at Minnesota in his first season for the Gophers. Clarkson, who came to Minnesota after his freshman year at Oregon, will have one more season after this.

Now, to follow up this rule, it must be pointed out that no Big Ten team, at this time, should be permitted to play a Pacific Coast conference eleven, or any other which has freshmen interschool competition and does not count that year as one of the three varsity years of competition. By this reasoning the Illinois-Southern California games now arranged, and the Michigan-Columbia and Michigan-Pennsylvania games are contrary to Western conference rules.

It is this aspect, more than the eligibility of three Minnesota men, that concerns all universities in the Big Ten. And, it must be added, that Minnesota is not directing the dissenting argument, although it undoubtedly would vote to change the rule.

Michigan Also Suffers.

Bevan and Kostka are from the Twin Cities and went to Oregon after Dr. Clarence Spears, present coach at Wisconsin, left Minnesota for a position at Oregon. When Spears quit Oregon, Bevan wished to matriculate at Wisconsin, but a Big Ten rule prohibits an athlete "following" his coach. Certainly he could attend Wisconsin and graduate, but he could not play. Kostka stayed an extra year at Oregon and then returned home. Clarkson, resident of Seattle, followed Kostka because of friendship with the St. Paul boy.

Last year Michigan lost the services of a track man under this freshman rule interpretation, it is reported.

The fight of the athletic directors and coaches will be pointed against the restriction on conference teams meeting other teams which have freshman schedules. It is pointed out that three years' varsity play, guarded by a year of residence, as is now the case, is sufficient.

It's the Principle.

Should the rule be changed, Kostka could play next fall and Clarkson could play for two more years. In any event, Minnesota is not concerned with these men primarily. They are not considered of paramount importance to continued football success, but Minnesota is against the rule in principle and believes it will have support not only from Illinois and Michigan, but other conference universities.

BLACKHAWKS TO OPEN TITLE RACE TOMORROW NIGHT

Tackle Old Ottawa Team at St. Louis.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Chicago's world champion hocky fellows, the Blackhawks, have their skates strapped on down in St. Louis, ready to give that city its first glimpse of major league competition when they open the 1934-35 National league season against the St. Louis Eagles [nee Ottawa Senators], tomorrow night.

The Chicago cast will include many of the Hawks who won the world title last season, but it probably will be farther from a standpat ensemble than any club ever used in following up a title winning campaign. The unusual amount of replacements is due to three sets of circumstances, the deaths of the king of goalies, Capt. Chuck Gardiner, and Winger Jack Leswick; the holdout status of Taffy Abel, defense vet, and the sprightly center, Doc Romnes; and the trading of two of the league's best defense men, Lionel Conacher and Rog Jenkins. A new manager, Clem Loughlin, successor to Tommy Gorman, will direct the revamped array.

Many New Faces.

The vacancies are to be filled by three established players and an assortment of rookies. Goalie Lorne Chabot, second to Gardiner in the net statistics last year, will do the goal tending; Howie Morenz, several years rated as the fastest and most spectacular forward in hocky, will play center, flanked by Johnny Gottselig and Lolo Couture; and Marty Burke, a husky of experience, will take his turn in the defense line.

The rookies are Art Wiebe and Ernie Kenny, youthful but stalwart defense players, and Norman Locking, a forward of some promise.

Ordinarily, so many changes in a championship setup would indicate a marked decrease in the chances for repeating. Those familiar with the uncertainties which have developed in other outfits, however, say the Hawks are pushing off tomorrow night stronger in relation to other teams in the league than they were a year ago.

Other Teams Have Trouble.

For instance, the Detroit Red Wings, who played the Hawks in the Stanley cup finals last April, will be without the services of Wilf Cude, who, it appears, was loaned to the Red Wings last year by the Canadiens and will play with the Canadiens this year, now that the Hawks have Chabot. There are other signs of confusion such as making a defense man of Bill Cook, thus breaking up the New York Rangers' famed Cook-Boucher-Cook line, and holdout and injury trouble affecting the powerful Toronto Maple Leafs.

Try Out New Rule.

Much has been said about the new penalty shot rule which will have its first application tomorrow night if the offense it covers is committed. The penalty shot is allowed when a player is tripped or otherwise fouled and thus prevented from having a clear shot at the goal, provided he has no other player to pass than the offending player.

The rule provides that a free shot may be taken from a ten foot circle, the center of which is 38 feet directly in front of the nets. While the shot is being made the players, other than the shooter and the defending goalie, retire to the sides. The goalie takes a stationary position immediately in front of his goal and must not advance more than a foot in front of his goal line while the shot is being made.

Oklahoma Prep Football Player Dies of Injuries

Anadarko, Okla., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Jack Morris, 16, of the Anadarko Junior High school football team, died of injuries suffered today in a football scrimmage. Morris suffered a head injury and died from cerebral hemorrhages.

TALKING IT OVER

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BOB ZUPPKE.

MAX BAER.

CHARLES BACHMAN, coach of Michigan State's undefeated eleven, has a record as a giant killer. . . . Early this season his team whipped Michigan for the first time in 19 years. . . . At Kansas State in 1924 his squad beat Kansas for the first time in 18 years and his 1928 Florida eleven trounced Georgia and Georgia Tech for the first time in the school's history. . . . Every member of the Illinois line was an end when he reported for practice. . . . Coach Zuppke switched the wing men to other forward positions to take advantage of their height and speed. . . . He predicts Edward Gryboski will establish himself as one of Illinois' greatest guards before he finishes his career. . . . Andy Cohen, former second baseman of the Giants, now a member of the Minneapolis American Association club, is master of ceremonies in a Minneapolis night club. . . . Promoters of professional football in California are trying to induce Joe Savoldi to return to the game. . . .

Several members of the United States Naval academy eleven which meets Notre Dame in Cleveland Saturday received a special blessing from Pope Pius XI. when the midshipmen, on a practice cruise, visited Rome last summer. . . . The party included all members of the football squad except those belonging to the second class, who remained at the academy. . . . Among the number were Fred Borries, whose brilliant runs have helped to keep Navy among the nation's undefeated elevens this fall, and Bill Clark, his running mate at half back. . . . Other varsity players who were greeted by the pope were Capt. Dick Burns, guard, and Slade Cutter, tackle. . . . At the end of the interview the middies gave their "Four N" yell, with three rahs for the pontiff at the finish. . . . His holiness enjoyed the first American football cheer he had heard, but the shouting seemed to alarm members of the Swiss guard. . . .

FRED BORRIES.

DICK CRAYNE.

The 32,000 at the Chicago-Purdue game Saturday again demonstrated that fans don't attend sports events to hear political speeches. . . . Prof. James Weber Linn of the University of Chicago tried to make an address in behalf of a candidate, but as soon as his object was perceived a concerted uproar rose immediately and continued until the professor signed off. . . . It probably was the biggest razz of a Chicago speaker since the late Mayor Cermak tried to make a political speech before starting a six day bicycle race at the Stadium. . . Leo Spitz, member of the Illinois racing commission, is in a Chicago hospital recovering from a minor operation. . . . There are three Murphys and two Sweeneys on the Notre Dame freshman football squad. . . . Billy Sullivan of the White Sox is the father of a baby girl born a week ago. . . . Ernie Orsatti, Cardinal outfielder, is planning several hunting trips with Clark Gable and other movie sportsmen this winter. . . .

BILL CLARK.

BILLY SULLIVAN.

Max Baer's motion picture contract calls for silence and bans photographs. . . . Glenbard High school had 12 men in its lineup against York Saturday for two plays before officials noticed the extra hand. . . . Minnesota players pick Crayne of Iowa as the best back they have met this fall. . . . Although he came to Chicago to see his son play against Purdue, Frank Berwanger of Dubuque, Ia., father of the Maroon backfield star, doesn't become excited about his boy's exploits. . . . When Chicago was playing Michigan the elder Berwanger was cutting the grass of his lawn in Dubuque. . . . A neighbor rushed up and shouted: "Jay just made another touchdown." . . . The grass cutter looked up from his work and said: "That's good," and continued to mow the blades. . . .

DANA X. BIBLE.

ERNIE ORSATTI.

Charley Root and his family are sunning themselves on Waikiki Beach, Honolulu, for a couple of weeks before embarking for Australia. . . They will return via the Philippines, China, and Japan. . . . Tommy Thomas, Rube Metz, and Dr. E. A. Frankel, all Jewish, recently served as officials at a Catholic Youth Organization boxing bout. . . . There is a picture of the Detroit team in the Bears' locker room to remind the champions that they have a date with the Lions on Thanksgiving day. . . . Dana X. Bible, Nebraska coach, who scouted the Pittsburgh-Notre Dame game, reports that the Panthers have exceptional strength at guards. . . . Most football squads eat breakfast at 8 o'clock and lunch at 11:30 on the days of games. . . . No heavy meat is eaten at either meal. . . . Bob Zuppke, however, gives his warriors steaks. . . . They eat only once, at 9:30. . . . The football game between St. Mary's college of Winona, Minn., and St. Viator will be played the night of Nov. 24 at the 124th Field Artillery armory. . . .

The contract for decorations along the route of the Jan. 1 Tournament of Roses parade in Pasadena was awarded last week and the scheme submitted has the names Princeton and Stanford inscribed on the banners. . . . This plan may go awry, however, for Princeton has an agreement with Yale to play no post-season games and Stanford has to meet Washington, the only undefeated, untied team on the Pacific coast, Saturday. . . .

JOE SAVOLDI.

GEORGIA COLEMAN IS RECOVERING FROM OPERATION

Boston, Mass., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Georgia Coleman, Olympic women's diving champion, had started on the road to recovery today after a delicate operation last night on her pituitary gland underneath the brain. Her surgeon, Dr. Gilbert Horrax, of the Lahey clinic said she was "doing well."

Mrs. Roof Gillson, the former Miss Coleman, who was wed secretly to a Jackson, Mich., salesman in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in March, 1933, kept the operation as secret as her marriage. Not until today did it become known she had been confined to a New England Baptist hospital bed since Friday to rest for the dangerous operation, which took nearly three hours to perform.

Dr. Horrax denied that the gland disorder, caused by pressure on the gland, was the direct cause of a diving injury, but did say that such a cause "was conceivable." However, he explained, although delicate and dangerous, the operation was performed often.

No trace of a tumor was found, Dr. Horrax said, but there had been pressure on the gland which prevented it from functioning normally.

Breadon Goes East Without Signing Deans

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Sam Breadon, president of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, left St. Louis today for a National league meeting in New York without making any efforts to sign the Dean brothers, Dizzy and Paul, for the 1935 season.

"I'll discuss contracts with the Dean boys after the first of the year, when contracts are mailed to all members of the Cardinals," Breadon said. "And I don't believe we will have any trouble signing them."

EAGLES BREAK RECORD; BEAT CINCINNATI, 64-0

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles galloped through the mud in Temple stadium to a new National Professional football league scoring record today, piling up a 64 to 0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Long runs led to the scoring, Kirkman turning in a 68 yard touchdown dash; Hanson, Carter, and Matesic each gaining better than 40 yards, and Storm and Ellstrom going for more than 20 yards.

American Association Holds 32d Annual Meeting Nov. 19

The American association will hold its 32d annual meeting at Louisville, Nov. 19, President T. J. Hickey announced yesterday. A decision will be made at the meeting whether to continue the all star game, the league championship play-off and the little world series against the pennant winner of the International league.

WILDCATS SHOUT "BEAT ILLINOIS" AND MEAN IT!

N. U. Counts on Toth's Kicks Saturday.

Students already on the scene and alumni who will assemble for the homecoming celebration Friday and Saturday are as one in urging the team to conquer the undefeated Illini. A victory Saturday would go far toward wiping out the sting of the three defeats which mar the Purple record this season.

While a Northwestern victory over the Illini would go down as one of the season's major upsets, the Wildcats' chances of turning the trick must be given consideration, despite the fact a comparison of the two teams on a basis of their respective games with Ohio State gives Illinois a big edge. Illinois defeated the Buckeyes, 14 to 13, while Northwestern took a 28 to 6 drubbing.

Punting Duel Expected.

Much of the woe that beset the Wildcats in their early season encounters can be traced to poor kicking. This shortcoming was effectively erased in the Wisconsin game when sophomore Steve Toth was sent into the lineup at quarter back. His punting turned the Wildcats kicking game into an asset instead of a liability.

While the Wildcats are not pinning too much hope on the strength of their showing against Wisconsin, there is no question they derived much satisfaction from the job of line plunging turned in by Hugh Duvall, full back, and the running of Freddy Lind and Wally Cruice. Against Wisconsin, Duvall hit the line for repeated gains which converged the Badger defense and enabled the half backs to gain on sweeps and off tackle slants.

Kawal Back in Lineup.

The return of Capt. Al Kawal, out since the Stanford game with a leg injury, is counted on to strengthen the Wildcats line. Kawal has been Northwestern's chief defense bulwark for the last two years.

Don Geyer, full back, and Eino Hayskar, right half back, are two other players who have recovered from injuries which kept them inactive for the last two weeks. Geyer's return will relieve Duvall from the 60 minute schedule he has been following. Hayskar, a hard running sophomore, will come to the aid of Cruice who has also been playing through the entire game.

Yesterday's practice, the first of the week, indicated Coach Dick Hanley intends to stand pat on the lineup which started against the Badgers. The workout which was largely a defensive drill against Illinois passes found the following combination on the first team; F. Lind and Cruice, half backs; Duvall, full back; Toth, quarter back; Anderson and Leeper, ends; Wray and Gibson, tackles; Reid and Whalen, guard, and A. Lind, center.

ILLINI FEAR N. U. PASSES.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—A wholesome respect for Northwestern's passing attack was evidenced today in Illinois' preparation for the Wildcats. Two freshman teams clad in the Wildcat white jerseys scrimmaged against the first and second varsity teams, making frequent use of passes.

With Capts. Jack Beynon and Chuck Bennis resting, their understudies, Wilbur Henry and Henry Bruder, sophomores, who have yet had no chance to break into a major game, were prominent. Henry did some clever passing and Bruder showed development as a guard.

Bob Rourke, sophomore substitute tackle, also had a chance as Chuck Galbreath was held out of scrimmage. The Illini will be well fortified with full backs Saturday as Carson, Theodore, and Fisher all played today.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

ARMY FOOTBALL.

THE WAKE regrets that a present conference resolution, until amended, prevents future football games between Big Ten elevens and the Army. The loss decidedly is on the part of the Big Ten. Army always has more applications for games than it can grant from colleges which recognize the drawing power of the cadets and the interesting football they play.

No doubt glamor attaches in the public mind to the name United States Military academy and to the young men studying there to become future officers of our force of national defense. But, in addition, elevens from West Point play open and spectacular football.

Any team playing Army knows in advance that it will meet hard football, as hard as that particular eleven is able to play. But it also knows it will meet clean football with no thought of intentional injury. Anything else could not be taught by an Army coach. It would be a stigma upon West Point prestige. No player individually could breach the code of sportsmanship without being ostracized by his fellow cadets.

Another thing opponents may take for granted is eligibility, at least those two qualifications which this department always has felt were the true fundamentals. Those requirements are scholastic efficiency and residence. They study at West Point or else they are "found"—cadet lingo for flunk—and dropped.

Army has the so-called freshmen rule whereby plebes cannot play on the regular team until after one year of residence. It has not the 3 year rule as a whole. A boy may play only three years while at West Point, but previous experience, if any, before entering the academy, is not counted in his eligibility period. That takes Army within the conference inhibitions.

West Point Exactitude.

In fraternizing with West Point officers accompanying the Army team to the Illinois game we noted two examples of academy exactitude. One was the athletic department statistician who goes to all games to make his charts. He is Lieut. H. M. Jones, brother of Biff Jones, former coach now at Louisiana.

This officer charts every play used during the game. He is familiar enough with tactics employed and signals used to designate the play numbers. These are summarized. At the end of the season the coach knows what particular play has been most effective in ground gained. Go over a period of years and records show what plays are most effective against any particular eleven.

Another example is the method of conducting the academy pool on football results, participated in only by graduates. Estimates of the score are made by each member contributing to the pool. For this purpose a chart is drawn. Each estimate is given its relative mathematical position on this chart. After the game is over the actual score is similarly placed on the chart. Winner of the pool is the forecaster whose dot is nearest in point of space to the actual result. We never had seen anything just like it before.

SMITH, MIKULAK CROSS DODGERS' GOAL 3 TIMES

Chicagoans to Battle Detroit Sunday.

New York, Nov. 6.—[Special.]—The Chicago Cardinals were given four scoring opportunities at Ebbets field tonight and they made good on three of them as they trounced Brooklyn, 21 to 0, before a crowd of 7,000. The defeat pushed the Dodgers deeper into third place in the Eastern division of the National Football league.

BILL SMITH.

Brooklyn presented the Cardinals with three of their chances, and all three resulted in touchdowns. The Chicagoans missed out on the fourth when a seventy yard march was halted five yards from a score.

Kercheval's Kicking Weapon.

It was strictly a Chicago game, as the only Brooklyn weapon of any consequence was the fine punting of Ralph Kercheval, whose artful placing of his kicks kept the score from mounting. Neither of the Cards' kickers, Homer Griffith and Doug Russell, could keep pace with the Dodger booter, and that was all that saved the battle from developing into a complete rout.

Encouraged by their victory tonight, the Cardinals left for home to prepare for their game with the Detroit Lions at Wrigley field, Chicago, on Sunday. The Lions are tied with the Chicago Bears for the lead in the western half race of the National league.

Fumbling of the mud covered ball marred the play in the opening period and when Grossman allowed a punt by Griffith to get away from him the Cardinals promptly drove down the field for a score. Grossman's fumble was recovered by Mikulak on the Dodgers' 48 yard line.

Smith Scores 7 Points.

A forward pass, Horstmann to Greene, advanced the ball to the 34 yard line. Smith, Chicago left end, then took the ball on an end around play and galloped around the Brooklyn right wing. He eluded the Dodger secondary defense and kept going to conclude his dash in the end zone. Smith place kicked the extra point.

The second session was featured by a great goal line stand by the Dodgers. It started with Schenefelt intercepting a forward pass by Cagle on the Cards' 25 yard line. Schenefelt was pulled down after coming back to the Cards' 27 yard line. Russell, on the first play charged through his own right tackle, cut back, and sprinted to the Dodger 39 yard line. Russell again took the ball and went off the Chicago left tackle to the 8 yard line.

Russell went to the 5 yard line. Then Riblett broke through to throw Russell for a 3 yard loss. On third down Neuman, substitute Chicago left end, tried the end around play again, but was stopped on the 7 yard line by Riblett. Pardonner attempted to drop kick a field goal, but couldn't lift the soggy ball the required distance. After three line plays Kercheval kicked out of danger and the half ended soon after.

Mikulak Scores for Cards.

There was considerable midfield sparring during the early minutes of the third quarter, with a 22 yard advance by Brooklyn giving the fans something to cheer about. The complexion of the play changed following Russell's punt to the Dodgers' 22 yard line. Brooklyn, unable to gain, was forced to punt and Kercheval's kick was blocked by Cuppoletti and recovered by Field of Chicago on the 6 yard line. Russell pounded off tackle to the 2 yard line and then Mikulak slammed inside his own left tackle for the second touchdown. Smith place kicked for the extra point, making the score 14 to 0.

The last quarter opened with the ball on Brooklyn's 30 yard mark. Russell took the ball again and went to the Brooklyn 17 yard line. Mikulak and Russell then went to the 8 yard stripe on two plays. Russell went over on a slash through his own right tackle but the play was called back because of a Chicago offside. Russell made first down around his own right end on the 6 yard line. Russell went to the 1 yard line on the next play and then Mikulak went across. Smith's placement for the extra point was good for a final score of 21 to 0.

HORSES CAN RUN JUST SO FAST, DOPE OR NO DOPE

Strict Vigil Fails to Boost Favorites' Chances.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Fill Old Dobbin full of hop or dope some day and trot him eight miles to town. Then the next day fill him up with oats and water and trot him over the same eight mile course.

No doubt you will find that he is consistent and covers the route at about the same rate of speed.

During the season of 1933 when it was alleged there was wholesale doping of horses, some of which led to the arrest and indictment of numerous owners, trainers and stable hands, 33 per cent of the favorites to start in 1,513 races in this state were victorious.

"Make 'em quit doping horses and the racing will be more forntul," was the cry throughout America.

Commission Gets Busy.

So every safeguard was made by the Illinois racing commission to stamp out the dope evil. Two or more tests of saliva taken from horses running over Illinois tracks were made daily throughout the season. Owners became so frightened they almost were afraid to give their favorite steed a lump of sugar or a nice juicy carrot because they were afraid a mysterious chemical action might produce something in the saliva that would smack of a stimulant or dope.

Then what happened?

The races run over the courses in Illinois this year numbered 1,565. Saliva tests revealed but three instances in which horses had been stimulated. Victorious favorites totaled 562. Thus only 35 per cent of the choices were able to triumph.

Very Little Increase.

The increase was so slight the bankrolls of the players were just about as thin as usual at the end of the six months season.

This, of course, does not justify the use of stimulants, particularly narcotics which in the past have made dope addicts out of some great race horses. The humane side of it alone justifies the expense and effort put into the fight against the evil practice of stimulating an animal that isn't able to say whether he thinks he needs a shot of dope or a drink of good cold water to give him more speed in his mile and a quarter effort.

Only Arlington Park, Fairmont Park, and Sportsman's Park showed an increase in the percentage of winning favorites this year. All the others showed a slight decrease. The figures read as follows:

Track—	1933	1934
Arlington Park	36	41
Hawthorne	38	37
Washington Park	35	33
Lincoln Fields	36	33
Sportsman's Park	39	34
Fairmont Park	39	35

There was no racing at the Aurora track in 1933. Thirty-eight per cent of the favorites were able to win in the 144 races run there this year.

EQUIPOISE WINS

New York, Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Equipoise showed a complete return to form today when he won the $5,000 added Whitney gold cup, feature event in the one day meeting of the United Hunt Racing association at Belmont park.

C. V. Whitney's gallant chestnut was able to carry out implicitly the wishes of his rider, Sonny Workman. After staying off the early pace, set by Faireno, the son of Pennant came around the field on the turn and outfooted five rivals through the stretch. He scored by a length and a half over Faireno, with Mr. Khayyam third. Equipoise did not appear to be extended.

The New York racing season came to a close with the program, held in chilly winds and lowering clouds with a fair sized crowd in attendance. Scratches cut the field in the Whitney from 16 to 6 and Equipoise went to the post an odds on favorite. He paid 7 to 10 in most books.

The 6 year old champion covered the distance in the good time of 2:06 3-5, under 128 pounds. The Whitney was worth $4,000 to the winner and this brought Equipoise's total earnings to $338,410. He now stands second on the list of the world's leading money winners. W. S. Kilmer's Sun Beau, with $376,744, is first.

METROPOLITAN POLO PLAYERS START PRACTICE

Twenty-two players reported by Maj. R. G. Hunter at the armory arena, including W. S. Everett, Leo B. Callahan, Leslie R. Ireland, Romeo Mura, Don Rice, Lou Levine, J. S. McAnulty, Russell Whitney, John Pon, Charles Roovaart, Al Bairnsfather and Eddie Hirsch.

Twelve polo clubs, six in the senior division and a like number in the junior bracket, will ride in the series Saturday night matches leading up to the western and national championships.

A new system of team classifications has been adopted. The junior division will consist of teams at less than five goals strength and the senior group of those at six goals and upwards.

The 122d Field Artillery trio of Lieuts. Art Zimmerman, Cliff Harrison and Carl Johnson, which won the 1934 western junior championship, has been elevated to the senior division.

The Cleveland Riding club combination of Bill Fergus, Hank Evinger and A. Z. Baker, national junior champion, has entered the Metropolitan league tourney in the senior division.

Hart Wins from Hagen in White City Feature

Frankie Hart threw Jack Hagen with a double cradle lock in the main event of a wrestling show at White City last night. The match lasted 34 minutes 40 seconds. Other results:

Eddie Malone threw Carl Jones in 18:4.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—PAYOFF

Owners May Ask Heydler to Reconsider

New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—It appeared likely tonight that National league owners would ask John Arnold Heydler, who resigned in the middle of a four year term of office, to reconsider his withdrawal and continue as the league president, if and when his health permits.

In any event, and for a number of reasons, it now appears doubtful that the owners will do much more than canvass the situation at their special meeting here Thursday, deferring final decision, if necessary, until the annual league meeting on Dec. 11. Heydler's resignation, accepted reluctantly by the league's board of directors last Friday, is effective on that date.

Heydler Is Reticent.

The proposal to draft Heydler, at least until the end of his present term in 1936, has been prompted, first, by the apparent lack of agreement on a successor so far and, secondly, by a desire to wipe out completely the suggestion in some quarters that the president reached his decision to resign while "under fire" for his activities in keeping the closing stages of the National league pennant race under close surveillance.

Heydler himself has been disturbed by some of the published reaction to his resignation, but he declined today to say whether he would reconsider, if asked by the club owners to do so. However, he feels that after nearly forty years of service to the league, as an umpire, statistician, private secretary, secretary-treasurer, and president, he has earned a complete rest.

May Consider Traband.

The magnates may consider the election of Heydler's private secretary, Harvey Traband, to the office of secretary-treasurer, and then ask Heydler to continue as president after taking a leave of absence for his health. Under this arrangement, Traband would take over the duties as acting president until Heydler's return.

GEORGETTI HELD IN FRANCE; WILL NOT RIDE HERE

France Georgetti, Italian bicycle rider, will not compete in the Chicago six-day bicycle race which starts Sunday night at the Stadium. Harry Mendel, manager of the races, received a cable yesterday in which Georgetti said he could not get a passport. He left Milan for Paris, but at Paris he was unable to get permission to sail for America.

Mendel immediately teamed up Tino Reboli, Italian youngster from Newark, N. J., who finished second in the last race here, with Avanti Martinetti. Martinetti and Reboli finished second in the recent Detroit six-day race, and were fourth in the Philadelphia grind several weeks previously.

Jackie Sheehan of Brooklyn, has been signed for the race and he will ride with George Dempsey, the all-around champion of the United States and 1923 sprint title holder. Sheehan and Dempsey will make up the Australian-American team. All the other teams will start as originally announced.

The Chicago boys in the race are Tony Schaller, Cecil Yates, Steve Wagner, Jerry Rodman, Eddie Trieste, and Mickey Rodak.

CLASSIC LEAGUE BOWLS TONIGHT AT LOGAN SQUARE

Matches tonight in the Classic Bowling league will be rolled at Schueneman's Logan Square Recreation, 2552 Milwaukee avenue. The schedule:

PETERSON AND DUSETTE MEET ON MAT TONIGHT

George Dusette of Boston will return to the Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace streets, tonight after a long absence. He will wrestle Charley Peterson of the north side in Promoter Fred Kohler's ninety minute windup bout. The winner will be in line for a match with Midget Fisher.

Alex Kasaboski is scheduled to meet Martin Howard of Buffalo in the thirty minute semi-windup. Howard is new to Chicago and may surprise Kasaboski, who has won several matches here recently.

Yaqui Joe, Navajo Indian, meets Ed Van Herrick. Hy Sharman and Bobby Novak, the latter from Detroit, will wrestle for thirty minutes. Ernie Dugan and Ernie Peterson will face each other in the opening bout.

Poreda and Louis Sign to Box 10 Rounds

Stanley Poreda, Jersey City, N. J., heavyweight, and Joe Louis of Detroit, have been signed to fight 10 rounds at Arcadia Gardens a week from tomorrow. Louis opened drills yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium. He will start boxing this afternoon. John Vorce, Frank Ketter, and Walter Karpinski, all heavyweights, will appear in supporting matches.

King Levinsky, north side heavyweight challenger, will commence sparring drills today at Northwest gymnasium for his 10 round combat against Art Lasky, Minneapolis, at Chicago Stadium Nov. 23. Levinsky went on the road for an hour and a half yesterday morning at Montrose beach. Trainer Walter [Whitey] Ekwert said the Kingfish weighed 208 after doing loosening up exercises in the afternoon, five pounds less than he scaled in his winning battle with Art Sykes at Wrigley field Sept. 20. The trainer predicts that Levinsky will weigh 202 against Lasky. He was at 204 when Lasky was given a 10 round decision over him at Los Angeles, Cal., June 12.

Laddie Tonelli, Marseilles, Ill., welterweight, has been signed to clash against a suitable foe in the windup match at Marigold Gardens Monday. . . . It was reported yesterday that Max Baer, heavyweight title holder, will appear in an exhibition bout at Kansas City, Mo., in addition to his appearance at Des Moines, Ia., this month. . . . The latter date may be Nov. 19.

Leo Rodak, south side featherweight contender, went six rounds yesterday at C. Y. O. center for his 10 round scrap against Pete De Grasse, New York, at White City Monday. . . . Johnny Coulon is being sought to promote shows at Merry Gardens. . . . If the deal is closed Coulon probably will offer his first card there Nov. 16, with Jimmy Christy and Sammy Musco paired in a feature encounter. . . . Harold Steinman, a co-manager of King Levinsky, has been appointed Chicago representative of Winfred [Moon] Mullins, Vincennes, Ind., 126 pounder.

Joe Louis may box Charley Retzlaff, Leonard, N. D., at Detroit a week ere Christmas if plans for Louis' appearance in Chicago next month fail to materialize. . . . Corn Griffin, Georgia boxer, will be idle for two or three weeks because of a cut over his left eye, sustained in a victory against Adolph Wiater Monday. . . . Harry Fierro, one time promising featherweight, has announced his retirement.

Dr. H. O. Wernicke will sponsor an amateur show at the West Side Y. M. C. A. Nov. 20 or 27. . . . Billy Celebron, Rockford welterweight, trained in the loop yesterday for an eight round affray with Peewee Jarrell at Grand Rapids, Mich., Friday. . . . He will depart for Grand Rapids tomorrow.

Orville Drouillard, Windsor, Ont., featherweight, has authorized George Ades to arrange Chicago bouts for 17½ per cent of his purse. . . . Joe O'Signac, Benton Harbor, Mich., and Nestor Bruggman, Catholic Youth organization 147 pound fighter, were matched yesterday to collide for five rounds at the Chicago Athletic association Nov. 17. . . . George [Jabber] Young is arranging an amateur card at Social Turner hall, Belmont and Damen avenues, Monday. F. M.

MAROONS EXPECT AERIAL BARRAGE FROM BUCKEYES

Berwanger to Be Ready, but Bartlett Is Out.

Thirteen hours of sleep for Jay Berwanger Monday night, and almost as much for the rest of the team, had the University of Chicago football team in improved health and spirits yesterday as it rehersed for its game against Ohio State at Columbus Saturday.

Berwanger remained on the sidelines during the practice, but he appeared fit and cheerful. Statistics on the five Maroon games this season, compiled yesterday, show that he has carried the ball from scrimmage 101 times for a total gain of 534 yards, or 5.2 per try. He has punted 58 times for a total of 2,338 yards from the line of scrimmage, including 22 punts out of bounds, five over the goal line, and one blocked, for an average of 40 yards plus.

Jay Can Pass, Too.

He passed 27 times, nine of the passes being completed for a total gain of 160 yards, two being intercepted, and five resulting directly in Chicago touchdowns. He has scored 8 touchdowns and 8 points after touchdown. Only three Chicago touchdowns have been made in which he was neither the scorer or the passer.

Ned Bartlett, chief casualty, had improved yesterday, but there is little chance that he will be able to play against the Buckeyes. Clarence Wright, first string tackle, also had perked up and may start.

The practice was again limited to offensive and defensive dummy drill for the varsity, with the reserves scrimmaging against a frosh eleven. Coach Clark Shaughnessy expects a barrage of lateral passes by the Buckeyes and is drilling his men to be alert for such trick stuff.

It Usually Is a Battle.

In the previous eight Chicago-Ohio State games the average spread between the scores of the two teams has been less than seven points, and only once has either team scored more than two touchdowns. That was before both schools decided to retain coaches known for the ability to turn out high scoring teams. The battle between the Schmidt and Shaughnessy styles of attack is likely to be of a different nature.

The Maroon team will leave Chicago tomorrow night and will put up at the Columbus Athletic club Friday night.

BUCKEYES DRILL IN RAIN.

Columbus, O., Nov. 6.—[Special.—Ohio State spent almost the whole afternoon today in preparing its offense for the game with Chicago Saturday. The seriousness with which Coach Francis Schmidt regards the battle with the Maroons was illustrated in yesterday's practice session when he kept the team out on the field in a drizzling rain rather than take it indoors under the huge stadium walls.

The freshman team, playing the Chicago offense as brought back by scouts of the Maroons' previous games, was checked at every stage by the Buckeye defense. More of this defensive drill is scheduled to be held during the latter part of the week, according to Schmidt.

Two Players on Injured List.

The team's condition is good with the exception of Thevoir Rees, left end, and Jack Smith. The former still is in the university's hospital. The latter took a turn on the cinder track for the first time since he was hurt in the Northwestern game.

Packed House Attends C.Y.O. Quarter Finals

Quarter finals in the fourth annual Catholic Youth organization amateur boxing tournament opened last night at C. Y. O. center with twenty-five bouts, thirteen in the championship division and twelve in class A. At the conclusion of the west section fights only eight boys in the championship flight and eight in class A remained.

Tonight representatives in both classes from the south side will compete in approximately thirty bouts and tomorrow boxers from the north side will fight. On Friday quarter finals in the Joliet district will be decided. By that time only one boxer at each weight will have survived in the championship division and one in class A. They will battle it out in the semi-finals at the center Thursday and Friday of next week for the right to appear in the sixteen title fights at Chicago Stadium Dec. 5.

The capacity crowd which attended last night's matches enjoyed most the three round meeting of Dan Villereal, 17 year old Wright college student, representing St. Francis parish, and Ed Garvey, St. Lucy. Villereal won the decision. Results:

CHAMPIONSHIP CLASS.
FIRST ROUND.

112 pounds—Johnny Noto beat Jackie Sullivan [3].

SECOND ROUND.

126 pounds—John Anderson stopped Joe Mirable [2].

Funeral Rites for Girl Fencer to Be Tomorrow

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at St. Leo church, 82d and Morgan streets, for Jo Ficaro, 1934 women's state open fencing champion, who died Monday. Miss Ficaro, who was a senior at Calumet High school, was an all around athlete. Death was caused by an infection following an operation for appendicitis.

MOON MULLINS—LOOSE CHANGE

WHILE THE DOCTOR IS HERE TO SEE PLUSHBOTTOM I THINK I'LL LET HIM LOOK ME OVER HONEYBUNCH- I AINT MYSELF TO-DAY.
DON'T BOTHER HIM WILLYAM. WHO EVER YOU ARE TO-DAY IS BOUND TO BE A IMPROVEMENT ON WHAT YOU WAS IN THE PAST.
WHAT YOUR HUSBAND NEEDS, LADY PLUSHBOTTOM- IS A CHANGE.
A CHANGE? WHY IN THE PAST YEAR, DOCTOR, HE'S BEEN MARRIED ONCE, HAD TWO BABIES, ONE BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT, A COUPLE OF FIST FIGHTS AND A FIRE!
WHAT CHANGE COULD YOU SUGGEST?

Badger Team Blames Itself for Showing

Madison, Wis., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Blame for the disastrous showing of the University of Wisconsin football team this season was taken by the players in a meeting called by Capt. Jack Bender last night, it developed this afternoon. Bender declared that "we have loafed all season," and urged the squad to "come back fighting and get down to hard work."

The meeting was called without the knowledge of Coach Spears, who yesterday afternoon admitted at the weekly press conference that he didn't know what was the matter with the team.

"I realize we have only ordinary material, but what has puzzled me is the fact that the players charge, block, and know what to do on the plays during the week, and then seem to go dumb and indifferent in the games," Spears told the sports writers.

Absolves Spears Entirely.

Other players who took the floor in the players' meeting were Mario Pacetti, Tommy Fontaine, and Clair Strain, it was reported.

The team went through its only strenuous drill of the week this afternoon in preparation for the Michigan game at Ann Arbor Saturday. Jimmy Donaldson was running at right half back in place of the injured Karl Schuelke.

MICHIGAN PRIMES OFFENSE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—The old Michigan campaign plan, to score as soon as possible, then protect the lead, is likely to be tried here Saturday when Wisconsin come to town. That isn't an announcement, of course, because Coach Harry Kipke likes to keep the details of his program in the official family, but his practice session today indicated as much.

Most of this afternoon was spent working on offense, with all the regular backs doing their share of the ball handling. John Regeczi and Whitey Aug worked as passers, all four backs and Willis Ward were employed as ball carriers on the running plays.

Beard on Casualty List.

Chester Beard, Michigan's best defensive guard, was on the bench with a leg injury today, and while trainers were loathe to discuss the hurt, it appeared that the Youngstown senior might have to stay out of the Wisconsin game. Both Russ Oliver and Howard Triplehorn, reserve backs who worked in the scrimmage Monday night, likewise were missing. They also have leg injuries.

Bill Renner, the quarter back and passer Michigan has been yearning for vainly all year, spent this afternoon on the trainer's table, having his ankle baked. Bill handled one of the sticks for the head linesman at Minneapolis Saturday and got more exercise than he has had in practice all fall. He has had difficulty trying to run, but Saturday he had to run—to keep pace with the overpowering Gopher team.

NATIONAL HORSE SHOW OPENS AT NEW YORK TODAY

New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Colorfully decorated in orange and black, Madison Square Garden tonight awaited the opening of the national horse show. The event will begin tomorrow and run for seven days.

The first toot from the coaching horn at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, calling the first of the week's 124 classes into the show ring, also marks the opening of the winter social season.

The Whitneys, the Vanderbilts, the Hitchcocks, and others of their set, just returned from hunting in Virginia and Maryland, will give the affair as much social glamor as an opera opening.

The show this year promises to break all records for entries and competition. Horses are stabled all over midtown New York—the stalls in the Garden being long since exhausted—while many will be brought from their home stables by van each day.

More than 350 of the leading show ponies, saddle and harness horses, and hunters of Canada, the United States, and several foreign countries have been entered in the 124 classes. Altogether there are more than 1,400 entries, a record for the show.

COCHRANE WANTS OUTFIEDER; HE'D LIKE SIMMONS

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Mickey Cochrane, manager and catcher of the Detroit American league champions, said today on arrival here en route to Honolulu, that the club needs another slugging right handed hitting outfielder.

"Al Simmons," added Cochrane, "is the man I'd like to get. But I read in the papers that Louis Comiskey wants to keep Simmons and try to build the White Sox into a winner."

Simmons, accompanied by his wife, was with Mr. and Mrs. Cochrane when they arrived here.

NameM'Dermott to Manage Omaha Baseball Team

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Joe McDermott, for four years manager of the Norfolk club of the Nebraska State baseball league, today was named manager of the Omaha Western league team for the 1935 season.

WATCH OUT, MOUNT CARMEL!

Sectional Prep Title Races to Close Saturday

Sectional football races of the Chicago Public High School league come to an end Saturday afternoon. Three of the four sectional champions will be determined in the final contests. Fenger clinched the south division title two weeks ago.

Crane Tech and Marshall are expected to furnish the outstanding battle of the last day's schedule. The teams will meet at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, with the west section crown at stake. Crane Tech holds first place with four victories and one tie, while Marshall has won four of its five games.

Lane Meets Lake View.

In the north section, Lane Tech, the leader with five triumphs and one tie, meets Lake View, which is in fourth place. Senn, holder of second place, opposes Foreman. A victory over Lake View will give Lane Tech the sectional championship regardless of what happens in the Senn-Foreman game.

Lindblom and Tilden Tech, tied for the central division lead, wind up their schedules against Englewood and Bowen, respectively. They still will be deadlocked if both are victorious in Saturday's games and the toss of a coin will determine the championship, since Lindblom and Tilden played a scoreless tie in their game Oct. 6.

Play Semi-Finals Nov. 17.

Semi-final games will be played Nov. 17 and the final contest for the league championship on Nov. 24. The league titleholder then will prepare for the interleague charity game against the Catholic league champion at Soldiers' field Dec. 1.

The Suburban league race also closes Saturday with Evanston, undefeated leader, seeking to clinch the title against New Trier at Winnetka. Oak Park and Proviso, tied for second place, meet at Oak Park stadium in the other contest on the schedule.

2 COAST NEGRO BOXERS BILLED ON GARDEN CARD

New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Two California negro boxers, John Henry Lewis and Young Peter Jackson, today were given the two leading preliminary places on the supporting card being arranged for the Bob Olin-Maxie Rosenbloom light heavyweight championship fight Nov. 16.

Madison Square Garden announced that Lewis had been paired for the semifinal against James J. Braddock, Jersey City heavyweight and Jackson, who made his debut here 10 days ago, against Sammy Fuller, Boston lightweight contender. Both bouts are at 10 rounds.

Lewis defeated Braddock in their only previous meeting in California two years ago. Jackson made an inauspicious start in the east by absorbing a thorough beating from Tony Falco, of Philadelphia. However, he was a sensation on the coast and the garden thinks he will do better in his second start.

Long Proposes North vs. South Football Game

New York, Nov. 6.—[Special.]—A proposal to establish an intersectional football game between the North and South was made by Senator Huey P. Long by telephone from New Orleans tonight. Long envisioned a game of equal or greater importance than the Tournament of Roses fixture. Games would be alternated between New York and New Orleans.

Louisiana State university team was advanced as the potential champion of Dixie. Long was asked if he would be willing to bring Louisiana State into the Yankee stadium in December for a charity game.

Gophers, Tigers Decline.

"Yes," he replied, "we'll accept any challenge. Who do you suggest?"

"Temple or Syracuse, both undefeated."

"Huh!" came the regal snort of the Kingfish, "Temple or Syracuse! Why, we have high school teams down here that can lick them!"

"Well, whom do you suggest then? The game would be a sell out, the proceeds could go to an unemployment relief fund."

"Get us Minnesota or Princeton!" roared the senator, "and we'll come right up and decide who is the national champion!"

Minnesota, rated by most the leading team of the country, and Princeton, undefeated for two seasons declined the challenge tonight.

Princeton, through Asa Bushnell, graduate manager of athletics, said: "It is not our policy to play post-season games."

Warner Is Willing.

At Minnesota Frank McCormick, director of athletics, said: "We should like to play Louisiana State, but Big Ten rules prevent our participation in a post-season game in New York or New Orleans or anywhere else."

Pop Warner at Temple said he was "interested" in the proposal.

"I still believe I have as good a club as Louisiana State," he said.

REPORT U. S. TO URGE PRINCETON PLAY MINNESOTA

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Twin Cities newspapers today printed stories saying it was rumored that federal relief officials were considering a post-season football game for charity between Minnesota and Princeton. Both teams are unbeaten.

The rumors added that the game, if arranged, would be played either in Chicago or New York.

U. S. OFFICIALS SCOFF.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Federal relief officials scoffed tonight at rumors from the Twin Cities that the government was considering a post-season football game between Princeton and Minnesota.

"We are interested in taking care of the destitute by making grants to the states and not by matching one football team against another," said a spokesman for the relief administration. "The whole thing is silly."

Army Squad Gets Drill on Defense Despite Wet Field

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Heavy rains turned the plains gridiron into a swamp today, but did not prevent the Army from going through a long workout in preparation for the Harvard encounter Saturday. Following a blackboard drill and lecture indoors, the varsity was sent against a well drilled scrub eleven in a defensive workout.

TIGER SUBS SHOW PUNCH.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Refuting Head Coach Fritz Crisler's charge that they lacked scoring punch, the Princeton second and third teams scored eight touchdowns against the Tiger yearlings in a 90 minute scrimmage today. The Freshmen, undefeated and unscored upon in three games, were utterly unable to stop the attack. Princeton plays Lehigh Saturday at Princeton.

STRESS COLGATE DEFENSE.

Hamilton, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Defense against Tulane's passing attack was stressed by Colgate as the red raiders went through their workout on a wet field. Colgate showed weakness against forwards in the Holy Cross game and Coach Andy Kerr is anxious to find a remedy before meeting the southerners in New York Saturday.

FORDHAM BEATS RAIN.

New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Fordham Rams, getting an early start, beat the rain that fell over the metropolitan area today and as the result got in one and one-half hours of outdoor drill before being forced to go indoors for a lecture. Coach Jim Crowley gave the squad three new forward lateral pass plays, the first new ones they have learned since the start of the season. Fordham meets West Virginia here Saturday.

PROMOTE HARVARD BACKS.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Coach Eddie Casey promoted his sophomore pony back field to first string ranking to day during Harvard's drill on a muddy field. Fred Moseley is out until the Yale game with a leg injury while Don Jackson, also injured in the Princeton game, will not be available for an indefinite period.

BRITISH ANGLE FOR REVISION OF RYDER CUP RULE

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Feelers are being put out in London newspapers with the intention of getting the United States to take the initiative in obtaining alteration of the rule governing the Ryder cup matches that will prevent Henry Cotton, British open champion, playing for Great Britain in the United States next year.

His contract as professional at the Waterloo club in Brussels does not expire until after the Ryder cup match and under the rule made at the request of the United States, only players attached to British golf clubs and residing in Great Britain can be chosen. Cotton is this year's captain of the Professional Golfers association team and will largely be responsible for arranging details of the matches.

De Paul Opens Practice for Niagara Game

Coaches Jim Kelly and Ben Connors prefaced the session with a long lecture on the formidable makeup of the Niagara team. Last Saturday Niagara turned back Providence, 7 to 0, and it was this eleven which previously had whipped Boston college.

Niagara Has Veteran Team.

The New Yorkers have a veteran team, but one of their best linemen is a sophomore from Warrensville, Ill. He is Will Petit, who performs equally well at guard and center.

Ray Durkin, quarter back; Bill Oldani and Willie Phillips, half backs, and Julius Heim, full back, composed the back field which played first string in yesterday's scrimmage.

Work on Running Attack.

The coaches are making an effort to build up De Paul's running attack which failed to function in the mud in the last two games. If the Demons are fortunate enough to have a dry field this week-end they will have recourse to their main offensive weapon, the forward pass.

GOPHERS RETURN TO PRACTICE FOR INDIANA GAME

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—After a day's vacation the University of Minnesota football team went back to work today in preparation for Saturday's game with Indiana. Remembering two recent ties with the Hoosiers, who had gone into the games as rank underdogs, the Gophers exhibited no signs of a letdown after their 34 to 0 defeat of Michigan last Saturday.

The Gophers were back in force, bruised and bumped as the result of the Michigan game, but none the worse for wear. Capt. Pug Lund, Phil Bengston and Stan Kostka and Butch Larson took things easily, but they will be ready for the Hoosiers Saturday.

Dave McMillan, basketball coach, scouted Indiana Saturday and warns the Gophers not to take things too lightly.

TWO HOOSIERS INJURED.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—With classes dismissed because of the election, Indiana university held football practice this morning. Injuries again hit the squad with Walker, full back, and Antonini, end, both unable to practice.

He was asked to pose for an underwear ad, and luckily for him he was garbed in one of those handsome new Lewis knit shirts and shorts. You know, Lewis is the style underwear today! At all better men's stores.

T. G. LEE, HEAD OF ARMOUR CO., TAKEN BY DEATH

Packing Industry Veteran Ill Four Months.

Thomas George Lee, president of Armour & Co. since 1931, died in the Presbyterian hospital yesterday after an illness of four months. He was 56 years old.

T. G. LEE.

Mr. Lee was taken to the hospital last July suffering with appendicitis. He was operated on July 28 and it was discovered that he was suffering from other intestinal ailments that eventually caused his death.

Mr. Lee's service with the company he headed began in 1895, when he became a stenographer in the beef department in Chicago. Eighteen years later, in 1913, he became manager of sales in the Philadelphia territory, and in 1921 he was assigned as sales manager of the Greater New York territory. There he served for four years, and in 1926 he was recalled to Chicago to become vice president in charge of the beef department and of branch house sales.

Kept Up Duties by Phone.

In 1931 Mr. Lee was elected president to succeed F. Edson White, who had died in a fall from the window of his home a week earlier. Until his condition became critical several days ago Mr. Lee directed the affairs of his company by telephone and in bedside conferences with his fellow officials.

Mr. Lee was born in Carrollton, O., Feb. 13, 1878. He was married Nov. 8, 1902, to Miss Harriette Jones of Charlottesville, Va., who survives him. He is also survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. E. [Jane] Graham, and Martha. The Lee residence is the Ambassador hotel, 1300 North State street.

Mr. Lee was regarded as a leading authority in the meat packing industry, and his steady rise on the basis of the merit that asserted itself early in his career served as an incentive to many beginners in the industry.

Philip L. Reed, first vice president of the company, paid high tribute to Mr. Lee's record and personality. "The business world has suffered a great loss in the untimely death of Mr. Lee," he said. "I am grieved beyond expression, for he was my close personal friend as well as my associate.

Praised as Executive.

"Mr. Lee had the respect and admiration of the leaders in the business world with whom he came in contact. He was an able executive with the soundest of ideas, and the greatest monument in his memory is the capable, energetic organization he built up."

C. J. Faulkner Jr., general counsel for the company, said: "Mr. Lee's death is a great personal sorrow to me and his loss will be felt deeply by those of us who were his associates. He was one of the most capable executives I have ever known."

Maj. Gen. Geo. W. Read Dies at 83; An Iowan

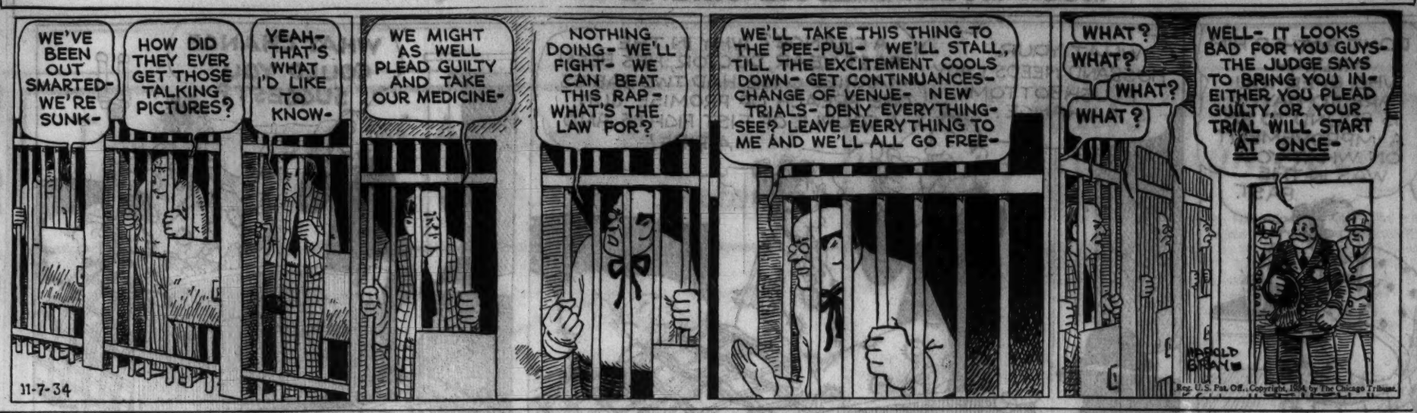
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: No Waiting



RITES TODAY FOR LEWIS M'ARTHUR, NOTED SURGEON

Private funeral services for Dr. Lewis Linn McArthur, senior surgeon at St. Luke's hospital and one of the outstanding figures in American surgery, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in Grace chapel at St. Luke's hospital. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery.

Dr. McArthur, 76 years old, died suddenly Monday night in his home at 230 East Delaware place. He had received patients as usual Monday afternoon in his office at 122 South Michigan avenue. He died of a heart attack while sleeping in his home after eating his evening meal.

After serving his internship at Cook County hospital Dr. McArthur maintained joint offices with two other noted surgeons, the late Dr. Frank Billings and Dr. Arthur D. Bevan, professor of surgery at Rush Medical college. He was one of the early leaders in the field of aseptic surgery in Chicago.

Dr. McArthur is survived by three sons, Lewis Jr., vice president of the Northern Trust company; Dr. Selim W. McArthur of St. Luke's hospital staf, and Billings McArthur.

MRS. SHANNON, JUVENILE COURT ASSISTANT, DIES

Mrs. Catherine M. Shannon, 62 years old, for 29 years head of the child placing division of the Juvenile court, died yesterday at the John B. Murphy hospital of heart disease. She was assistant to Judge Frank Bicek of the Juvenile court and previously had served in the same capacity under former Judge Mary Bartelme. Mrs. Shannon lived at the Newberry hotel, 817 North Dearborn street.

She is survived by two sons, John and Raymond, 502 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, and a brother, J. J. McCarthy of Pasadena, Cal., former Chicago paving contractor. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 9:30 from the Raymond Shannon residence to St. Edmund Catholic church in Oak Park. Burial will be at Calvary cemetery.

Wm. Hurlburt, Precinct Captain, Fatally Stricken

Returning home after electioneering in the Thirty-sixth precinct of the Nineteenth ward, William Hurlburt, 1827 West 105th street, Democratic precinct captain, died of a heart attack early yesterday. He was a deputy sheriff and was a nephew of former State Senator Edward J. Glackin. He served in the 26th division in France during the world war. He is survived by his widow, Frances.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The battle of the bangboards, or the national corn husking contest, as it is officially labeled, will be broadcast during the National Farm and Home hour over KYW-NBC from 11:30 to 12:30 tomorrow from a field just outside Fairmont, Minn. Two engineers are moving NBC's mobile transmitter to the field of action today. This transmitter will follow the ace huskers down the rows, and Hal Totten, on horseback and using a "buttonhole" microphone, will give an ear by ear report of the cornfield Derby. Everett Mitchell, announcer, will also participate in the broadcast. Frank Mullen and A. J. Koelker of NBC's agriculture department, went to Fairmont today to arrange final details. C. L. Menser, production manager, is to fly out tomorrow morning.

President Roosevelt will make his next nation-wide radio broadcast on Nov. 16 when he unveils a monument in Harrodsburg, Ky., as a memorial to the first permanent settlement west of the Allegheny mountains. The village was founded in 1774 by James Harrod, whose friend Daniel Boone helped him lay out the town.

Alexander McQueen will open a new "Nothing But the Truth" series over WBBM at 5:45 today. . . . America's first taste of soviet produced grand opera will be provided through an NBC relay from Moscow at 10:30 next Sunday morning. Broadcast will consist of a portion of Borodin's "Prince Igor." . . . Ray Perkins, NBC's piano playing humorist, is to become a radio band leader. . . . The old Gallagher and Shean songs are to be brought back to radio by a new generation of Gallaghers and Sheans, sons of the original singing deriders.

This little yarn just has to be told: Dick Rogers and Larry Hart are busy writing songs for the picture "Mississippi." Lanny Ross was to play the lead in this one, but a substitution was made recently and now Bing Crosby is to get the job. Rogers and Hart are in New York, so they have to send their songs west for Bing's approval. Recently they put a new piece on a sound track with Jerry Cooper, Columbia singer, doing the vocals and sent it out to Crosby. Cooper happens to be one of those singers who can just about out-bing Bing. So maybe that song won't be in "Mississippi," after all.

STOCKS USUALLY IGNORE OFF YEAR VOTE RESULTS

History Shows It Has Little Effect.

New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Wall street brokers have been talking wishfully about a post-election rise in securities prices, but if the stock market conforms to the November chart of past off year elections, the bullish hopes will remain unfulfilled.

Neither will the market, in event of history repeating itself, show any bearish reaction to the day's voting. For the story told by the charts, which show all of its upward and downward curves and sidewise movements for the last 34 years is one of negative response to all elections except the quadrennial national election.

Hope for Business Rise.

The theory that the market might show improved action after the counting of votes was largely fostered by frequently repeated observation in trade quarters that business had been showing hesitancy and uncertainty pending the outcome of the election.

On this basis the brokers have figured that whatever the voters' appraisal of the New Deal, trade could be counted upon to show a little better tempo with the election out of the way and that the stock market might move ahead at a corresponding gait.

Break Four Years Ago.

The congressional election four years ago was followed by a November downward movement of prices on the New York Stock exchange, but as pointed out by the chart makers, this was a stage of the general decline in values which started in October, 1929. To the rest of the off year elections in this century in which the voters elected new members of congress the stock market displayed a uniform indifference.

In contrast, presidential elections have in many cases been followed by lively markets in November.

A November rise after the election of McKinley in 1900; Theodore Roosevelt in 1904; Taft in 1908; Coolidge in 1924, and Hoover in 1928.

Stock exchange prices declined slightly in 1912 after the election of Wilson, and were irregular after Wilson's reëlection in 1916. They were down in 1920 when Harding was chosen and lower in November, 1932, following the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

FOREIGN MARTS REPORT GAINS IN WHEAT PRICE

Winnipeg Advance Is 1⅜ Cents.

General rains in Argentina and reports indicating that rust is spreading in the wheat fields in the southern portion of the provinces of Santa Fe and Cordoba resulted in an advance of over 1 cent per bushel in wheat prices in foreign markets yesterday.

Buying at Winnipeg was fairly aggressive, and included removal of hedges against export sales of 500,000 bushels or more cash wheat, with the orient understood to have taken some low grade grain. The close was at the top in the Canadian market, with net gains of 1⅜ cents in Canadian funds. Liverpool finished 1 to 1¼ cents higher and Rotterdam was up ⅞ to 1⅜ cents, while Buenos Aires was 1½ to 1¼ cents per bushel higher, all figured in American funds.

Other Grains Rise.

All grains in the Canadian market followed wheat, with oats gaining ⅞ to 1 cent; rye, 1¼ to 1⅜ cents; barley, ⅞ cent, and flaxseed, ¾ cent per bushel. Corn in Buenos Aires was up 1⅜ cents at midday, while Rotterdam closed ½ to 1¼ cents higher.

Reports from Iowa to James E. Bennett & Co. yesterday indicated there was no falling off in the tremendous movement of cash corn from interior points in that state into the sections of the south and west where the crop was a failure. Much new corn is being taken by truckers, it was said, and comparatively little was finding its way to terminal markets.

ROOSEVELT NAMES CONFEREES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—Appointment by President Roosevelt of Frederick E. Murphy, publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune, and Lloyd V. Steere, agricultural attaché of the American embassy in Berlin, as permanent representatives on the international wheat advisory committee was announced jointly today by the state department and department of agriculture. The committee was formed to supervise the working of the international wheat agreement concluded at London on Aug. 25, 1933.

The selections of today bring the number of American permanent representatives to four. Robert Worth Bingham, ambassador to Great Britain, and John Van Antwerp MacMurray, minister to Esthonia, Latvia, and Lithuania, were named to the committee Sept. 13, 1933.

Eastman Warns Rails Against High Speed Train Rivalry

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The new bullet trains are only a forerunner of what is to come, Federal Coördinator of Transportation Joseph B. Eastman said today, but warned railroads it would be a "blunder" for them to engage in a wholesale competitive fight regardless of needs for this type of service.

Addressing a joint meeting of the Atlanta Freight bureau and civic clubs, Eastman said the railroads were still the great and necessary transportation system of the country and that new competition all along the line has brought the railroad inventor back to life.

Tidal Wave of Improvement.

"For many years railroad passenger service moved over the tracks but otherwise stood still," he said. "Now a tidal wave of improvement seems about to sweep on the scene.

"There are some dangers in the situation. The fast, streamline trains have struck the public fancy. They are a splendid manifestation of a new enterprise. Undoubtedly they have their place. But their first cost is now very high and must come down, and there is a great amount of passenger service to which these costly trains are not well suited but to which other possible improvements would be well adapted.

Speedy Car Units.

"I refer to the development of light weight, speedy car units operated by low cost motors and able to provide a cheaper and more flexible and more frequent service on the branch and secondary line."

Warning against "the same old competitive fight" to place rival streamline trains in service, Eastman said "it would be a blunder of even greater magnitude to neglect the large opportunities which seem to be opening up for improvement of equipment and service in the handling of the freight trafic, which has always been of far more importance from the standpoint of railroad revenues than the passenger trafic."

Illinois Central Buys 11 Diesel Power Engines

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The Illinois Central system has placed orders for eleven Diesel electric locomotives costing approximately $1,200,000, L. A. Downs, president, announced yesterday. These locomotives will replace steam freight operation in the Chicago terminal, Mr. Downs said, and will mark another step in the fulfillment of the agreement with the city for the elimination of steam engines from the lake front.

Of the eleven engines ordered three are transfer engines which will be used to carry full freight trains between the South Water street terminal and the Markham yards. They will be capable of pulling a 5,000 ton freight train, the largest being operated with steam power between the two points.

Biggest Rail Service Motor.

One of the transfer engines will have a 2,000 horse power unit—the largest single motor yet ordered for railway service, Mr. Downs said. It will be built by the Busch-Selzer Diesel Electric Engine company. The other two transfer locomotives will be of 1,800 horse power each. Both engines will have twin motors of 900 horse power each. One will be constructed by the Winton Engine company and the other by Ingersoll Rand, Inc. General Electric will furnish the electrical equipment. Cost of the transfer engines will be approximately $200,000 apiece.

The other eight locomotives ordered are switching engines of 600 horse power each. They will be built by the American Locomotive company at an approximate cost of $75,000 each. Electrical equipment will be furnished by Westinghouse.

Deliveries by March.

Mr. Downs said that the contracts provide for deliveries to begin March 1, 1935, and to be completed by the middle of the year. When all are delivered the Illinois Central will have a fleet of twenty-one smokeless locomotives for its freight service. It now has six Diesel electric and four straight electric locomotives in service north of Roosevelt road.

The agreement with the city Mr. Downs mentioned was the lake front ordinance of 1919, a three-way agreement between the railroad, the city of Chicago, and the south park commissioners, providing for electrification of all the Illinois Central's lake front trains.

BANKS, MARKETS REOPEN TODAY

Banks, stock exchanges and commodity markets throughout the country will be open for business today after having been closed yesterday on account of the elections. Only a few markets, such as the live stock exchanges in the various cities, were open yesterday. Canadian and European stock exchanges and commodity markets were open as usual.

Treasury Asks Bids on $75,000,000 182-Day Bills

Washington, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The treasury department today asked bids for $75,000,000 of 182 day treasury discount bills dated Nov. 9. Proceeds will be used to retire $50,080,000 of maturing obligations and the remainder added to the treasury balance.

PULLMAN NET IN LAST QUARTER BEST IN 4 YEARS

Profit Equals 56 Cts. Per Share.

Consolidated net income of Pullman, Inc., and all subsidiaries for the three months ended Sept. 30 totaled $2,137,867, compared with $353,490 in the corresponding period of 1933, the company reported yesterday. The third quarter earnings of this year were the highest of any quarter in the last four years.

The profit was equal to 56 cents a share on 3,820,439 shares of capital stock outstanding, compared with 9 cents a share in the same 1933 period.

Pay More Than Earned.

After payment of dividends of $2,865,119 there was a deficit of $727,251, compared with a deficit of $2,511,618 last year after payment of dividends. Earnings for the quarter from all sources after deducting all expenses and providing for federal income tax totaled $5,209,123. Charges and allowances for depreciation amounted to $3,071,255.

The sharp upturn in the third quarter resulted in a net income for the first nine months of this year of $2,461,981, equal to 64 cents a share. In the like period of last year the company sustained a loss of $2,269,122.

After payment of dividends the deficit for the third quarter of 1934 was $6,133,376, compared with a deficit of $10,864,296 in the corresponding 1933 period.

Current assets of the company stood at $71,552,783 as of Sept. 30, 1934, including $32,213,170 cash and government securities. As of the same date in 1933 current assets were $73,104,031, including $36,440,967 cash and government securities. Current liabilities amounted to $11,243,318 compared with $10,274,678 a year ago.

The last quarter when earnings exceeded those of the period recently closed was the third period of 1930, when net income stood at $6,767,321, or $1.75 a share.

TRY NEW ACTS BEFORE MAKING ALTERATIONS, ADVICE OF FLETCHER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Chairman Fletcher [Dem., Fla.] of the senate banking committee said today he saw no reason why any drastic changes should be made in the banking and stock exchange control laws by the next congress.

After mentioning the bank and securities act of 1933, the securities and exchange act of 1934, the RFC and mandatory legislation, housing and home owners' loan measures, Fletcher said:

"My idea is we had better see what the experience of the administrators has been with reference to these acts before trying to change them. We had better go on with the laws we have without undertaking to pass drastic reform measures which would change the whole system under which we are acting."

He said he thought the deposit insurance law might be amended to limit assessments against sound banks for the benefit of weaker ones and added some persons had suggested the revenues from the bank check tax, estimated at around 40 million dollars, be used for the less fortunate institutions. Opposition to proposals of a central bank or a unified banking system at this time was expressed by the veteran legislator. He predicted, however, there would be agitation for such legislation.

"I can't see my way clear to favor a unified system now," he said. "The whole thing goes back to the original proposition of whether, under the constitution, control of all banking can be given to congress. Over half the bank resources are now controled by state banks."

U. S. Hires 10 Architects for Slum Project

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes today announced ten Chicago architectural firms and individual architects have been retained to develop plans for the southwest side slum clearance project. Another group of ten firms and individuals will be selected to handle the south side slum clearance project, the second announced on the twenty-five million dollar easy money program for Chicago.

The architectural work in connection with the southwest side project has been delegated to a major group, which will in turn collaborate with an associate group. Members of the major group are Mundie & Jensen, Armstrong, Furst & Tilton, John Holabird, Ernest A. Grunsfeld Jr., and Philip Maher. Members of the associate group are Ralph Huszagh, Chester Walcott, Frederick M. Hodgdon, John Merrill, and Melville Chatten.

Holabird Named Chairman.

At the time of their selection the architects were asked to name from their number a chairman to coördinate the work. Mr. Holabird was so elected by a unanimous vote.

The project to expend $12,500,000 of tax money is the largest single item in the Public Works administration's $150,000,000 slum clearance and housing program. It contemplates the destruction of thirty-seven existing blocks of homes and their replacement with three and four story apartments and rows of houses for 3,000 families.

In addition to the architectural groups Secretary Ickes announced that mechanical engineering for the project will be handled by the firm of Rich, Neiler & Rich. F. J. Thielbar, at present engaged in rewriting the Chicago building code, will be consultant on codes and ordinances.

To Name Other Aids.

A site plan consultant is still to be named, Secretary Ickes said, although the site has already been selected. A landscape architect is also to be named.

A liaison committee of four real estate and housing experts was also named. These are Arthur Bohnen of the Chicago Real Estate board, John Fugard, and Miss Elizabeth Wood of the Chicago Metropolitan Housing council and Coleman Woodbury, secretary of the Illinois State Housing board.

Southwestern Gas and Electric.

Investors' Guide: How do you consider 7 per cent preferred shares of Southwestern Gas and Electric company?—Mrs. C. M.

Answer: Southwestern Gas and Electric company is an operating subsidiary of Central and Southwest Utilities company, which, in turn, is controled by Middle West Utilities company. It supplies one or more types of utility service to 152 communities in northwest Louisiana, northeast Texas, western Arkansas and Mississippi. Total population reached is 309,647.

Although earnings for the second quarter of 1934 were less than in the corresponding 1933 period, results in the first half of this year, in contrast with the experience of practically all other utilities, showed an improvement over the first six months of 1933. Net income was $476,000, or $5.03 per preferred share, against $445,000, or $4.71 per preferred share. This was in the face of only a slight increase in gross.

	Gross rev.	Net inc.	Inc. per pfd. shr.
1933	$5,492,000	$ 892,000	$ 9.43
1932	5,751,000	1,344,000	14.22
1931	5,709,000	1,857,000	19.51
1930	5,005,000	1,226,000	12.85

Current position at the close of 1933 appeared satisfactory. On July 19, 1934, the company announced a reduction of 10 per cent in rates charged on electricity in Arkansas.

There are outstanding 88,343 shares of 7 per cent $100 par preferred and 6,234 shares of $100 par 8 per cent preferred, both of equal parity. Funded debt, none due until 1957, totals $20,364,000. The preferred is medium grade.

OIL PRODUCTION SHOWS DECLINE IN LAST WEEK

New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 50,650 barrels in the week ended Nov. 3, 1934, totaling 285,400 barrels, the American Petroleum institute's weekly summary indicates. Imports of crude and refined oils at principal United States ports totaled 1,208,000 barrels, against 893,000 barrels the previous week.

Price Boosted in Oklahoma.

Blackwell, Okla., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Globe Oil and Refining company announced today an increase in crude oil price from 62 cents to $1.08 top for North Oklahoma and Kansas production.

Pennsylvania Buyers Cut.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 6.—(AP)—A reduction of 25 cents a barrel in the price of Pennsylvania grade crude oils was announced today by leading purchasing agencies.

DOLLAR GAINS ON POUND, BUT EASES AGAINST FRANC

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The United States dollar gained against the pound today, the later closing at $4.98 7-16, off 9-16 cent from yesterday. The opening was at $4.99¼, up ¼ cent, and the dollar met with fair support, going at one time to $4.98¼. Covering by short sellers boosted all currencies as compared to the British pound.

The price of bar gold declined one penny to 139 shillings 5½ pence [$34.81] a fine ounce and an amount valued at £230,000 [$1,148,275] was purchased by hoarders.

Dollar Eases in Paris.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The United States dollar lost one-half centime today, closing at 15.1775 francs [6.588 cents to the franc] as compared with yesterday's close and today's opening of 15.1825 francs [6.586 cents].

LIVE STOCK PRICE TREND IS MIXED; SUPPLIES DROP

Receipts of live stock at leading packing centers in all parts of the country dropped off again yesterday as farmers stayed home to vote. Price trends were somewhat mixed, but generally a stronger undertone prevailed in the markets at the Chicago stock yards, and some species sold a little higher.

The hog market opened stronger and later moved up 5 to 10 cents to the highest price level in eighteen days. Competition waxed brisk in the "lard hogs." Packers paid an average of $7.85 for hogs weighing 135 pounds and heavier, including the $2.25 processing tax, which was the highest cost since Oct. 20. Top grades ranged upwards to $8.25 yesterday, tax included.

Strength in cattle encountered opposition and packers exerted some pressure in places. Scattered sales in the steer contingent were called as much as 15 to 25 cents lower than the high point of Monday.

"For thirty years this firm has been buying classified advertising. This experience has proved conclusively to us that to obtain the best results it is essential to use the Tribune." People of Chicagoland are accustomed to look for what they want in the "To Rent" and "Real Estate" want ad columns of the Chicago Tribune.

How to Become a BEAUTY EXPERT

What are you ambitious to be? An "ordinary" mediocre beauty operator trained to work only in the "cheapest" shops at minimum wages? Or wouldn't you rather be a genuine beauty expert, with sufficient training, practical experience and technical knowledge to qualify you for a good paying position in a high class shop?

Fees Are Lower

Unquestionably you want to be an expert and earn more money. DeLEE trains its students to be real experts. At DeLEE you will receive individual, personal instruction under Madame Louise. You will learn the really fine points of beauty culture and hairdressing in the shortest possible time.

Come in today and talk with Miss Stevens, the dean. Let her show you through this beautiful, light, clean, colorful school and explain the new low tuition fee plan to you.
